MINORS BARRED FROM RACE TRACKS

No Wager of Less Than $5 to be Accepted in the Grand Stand and $2 in the Field.

BOOKMAKERS' STOOLS GO

Queens County Association Only One Which Has Arranged a Programme for a Full Meeting.

The final decision of the race-track managers on the question of betting was reached yesterday afternoon, when they settled on the terms that will govern racing for the coming year. The question under consideration when the meeting assembled in the rooms of The Jockey Club, in the Windsor Arcade, was that of betting as a general thing. This was the first decision reached:

"At a meeting of the Stewards of The Jockey Club and representatives of the various racing associations held this afternoon in the Windsor Arcade, it was decided that no minors should be permitted upon any track except accompanied by parents or guardians."

Following this resolution the Stewards of The Jockey Club considered general matters concerning racing, and agreed on a trial of the general conduct of the sport under the conditions that ruled a year ago. The decision reached made every concession to The Jockey Club, which from its inception has taken the stand that The Jockey Club did not recognize betting. As a body The Jockey Club still declines to recognize betting, but accepts the general promise of the racing organizations that they will find means to curb public betting.

As far as any statement could be obtained from any of the race track managers the obligation entered into with The Jockey Club relates to the control of the men who may conduct betting on the several tracks under The Jockey Club's jurisdiction. In the matter of promiscuous betting it was settled that certain restrictions should be put on speculation for the future. As part of these stipulations it is provided that no bookmaker or layer who accepts a wager of less than $5 shall be permitted to conduct business or enter the grand stand, and a similar rule is made to apply to any layer who may accept a wager of less than $2 in the field stand.

The action of the race-track managers constitutes the first actual recognition of betting under the prevailing laws in New York, but at the same time the ruling hits at conditions with which the racegoing public has been familiar for the last ten years.

In the general arrangements for the racing to-day, the opening of the season, the officials of the Queens County Jockey Club have conformed with the wishes of the race-track managers.

The Queens County Jockey Club, of which P. J. Dwyer is President, is the only racing association which is committed to a programme for the entire meeting of twelve days, which will about cover the term of actual doubt over the legislation recommended by Gov. Hughes. If there should be any doubt at the end of that period the next race meet following is that of the Metropolitan Jockey Club at Jamaica, also owned in the main by politicians and dependent upon the action of the present Legislature.

On the matter of the field stands and the cheaper attendance, the race tracks, backed by The Jockey Club, have declined to act. It was admitted as a fact, however, that for the opening to-day the stools which the bookmakers have occupied for a number of years would be withheld. The managers of the race tracks take the view that they would be put in the position of recognizing the bookmakers if they even furnished the stools as of old, and so the bookmakers, for the opening of the season, will "walk around" in both grand and field stands. Whatever the shape of the betting, however, it is asserted that irresponsible persons will be under strict surveillance.

It is anticipated that the general supervision of John Cavanagh, the manager of the old betting ring for nearly twenty years, will be continued. In the arrangements for the opening of the racing season the officers of the Metropolitan Turf Association, the old organization of bookmakers which managed betting some years ago, were active in the expectation that the "Mets" again would have a big part in the government of the betting. Up to date there has been absolutely no recognition of the bookmakers' organization, and though the managers of the race tracks agree that the betting on the first day of the season will be a difficult thing to handle, it is said that the bookmakers as an organized body will not receive recognition.

PUBLIC TO HELP HUGHES.

Governor Relying on Sentiment of People in Race Track Gambling Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—The voice of public opinion in behalf of Gov. Hughes's stand for the suppression of race track gambling is having its effect. The statement was made to-day by a man close to the Saratoga track management that it might be necessary to obtain one or two more votes in the Senate.

It is this public sentiment that Gov. Hughes relies upon to win his fight. He realizes that the Legislature cannot be changed in its attitude against the race track bills unless it is through the demands of the constituents of its members.

Arrangements are being made in Albany for a mass meeting to sustain the Governor's position, to be held probably on Sunday.

Gov. Hughes was asked to-day if he intended to take any action in regard to the activity of Mr. Sanford, a State official, who worked against the gambling bills. The Governor would make no answer for publication. It was intimated, however, by those who talked with him that if any charges were presented he would take them under consideration.

William Barnes, Jr., said to-day:

"The Governor would upset the old order of things and run the State without the aid of the party. When Senator Grattan voted against the anti-race-track gambling bills he represented the large majority of the people of Albany.

"The methods of Gov. Hughes, if successful, will destroy the Republican Party and bring the Democrats into power. A caucus on the race track bills might have changed the result, but the Governor does not ask the help of party leaders, and we don't need him.

"There is no great sentiment for the race track bills, and the Governor will be unable to arouse any. The fight against Gov. Hughes is on to the finish. He has served notice on the Republican leaders that we are not necessary. That is the issue, and we will fight it out."

HARRYING HOTEL GUESTS.

Water, Light, and Heat Shut Off by Troubles of the Lessee.

Much has been happening at the Hotel Irving, 26 Gramercy Park, since last Saturday. Part of the time the tenants have been making shift without electric lights, water, hot or cold, heat, or elevator service. All of which has been due to difficulties between the lessees of the hotel, the Ruggles Hotel Company, and the owners, the Blake-Kain Company.

The direct cause of the guests being deprived of comforts and necessaries was the action of a Sheriff's Marshal in levying on a store of a coal dealer of the building. Last night the Marshal's action was presented to him in such a light that he relented and permitted the use of the coal, whereon the boilers were fird and light, elevator, and water service resumed. Behind all the trouble are the allegations that the Ruggles Hotel Company is three months behind in its rent, and has been dispossessed by the owners.

The 150 tenants of the hotel were notified last Saturday morning by Frederick C. Catlin, Treasurer of the hotel company and manager of the house, that they must pay up any arrears in rent and leave the hotel that evening. In telling them this, he said, he was following the instructions of Louis C. Fuller of the Ruggles Company, who lives in the hotel.

The tenants were greatly surprised, particularly at the short notice given them. Several who had paid their rent in advance were furious when told that they must get out. Some of them are Commissioner of Charities Hebberd, Otis Skinner, the actor; the Rev. Allen T. Tupper, Dunlop Smith, and W. E. Ladd.

While the service of the hotel was practically disrupted last Saturday night, it was not until Monday evening that the electric lights failed, the dynamos in the basement which supplied them with current having been shut down. The heat was shut off on Sunday. The restaurant closed on Saturday evening.

Several of the guests left on Saturday, but many decided to stay, and there was a scurrying in the neighborhood for candles and lamps on Monday night. These furnished all the illumination in the hotel on Monday night and last night except in the lobby, where the gas had been permitted to burn.

PENSION FOR "OLD DAN."

City Counsel Finds a Way to Save Ambulance Horse from Auction.

"Old Dan," the veteran ambulance horse of Bellevue Hospital, is to pass the rest of his life in ease and comfort. About a week ago it was formally determined that the old fellow's fourteen years of ambulance service had worn him out and that he was no longer fit for the work. Under the law, he should be sold at auction.

Dan will not be destroyed. After the Sinking Fund Commission has passed on his case, he will be turned over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and by the society to the owner of a big Rhode Island stock farm, where his last days will be spent among all the luxuries known to horsedom.

CHESTER UNDER GUARD.

Trolley Company Will Try to Run Cars To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Strike conditions became so bad in Chester to-night that every saloon in the town was closed by the police after 8 o'clock. One hundred additional men were sworn and placed on guard on the streets.

The officials of the company in a conference with the Mayor demanded protection of the police for their cars. As a result the Mayor held a three-hour session with the members of the Police Committee of Councils and representatives of the company. It was decided that cars would be started from the barn to-morrow and that they would be protected by the Chester police. If the police are unable to handle the crowd the Mayor will summon the State Constabulary to his aid.

RUN CARS WITH TROOPS.

Pensacola Line Is Operated for the First Time In Nine Days.

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 14.—For the first time in nine days cars were operated over two of the lines of the Pensacola Electric Company this evening. State militia was lined up on both sides of the streets, and although there were frequent jeers no violence was attempted.

The only disorder of the day occurred when one of the imported motormen was arrested for violation of a city ordinance. A crowd of several hundred collected and made a rush for the car, but the troops quickly forced them back at the point of their bayonets.

At dark all cars were run into the barns, and no attempt was made to operate cars to-night.

MADE KETTLE OUT OF A CENT.

Prisoner's Unique Present to Magistrate Will Win Him Freedom.

A unique plea will win discharge from the workhouse for George O'Rourke, whom Magistrate Moss said last night he should take steps to free. From the workhouse, where the Magistrate committed him as a vagrant on Jan. 14, O'Rourke sent a tiny copper kettle constructed out of a single cent, and with it a letter explaining to Magistrate Moss:

"I had no other way to verify my statement that I can earn my living as a tinker, a tinsmith, or a coppersmith."

According to his letter, O'Rourke is also an expert granite cutter, and he refers to Alderman Charles Delaney for confirmation of this statement, and besides he is so good a carpenter that he has had full charge for a time of the carpentry work in the Tombs Prison.

O'Rourke's kettle is beautifully polished, and no sign that it was made from a coin remains on it except on the bottom where the words "One Cent" still show plainly. It has a removable cover and is big enough to hold a pea. Magistrate Moss will wear it as a watch charm.

NEGROES WILD OVER FORAKER IN SENATE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—In a most dramatic setting Senator Foraker to-day delivered his long-heralded speech on the Brownsville affair. The Senate galleries were packed with negroes, many of whom had been at the doors as early as 8 o'clock. When the Senator had finished they defied all rules of the Senate by refusing to obey the command of the chair to desist from applause.

Crowded out of the regular galleries, the Senator's two physicians sat in the press gallery and watched him anxiously. They feared he would collapse in the course of his speech, which lasted more than two hours. But he seemed inspired by his subject and spoke with all his old-time fire and vigor.

Senator Foraker's address was primarily an appeal for the passage of his bill reinstating the men of the three companies of the Twenty-fifth Infantry who were discharged for the "shooting-up" of Brownsville, Texas, on the night of Aug. 13, 1906.

He denied warmly a newspaper dispatch saying he would make a three days' speech, which would be a bitter attack upon the President of the United States and the Secretary of War.

"It is slander, and, printed as it is printed, is libel," he said. "At no time have I had any purpose of making an attack upon President Roosevelt or Secretary Taft. I have no revenges to seek. I have no occasion to seek revenges. The purpose of this investigation has not been to embarrass the President or anybody else; nor has it been to make any capital of any kind, political or otherwise, against anybody or for anybody."

Mr. Foraker reviewed at length the testimony taken by the Senate Committee. That of the soldiers was straightforward and frank, he asserted, while that of their accusers was often contradictory and absurd. He believed the whole affair was the result of a plot against the negroes.

He then attacked the Warner bill, which was drawn in accordance with President Roosevelt's ideas. It provides that the President may reinstate such of the discharged men as shall prove their innocence. To pass such a measure, he declared, would "add insult to injury."

"Never before in the history of civilization," he said, "has a legislative body been invited to require men accused of crime to prove their innocence before a hostile Judge who has already adjudged them guilty, and never before has there been a suggestion that any man worthy to sit in judgment upon the rights of his countrymen would accept such a duty if assigned him, if conscious of having the slightest prejudice against the accused.

"By what right does the Senator from Missouri assume that the President is capable of such a manifest impropriety?"

He concluded with these words on the colored soldiers:

"They are typical representatives of a race that has ever been loyal to America and American institutions; a race that has never raised a hostile hand against our country's flag; a race that has contributed to the Nation tens of thousands of brave defenders, not one of whom has ever turned traitor or faltered in his fidelity.

"Faithfully, uncomplainingly, with pride and devotion, they have performed all their duties and kept all their obligations. They ask no favors because they are negroes, but only for justice because they are men."

When he concluded there was a scene that seldom has been witnessed in the Senate Chamber. The negroes in the galleries started wild applause. Foraker's admirers stood on chairs to clap their hands. In vain Vice President Fairbanks sought to still the clamor. Finally, having forced a semblance of order, he announced that such conduct would compel him, under the Senate rules, to clear the galleries. His announcement was received with hoots. Then followed even a greater storm of applause. It was not ended for several minutes.

In the midst of the hubbub the President's message urging Congress to make appropriations for four battleships was received. The Reading Clerk could not be heard, although Vice President Fairbanks made every effort to subdue the disorder. Senators crowded around the member from Ohio to congratulate him and would not listen.

In desperation the Vice President ordered the Clerk to read the first and last lines on every page of the message, and it was thus skipped through.

DOG ATTACKS LITTLE GIRL.

Driver Saves Irene Kelly from a Savage Newfoundland.

The cries of a little girl caused Joseph Tayne, driver of an ice cream delivery wagon, to wheel around in his seat and look back through his wagon when it was passing through Degraw Street, Brooklyn, near Hoyt Street, late yesterday afternoon. Tayne saw a child struggling on the pavement beneath a big Newfoundland dog which was worrying the little girl as a cat does a mouse.

The driver grabbed up a short, heavy iron bar, used to pack ice in the ice cream tubs, and sprang from his seat. A crowd of small boys playing ball in the street also ran at the dog waving their hats.

Tayne and the boys beat the dog off the little girl, whose skirts had been torn from her body, and at last a blow from the driver's iron bar killed the brute. The little girl was carried into a store, where a doctor found that she had not been bitten, although she was scratched and bruised.

The child was six-year-old Irene Kelly, daughter of James Kelly of 66 Third Street, Brooklyn. She said she had been skating home from St. Agnes's Parochial School in Degraw Street, near Hoyt Street, on the asphalt pavement, and was "hitching" on the ice cream wagon when the dog attacked her.

BURGLARS RAID RICHMOND.

Fourteen Houses Entered on Staten Island Early Monday Morning.

Fourteen householders of Port Richmond, S. I., awoke yesterday morning to find that their clothing was scattered about their yards or on their front porches. There was much excitement in Port Richmond until the town got dressed, and then the residents began to compare notes. It developed that the homes of the following persons had been entered and robbed in the night:

August Hubbell, George Pero, D. H. Muldel, and Walter Pallister in Decker Avenue; David Decker, Irving Brown, Mrs. Thomas Carker, and W. J. Fenton in Herburton Avenue; John Ruck, Jr., Horatio J. Sharett, and Charles Depew in Hatfield Place; Mrs. W. Pierce, C. H. Greggs, and E. J. Quinlan in Clinton Street.

In each instances the thief or thieves, for it is not believed possible that one man did the wholesale robbing, entered the sleeping apartments of the house owners, and gathering up their clothing removed it to the yards or porches to look it over at their leisure. Every one whose home was entered was robbed of jewelry and money, but the thieves touched nothing else.

It is almost certain that the burglaries were committed some time between midnight and 2 o'clock yesterday morning, for several persons did not retire until midnight, and Mr. Sharett was awakened at 2 o'clock and discovered then that he had been robbed. The local police believe that the burglars came from Manhattan and returned after having committed the thefts. They left absolutely no trace, and were seen by no one.

NEW OPERA HOUSE, SOME DAY

Pious Wish by Mr. Dippel Starts a Rumor That It Will Be Soon.

Andreas Dippel, the new Herr Direktor of the Metropolitan Opera House, expressed yesterday in the hearing of friends the wish that the opera company might have a new building. He also repeated a statement, which has been published several times, that Mr. Gatti-Casazza, the other new Director, would be here next week.

Immediately a rumor started that Mr. Gatti-Casazza was coming to lay the cornerstone for a new Opera House.

"I sincerely hope that the Metropolitan Opera Company can have a new Opera House," said Mr. Dippel last evening. "If I had the money I would like no better way of spending it. However, I do not think it likely that we shall have a new building at once. In fact, no such project has been broached, although it is certain that many improvements will be made in the old Opera House."

Otto H. Kahn expressed surprise when he heard of the new house, and said that he thought the improvements in the present Metropolitan would be so extensive that a new building would not be thought of for some time.

SULTAN'S GIFT TO ROOSEVELT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—As an earnest of the friendship of Abdul Hamid II., Sultan of Turkey, toward the United States there arrived here to-day a handsome and valuable collection of silk carpets as a gift from the Sultan to President Roosevelt. The carpets, which are valued at many thousands of dollars, were manufactured at the Sultan's private factory at Harika, which is near Constantinople. They were made specially for President Roosevelt, the Sultan taking a personal interest in the execution of his orders.

As is the Turkish custom, they are made in one piece, and the notable peculiarity of their manufacture is that the same pattern is never again exactly reproduced, no two carpets being quite alike.

There is no record of a President of the United States ever having before been similarly honored by a Turkish potentate. The carpets are now at the Turkish Legation, and the State Department has been notified of their arrival by the Turkish Ambassador, Mehmed Ali Bey. They will be presented to the President by the Ambassador at a ceremony to be held in a few days.

BAD OYSTERS KILL COUPLE.

One of Two of Their Surviving Children Dying—Parents Buried Together.

Mrs. Rose Bendt, whose husband, Ferdinand Bendt, a prominent florist of Newark, died in that city last Saturday from typhoid fever, the result of eating infected oysters, died yesterday of the same disease contracted in a like manner. She died in ignorance of her husband's death. Her daughter, Dora, 13 years old, is also in a dying condition from the disease, and knows nothing of the death of her parents.

Of the family of four, Nellie Bendt, 8 years old, was the only one that did not partake of the oysters that brought on the fever. She was sent to the home of a friend yesterday, after the double funeral of her mother and father had been held in the afternoon. Dora and Nellie, if the former lives, will be the sole inheritors of their father's large florist business and real estate holdings, which are considerable.

TWO MORE FIRE VICTIMS.

Bodies of a Man and a Woman Found In Chelsea Ruins.

BOSTON, April 14.—Business began to revive in Chelsea to-day with the opening of the banks at temporary quarters, the resumption of the street car traffic through Broadway, and telephone service restored.

Search of the ruins to-day disclosed two bodies in cellars of destroyed houses, making a total of six known dead. One was that of a man, and the other of a woman. They were not identified.

The work of relieving homeless families was taken up to-day with energy by both city and State authorities, with the cooperation of the numerous charitable organizations in this city.

The thousands who were driven from their homes on Sunday were nearly all housed last night, but the young soldiers of the militia, accustomed only to duty in the Summertime, found the cold pavements of the burned area anything but comfortable.

State Senator Hall of Revere, who represents the Chelsea district, announced today that he would introduce in the Legislature a petition with an accompanying bill asking for the appointment of a commission of three men, one of whom shall be the Mayor of Chelsea, to govern the city for three years to facilitate the task of rebuilding. This petition is the result of conferences between Senator Hall, the Mayor, and representative business men of Chelsea. Similar action in the cases of Galveston and San Francisco are cited as precedents.

Daniel Ross, whose home was burned, was arrested to-day on a charge of incendiarism. Ross was brought before Judge Bosson in the District Court later in the day and held for a continued hearing. In default of $500 bail he was locked up.

BOMB IN TENEMENT STARTS WILD PANIC

WOMAN AND BABIES BURIED

Banker Bononolo, Whose Brother's Place Was Blown Up, a Victim—Denies Threats Were Sent to Him.

A dynamite bomb was exploded in the seven-story tenement at 336 East Twelfth Street, sheltering thirty-eight families, yesterday afternoon. According to the police, this surpassed in destructiveness any of the dozen or more recent explosions in the Italian quarters of the city. Although there was a panic among many of the occupants of the house, three families, the members of which were at supper when the explosion occurred, did not leave their tables, one man asserting, with a shrug of the shoulders:

The tenants crowded on to the fire escapes and swarmed down them to the street, for the stairs had been blown away.

It was on a landing which divides the stairs from the first to the second floor into two sections that the bomb was placed. When it exploded it ripped out the steel and cement built stairway.

Every window in the shaft was blown out, as were all the windows in the front and rear of the house up to the fourth story. Every door on the first floor was blown off its hinges, and beneath the fragments of one of these Mrs. Mary Pallozio and her two small children were buried.

She had been preparing supper, when she heard a hissing sound. Without stopping to investigate, Mrs. Pallozio enfolded her children in her arms and started for the fire escape. She was directly in front of the doorway leading into the hall when the bomb exploded.

The force of the explosion flung the woman off her feet, and she fell to the floor, with her babies beneath her. Over all three fell the jagged fragments of wood which were all that was left of the door. Mrs. Pallozio was cut on the face and hands, and her body was bruised as though she had been beaten, but the children, sheltered by their mother's form, escaped injury.

Across the hall the door had been blown in upon Mrs. Giuseppe Signorio, who occupied the flat with her husband, three children, and two boarders.

Above the shouts of the men in the house and the screams of frightened women rose the voice of Mrs. Josephine Scarfino, who was on the second flight of stairs, ascending to her flat on the third floor, when the explosion occurred. The woman was flung from her feet and rolled from half way up the stairs down to the second floor, only half a stairway above where the bomb had exploded. Neighbors pulled her to her feet and rushed her to a fire escape and thence to the street, believing that she had been seriously injured. Dr. Simmons of Bellevue Hospital found that she was only bruised.

Capt. Shaw, with the reserves of the Fifth Street Police Station drove the tenants back into their flats from the fire escapes to avoid danger from falling to the ground.

The police found that the two stores on the lower floor of the tenement were occupied by John Trentacaste, a grocer, who opened his store for the first time yesterday, and by Augustino Bononolo, who has a bank and owns the building. When they learned that Bononolo was a brother of Dominick Bononolo, also a banker, whose place at 246 Elizabeth Sereet was blown up about three weeks ago, the police dismissed Trentacaste from their calculations and turned to Bononolo for an explanation of the affair.

The banker would not admit that he had ever received any Black Hand letters. When it was recalled to him that his brother's place had been similarly blown up he merely shrugged his shoulders and repeated his assertion.

Then the police learned that the shop now occupied by Trentacaste was run until a few days ago by Antony Benava, who fled with his family to Italy because of the Black Hand threats against his life.

Black Hand Demands $1,000.

Within a week James Mulloy, a dairyman living in Court Street, Elmhurst, L. I., has received two alleged Black Hand letters, in which a threat is made to kidnap his son Frank, 12 years old, unless $1,000 is placed at a spot designated by the supposed gang. Both letters were written in a feminine hand.

SKIN GRAFTED ON A BABY.

Bertha Zola, daughter of Isaac Zola of 522 East 120th Street and a grandniece of Emile Zola, the French novelist, spent an hour on the operating table yesterday afternoon at the Harlem Hospital. She is only 19 months old, and is said to be the youngest subject upon whom the skin-grafting operation has been performed.

The little girl was crawling about in the kitchen of her home on the night of Feb. 16. She grabbed at the gas tube that fed the stove and spilled a pot of boiling soup over her head and shoulders. For a time the little girl's life was despaired of. She rallied, however, and the old burned skin gave place to soft new skin except in a patch about four inches square on her right arm.

The Harlem Hospital surgeons yesterday placed her under the influence of ether and transferred enough skin from her left thigh to cover the bare burned place on her arm. She came easily out of the anaesthetic, and the surgeons feel confident that the operation will prove successful.

DAM BURSTS IN MONTANA.

Thirty Feet of Water Precipitated, but No Lives Were Lost.

HELENA, Mont., April 14—Hauser Lake dam, across the Missouri River, fifteen miles below Helena, gave way this afternoon with a great crash and precipitated from twenty-five to thirty feet of water over the dismembered structure.

The country was flooded and $250,000 damage was done, but no lives were lost.

MRS. EDDY ON WAR.

Head of Christian Science Cult Says Navies Preserve Peace.

In the issue of The Christian Science Sentinel published yesterday is the following statement from Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy:

"For many years I have prayed daily that there be no more war, no more barbarous slaughtering of our fellow-beings; prayed that all the peoples on earth and the islands of the sea have one God, one Mind; love God supremely, and love their neighbor as themselves.

"National disagreements can be, and should be, arbitrated wisely, fairly; and fully settled.

HOLDS 9-HOUR LAW INVALID.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 14.—The Federal nine-hour law, governing the length of time railway telegraphers may work, is declared to be unconstitutional by Judge Warren D. Tarrant, in a decision handed down to-day, and the State eight-hour law is declared valid.

The roads undoubtedly will continue to operate under the Federal law, until such time as some high court passes upon it, at least.

GOV. HOKE SMITH IS HOOTED.

Special to The New York Times.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 14.—Hooted by a crowd that added to noises made by lungs by using cowbells, Gov. Hoke Smith was practically prevented from speaking here in support of his candidacy for a second term. This is the home of Joseph M. Brown, who is a candidate in opposition to Gov. Smith, and the disturbance was created by Brown's supporters.

As soon as the Governor began his speech in the public square the hooting and jeering and ringing of cowbells was begun, so that Smith could not be heard. Repeatedly the Governor tried to speak, but his voice was drowned by the bedlam raised by Brown's friends. Gov. Smith finally desisted and entered a car for Atlanta.

As the Governor was seated in the car the Brown supporters surged about it and tossed lemons through the windows at Smith.

When Gov. Smith took office, nine months ago, he discharged Brown from the Railroad Commission, alleging that Brown was dominated by the roads. Now Brown has announced himself for Governor in opposition to Smith.

BEATEN BY HIGHWAYMEN.

Chemist Held Up and Robbed in the Glare of an Arc Light.

Martin Leemans, a chemist, 23 years old, employed by the Chelsea Polishing and Plating Company, 418 and 420 West Twenty-seventh Street, and living at 812 West Forty-seventh Street, was held up and robbed under an electric arc light at Thirty-first Street and Eighth Avenue last night by three highwaymen, who, after beating and kicking him, took his gold watch and chain and $55 in money.

Leemans made his way to the West Thirty-seventh Street Police Station and reported the robbery to Lieut. Cullen. He said his father was a chief of police in a city in Belgium.

He was on his way home from Twenty-ninth Street and Eighth Avenue when the three men attacked him. He said that nobody came to his assistance. He gave the police a description of his assailants.

MISS MARLOWE STOPS WORK.

Too Ill to Play Engagements at Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

Julia Marlowe, who is now at the Hotel Plaza, is suffering from a severe nervous breakdown, due to a hard season on the road and the notoriety occasioned by the von Hermann divorce case, in which her name has been mentioned.

Lee Shubert, her manager, admitted last night that she would not play her engagement for the last three days of this week in Atlantic City, and would also probably not be able to fulfill her engagement next week in Philadelphia. He denied, however, that the tour had been definitely canceled, and explained that she would resume her work as soon as her condition would permit. Apart from any actual illness, she is not now in a frame of mind to appear before audiences.

Dr. John E. Stillwell, Miss Marlowe's physician, said last night that her illness was not of a serious nature and was to be attributed to the exhaustion of the road tour and the divorce matter.

There is still reason to hope that Miss Marlowe will recover in time to play a Spring season at the Lyric as planned.

THE RAZIZOOZOO IS HERE.

Also the Hoo-Hoo Bird and Other Strange Animals from South America.

A large number of wild animals arrived in New York yesterday on the Ward liner Saratoga, which brought from an animal collector in Havana leopards, lions, camels, ostriches, panthers, laughing jackasses, and a Malayan bromleykite. They were consigned to a local collector.

A consignment of animals and birds for the Zoological Gardens at Toledo, Ohio, arrived on the Maranhense from Brazil. In the consignment were a hoo-hoo bird from the back waters of the River Ativapo, and a razizoozoo, or hairy-faced ape, from Kiakara.

'COL.' WARD SENTENCED AGAIN

At Age of 74 He Will Begin Another Prison Term.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 14.—"Col." Daniel S. Ward, who for fifty years has been one of the most picturesque and interesting characters in the criminal history of the United States, was sentenced to-day in the Superior Court to two and a half years in the State Prison for forgery, and at the age of 74 will commence his eighth or ninth prison term.

The "Colonel" commenced his prison career in 1863, when he was arrested in New York during the draft riots with two other men for plotting to burn the city. His confederates were executed, but Ward was pardoned by President Lincoln.

BRYAN'S BOOM SHUT OUT HERE

SHORT WORK MADE OF IT

McCARREN IN TIGHT PLACE

Report That Five of His Trusted Leaders in Kings Have Deserted to Murphy.

The death knell of the Bryan Presidential boom, so far as New York is concerned, was sounded in the Democratic State Convention yesterday after the delegates had applauded to the echo a speech by Thomas F. Carmody, its temporary Chairman, in which he pleaded for a return to the old and tried doctrines which have carried the Democratic Party to victory at the polls in years past.

When the convention meets for its final session to-day the Committee on Resolutions and Platform will bring in a resolution providing for a "free and untrammeled" delegation from this State to the Democratic National Convention at Denver.

This course was decided upon in the committee late last night by a vote of 28 to 4 after the fullest opportunity for discussion had been afforded to the friends of Mr. Bryan and a substitute resolution urging a delegation instructed for the Nebraskan had been defeated by a similar vote.

Democratic National Committeeman Norman E. Mack, the chief advocate of Mr. Bryan's nomination in the regular Democratic organization of the State, announced that he would present a minority report at the session of the convention to-day.

The friends of the Nebraskan seemed anxious above all things to have their say in open convention. They decided upon this action in the face of representations of their opponents, who urged that it would only tend to discredit their candidate before the Nation.

Only 48 Votes for Him.

If the minority vote is presented it will be defeated by an overwhelming majority. The full strength of Mr. Bryan in the convention is 48 votes out of 458. Here is a full list of his following as represented by delegations instructed for him:

The friends of Mr. Bryan made an ineffectual attempt to bring the fight for their candidate out into the open on the floor of the convention at the opening session yesterday by springing the resolution which was later defeated in the Committee on Resolutions. While the attempt was frustrated the convention was in a turmoil, which was checked only by a snap motion to adjourn, which was put through quickly by the Chairman.

The opening session of the convention, at which temporary organization was effected, was called to order yesterday afternoon at Carnegie Hall after Justice Crane, sitting in Special Term in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn, had modified the omnibus injunction he had granted to Senator Patrick H. McCarren of Brooklyn to prevent Democratic State Chairman William J. Conners and Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy from throwing him and his following bodily out of the convention without a hearing.

The absolute control of the convention and all its machinery by Conners and Murphy was even more clearly established yesterday than during the preliminaries of the day before. On the Committee on Credentials and Contested Seats only their friends had places.

No Show for McCarren.

This committee will sit in judgment on all contests, including that against the delegates of Senator McCarren and Patrick E. McCabe, the Democratic boss of Albany, whom Conners is anxious to oust from power. At midnight the committee was still in session, and it was the general opinion among those who witnessed the proceedings that both McCarren and McCabe would walk the plank.

Late last night there was a report that five of McCarren's leaders had decided to desert the Brooklyn statesman and join the opposition engineered by Tammany Leader Murphy in return for having their delegations seated. This would give the opposition a clear majority in the Executive Committee of McCarren's own organization and mean his political downfall. When asked about this report McCarren said:

"I have heard nothing about it; you must ask them. They can answer for themselves."

The report could not be confirmed through the leaders mentioned as having deserted McCarren. Friends of Mr. Conners, however, declared at least three of the leaders would have their delegations seated.

The convention will meet at noon to-day to finish its work by naming the four delegates at large and Presidential Electors and ratifying the choice of delegates to the Democratic National Convention from the various Senate districts in the State. Thomas F. Carmody, the Temporary Chairman, is slated for Permanent Chairman of the convention.

Prior to the final session the Committee on Nominations will meet. The meeting is scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning. While the personnel of the delegation at large had not been finally decided upon at midnight, it was said that the list of men whose names were mentioned in THE TIMES yesterday probably would be selected. They were William J. Conners, Charles F. Murphy, Lewis Nixon, and John B. Stanchfield.

At a caucus of delegates from the Forty-second Senatorial District, held last night, Charles T. Williams of Lyons, who at the last meeting of the Democratic State Committee sprung a Bryan resolution, was defeated for re-election. In his place was named Charles H. Ford of Clyde.

BRYAN MEN ALL GAGGED.

They Are Speedily Shut Off When They Trot Out Their Resolution.

The opening session of the convention was late in getting under way. It was scheduled for noon, but it was nearly 2 o'clock before it was called to order.

The long delay was due to complications which followed in the wake of the McCarren injunction restraining the State Committee and the officers of the temporary organization from placing any names except those of his delegates on the temporary roll as representing Kings County.

While Daniel F. Cohalan, Chairman of the Tammany Hall Law Committee, and Isaac M. Kapper, counsel for the Kings County Democratic organization, were making their arguments, resulting in the partial lifting of the restraining order, before Justice Crane in the Brooklyn Supreme Court, the convention was held up.

At the noon hour, when the convention was scheduled to meet, Carnegie Hall was deserted save for a few newspaper men and clerks of the temporary organization. A band in the gallery was playing patriotic airs and other music without any one to applaud its efforts.

The stint of decorations in the hall when the Republican Convention met there last Saturday was much commented on then. Yet the display of bunting on that occasion was lavish compared with that afforded for the Democratic gathering yesterday. One solitary American flag of comparatively scant dimensions hung flimsily festooned on the background of the stage. That was all.

The air before the delegates had gathered in any great numbers was filled with rumors of war over the much-heralded plan of the few Bryan enthusiasts to raise a rumpus on the floor of the convention as a result of the cold treatment accorded the Nebraskan by State Chairman Conners and Tammany Leader Murphy, the dominant factors in the gathering, as well as over their attempt to unseat the McCarren delegates from Kings.

Police Looked for Trouble.

In preparation for any trouble, 150 policemen had been sent to Carnegie Hall. Only a very few of these were in evidence. The rest were held in reserve in a large room in the basement.

State Chairman Conners was greeted with scant applause as he appeared on the stage at 1:30. When Senator McCarren, at the head of his injunction-protected delegates from Kings, entered the hall and strode down the main aisle to his seat near the rostrum the applause was much greater. Tammany Leader Murphy, accompanied by J. Sergeant Cram, reached his seat unobserved by the delegates and with no demonstration to greet him. The lack of enthusiasm among the delegates was perhaps the most noticeable feature of the convention's opening session.

It was 1:55 when Chairman Conners called the convention to order and announced that he had been authorized by the State Committee to name Thomas F. Carmody of Penn Yan as temporary Chairman. Mr. Conners appointed Edward E. Coatesworth of Erie, an enthusiastic Bryan man; William J. Rafferty of Onondaga, and James Norton of Nassau a committee to escort Mr. Carmody to the platform.

Mr. Carmody's speech occupied the greater part of the opening session. Under the spell of his oratory the delegates finally warmed up, and the salient parts of his address were applauded to the echo. He laid the blame for the industrial depression and the recent money stress at the doors of the Republican Party, declared that no real reform could be expected from the hands of the Republicans, and predicted victory for the Democratic Party if its leaders would stop quarreling over doctrines regarding which there might be a difference of opinion within the party ranks and unite on the old and tried party doctrines of which they all approved.

Mr. Carmody's Speech.

Mr. Carmody said, in part:

"In the wreck of our industrial prosperity, in the corruption of official life, in the invasion of home rule, in the unbalancing of the co-ordinate branches of government, in the transgression of the principle of equality before the law, in the ignoring of the doctrine of equal justice to all men, is found the primal cause of the great evils of our public life; is found the indictment of the Republican Party. It has been a party of expedients and not of principles.

"No attempt is made, openly at least, to defend the present tariff schedules. All honest and intelligent men in both parties concede the necessity of tariff revision, and that it has been too long delayed. It has been justly called the mother of trusts. Its iniquitous schedules, permitting abnormal profits and bringing about consequent burdens upon producer and consumer alike, are one of the great contributing causes of the industrial depression of the present time.

"That the Republican Party is totally incapable of righting this wrong is too plainly and painfully apparent. The party exists by and for special interests, special privileges, subsidies, tariff robberies, and political crookedness. They are woven all into the very fibre of the party. They control its voting strength. They control its legislative strength.

"No matter what President that party may elect these influences will be the power behind him. For election purposes Republicans may preach and promise reform. Should that party succeed again, no matter under what candidate, you will see the same greedy parasites at the crib.

The Business Depression.

"It is not alone to unjust tariff schedules and to the dishonest and unequal application of industrial methods that business depression is due and that the discouraged and heartless feeling of the industrial world may be attributed.

"The party seems incapable of comprehending the doctrine of equal and exact justice to all men. It seems incapable of understanding the application of the elementary principles of free government. Instead of correcting existing wrongs, its attempt to do so has but aggravated the evil. In attempting to correct, they kill. In attempting to restrain the voracity of coporate mismanagement, they have destroyed legitimate values and discouraged honest enterprise. In attempting to destroy crime, they punish innocence. In trying to prevent fraud, they have closed up the avenues of industrial development.

"Nothing on earth can defeat the Democratic Party in this State and Nation in the coming campaign but false and faltering Democrats.

State Chairman Conners has never forgiven McCarren for knifing Hearst in Kings County in the last Gubernatorial campaign. Conners used the speech of the temporary Chairman to pay off a little part of his grudge against the Brooklyn statesman.

"We have a great many," said the speaker, "who profess some of our principles, but who vote against our candidates. We have any number who profess to act with us at conventions who vote against us in elections. What we want is not January Democrats, but December Democrats."

At this there was applause and howls from the delegates. Chairman Conners looked daggers at McCarren from the rostrum and grinned. McCarren seemed undisturbed. His face was as sphinx-like as ever.

Applause for McCarren.

After Mr. Carmody had finished speaking he took up the routine of the open session, beginning with a roll call of the 450 delegates. There was great applause when McCarren's name was reached, and it seemed to come from all parts of the hall, except the section where the Tammany braves were seated with their leader. The latter got applause, but it was not so general.

Ex-Borough President Cassidy of Queens offered a resolution providing for the adoption of the rules of the Assembly for the convention. This was passed. Then W. H. Farley, a delegate from Broome County, presented one providing that all resolutions except such as referred to the routine of the convention be referred without preliminary discussion to the Committee on Resolutions.

Chairman Carmody put this through in a hurry. Once passed, it prevented the Bryan enthusiasts from making a fight for their candidate on the floor of the convention, as they had expected. Augustus Thomas, playwright and President of the Bryan League, was on the floor, but the fight was to have been led by former District Attorney Edward E. Coatesworth of Erie County, who is a delegate.

The Bryanites had been caught napping. The moment they realized what had happened they bobbed up in all parts of the hall and clamored for recognition, but Chairman Carmody had already entertained a resolution offered by Charles N. Bulger of Oswego and ordered the Secretary to read it.

Mr. Bulger's resolution provided for a Committee on Credentials and Contested Seats, with one member from each Senatorial district to be selected by the delegates from such district. The resolutions provided that no member of the committee should have a right to vote on questions in any way affecting his title to a seat in the convention. This will make it impossible for McCarren and McCabe, their delegates, and others involved in contests to do any good for themselves by the use of their own votes.

Senator Thomas F. Grady offered the resolution creating the Committee on Resolutions and Platform. Several other resolutions relating to routine and procedure were put through, and then Mr. Coatesworth and the other Bryan men started an attempt to break the gag rule.

Bryan Men Suppressed.

Mr. Coatesworth began the fight by sending to the rostrum a resolution indorsing Mr. Bryan and calling for a delegation to the National Convention instructed for him.

The Bryan resolution follows:

Whereas, It is the universal sentiment that the Hon. William Jennings Bryan be the choice of the Democratic Party as its nominee for President of the United States, and

Whereas, Several counties in this State have instructed delegates elected to this convention to vote for resolutions indorsing him as the party's standard bearer, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the delegates elected at this convention to represent the State at the National Convention to be held at Denver, Col., July 7, 1908, be and they are hereby instructed to vote for the Hon. William Jennings Bryan as the Democratic nominee for President of the United States.

"Referred to the Committee on Resolutions," said Chairman Carmody.

"Mr. Chairman," shouted Mr. Coatesworth and a dozen other delegates in chorus, in an effort to gain recognition. By that time, however, Secretary Thomas F. Smith of Tammany Hall had walked down the aisle and handed up to the Chairman a set of slips containing the Tammany selections for the various committees. Chairman Carmody ordered Secretary Mason of the convention to read off the names, and pounded the desk with his gavel in an attempt to restore quiet.

At this point the convention was in a turmoil. Policemen attracted by the din poked their heads through every doorway. James Pierce, an elderly delegate from Monroe, who several times had sought to get recognition, ran down the aisle shaking his fist at Conners, Carmody et al. on the platform, with louds demands that he be heard, and that the Bryan resolution be discussed in open convention.

It was all to no purpose. A delegate jumped up and put a motion to adjourn. Chairman Carmody put the question at once. There was a chorus of "Ayes," and the final gavel fell with the angry protests of the Bryan men still ringing through the hall.

The convention was adjourned until noon to-day.

McCARREN ACCUSED OF FRAUD.

His Foes Charge His Lieutenants with Stuffing Ballot Boxes.

Wholesale frauds at the recent primary elections in Brooklyn were charged against the McCarrenites last night when the Committee on Contested Seats of the Democratic State Convention began the consideration of the contests filed in Kings County. The McCarren inspectors were charged with having stuffed ballot boxes and using every device known to politics to carry the elections in the various districts.

Each of the charges was backed up by affidavits. A big sheaf of them was put in in connection with the contest in each of the sixteen Assembly districts.

McCarren contended before the meeting that he did not know what the complaints consisted of. He appeared considerably surprised when he found out how circumstantial the statements of wrongdoing on the part of his lieutenants were.

Having effected organization at a brief session held early in the afternoon the committee got down to business in the Hotel Victoria about 6 o'clock, with every prospect of a long, hard fight ahead of it.

The afternoon session was notable only in that McCarren succeeded in substituting his lawyer and two trusted lieutenants for three men not considered as available for the purpose in hand. The substitutions were: Isaac M. Kapper for Conrad Hasenflug, John J. Fitzgerald for John B. Connelly, and P. H. Quinn for Arthur Somers.

Charles M. Bulger, the Chairman, and John T. Maher, the Secretary, were opposed to the substitutions. The Secretary asserted that the substitution papers could not be accepted as they were not properly signed.

McCarren on the Alert.

"Who do you want to sign them?" asked McCarren. "I'll sign it. I'm Chairman of the Executive Committee over there."

Mr. Bulger and Mr. Maher still hesitated, but Daniel F. Cohalan, Murphy's lieutenant, moved that the substitutions be accepted. This was done, and the committee adjourned until 5:30.

The whist clubroom on the second floor of the hotel was jammed to suffocation at 5:30. State Chairman Conners passed about seeing that the fences were in good condition. Chairman Bulger had a lot of trouble getting seats for the committeemen. Meanwhile McCarren, whose political career was supposed to be trembling in the balance, sat in a corner reading a paper and looking sleepy.

At the outset it was moved and carried that the contests be taken up by counties and in alphabetical order. This made it evident that the McCarren contests would be taken up last. There were nine contests to be considered ahead of Kings—three in Albany, one in Chautauqua, one in Erie, one in Herkimer, two in Jefferson, and one in Queens.

McCarren made the suggestion that a limit of half an hour for each side of each contest be set. This meant that if each seated delegation and contestant took the limit of time it would be nine hours later, or 3 o'clock in the morning, before the McCarren contests were reached, and sixteen hours later, or 7 o'clock to-night, before all those were heard.

The Albany contests were first taken up. Appearing for the contestants in the First Assembly District, Peter A. Delaney recited the wrongs he said the Ten Eyck faction had suffered at the hands of the McCabe faction in the last primaries. He charged that the McCabe men, working in conjunction with the Republican administration, had first failed to send out notices to include the Democratic electors in the outlying sections, and that then the returns had been changed to show the McCabe faction a winner, when the reverse was the case.

William V. Cooke, the man who nominated Hearst at Buffalo, presented the case for the McCabe faction. He belittled the convention the contestants had held, and talked of the "lady-like" behavior of the Ten Eyck men. At one point Mr. Ten Eyck exclaimed:

"That statement is absolutely false."

"I expected the gentleman would lose control of himself. That's his usual condition," retorted Mr. Cooke.

The contests in Erie and Jefferson were postponed, and the fight in the First Chautauqua District was taken up. Deputy Attorney General F. H. Mott was the contestant against the faction which has the backing of James C. Bennett of Silver Creek, State Committeeman. The delegation which was slated by Conners represented the faction of which Frank F. Sherman is the leader. The trouble originated in an alleged "snap" caucus at Watertown.

The War in Kings.

The contests in Herkimer and Jefferson were postponed, and at 9 o'clock the first contest in Kings County was taken up. George V. S. Williams, Chairman of the Kings County Democratic Party, the anti-McCarren faction, made a statement in opening the case. He charged wholesale ballot box stuffing and the voting of entire enrollment. These things, he said, would be proved, and it would be established, too, that the names of men long since dead had been voted on, and in some cases criminals had been placed in charge of the ballot boxes.

After a brief wrangle the contest in the Second District was taken up. Mr. Williams stated that in several districts the number of votes recorded exceeded the number on the enrollment list. In the Third Election District, for instance, there were 318 votes though only 298 names on the rolls. There were like instances in the Fourth, Eighth, and Twelfth Election Districts, and Mr. Williams put in affidavits in support of his statements.

Mr. Williams put in evidence an affidavit of one Henry Heckman, an inspector at the primaries, who swore that voters had frequently handed him several ballots at once. He presented a bundle of affidavits in which watchers and voters testified to wrongdoing at the polling places, which consisted of stuffing the boxes, wrong counting of votes, mismarking the enrollment books, and about everything else known to primary politics.

There was a wrangle lasting two and a half hours over the contests in the Second Assembly District. Mr. Williams then delved into the alleged frauds in the First District.

It became evident before midnight that there was no possibility of hearing all the contests, even if the committee sat all night. As no vote on any contest would be taken until all the evidence was in it was apparent that it would be out of the question to determine whether McCarren's delegates were to be ousted or not. It looked as if they would be, however.

McCARREN WRIT DISMISSED.

Court Vacates Blanket Injunction Against Murphy and Conners.

On the application of Daniel F. Cohalan, Chairman of the Tammany Law Committee, Justice Crane of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday vacated the blanket injunction obtained by Senator Patrick H. McCarren with a view of preventing the Murphy-Conners combination from ousting McCarren's delegates from the convention, excepting the clause which demands that the names of the McCarren delegates shall be placed on the temporary roll. This condition had already been complied with by the State Committee at its meeting on Monday evening.

Mr. Cohalan in arguing the case before Justice Crane, gravely questioned the right of any court to issue such a sweeping injunction.

"If the court has this right," said Mr. Cohalan, "it might even go ahead and direct which names shall go on the roll. In the meantime we are prevented from holding our convention, and many of our delegates will return home unless we get this business over with in a hurry."

Isaac M. Kapper, who appeared for the Kings County Democratic organization, declared that Murphy and Conners had been sitting in judgment on McCarren's case in advance.

"The hostile forces of the convention can not and will not do justice to these plaintiffs," said Mr. Kapper.

Justice Crane said that inasmuch as the names of the McCarren delegates had been put on the temporary roll, he would vacate his order. He said if the delegates were disqualified without a fair hearing recourse could be had to the courts again.

Bryan Shut-Out Complete.

After having been denied their say on the floor of the convention the advocates of Mr. Bryan's nomination and of an instructed delegation took their case before the Committee on Resolutions, of which Senator Thomas F. Grady was made Chairman. Before the committee the Bryan boom in this State received its death blow.

After organizing the committee appointed a sub-committee of seven to consider the Bryan resolution handed in by Edward E. Coatesworth, head of the Erie County delegation. The sub-committee was composed of Senator Grady, John F. Brennan of Westchester, Albert Hessberg of Albany, H. A. Reeves of Suffolk, William Townsend of Oneida, Controller Metz, and Bryan's stanch friend, Norman E. Mack of Buffalo.

The committee stood 28 to 4 against the Bryan resolution and for the resolution providing for an uninstructed delegation.

GOV. GLENN WITHDRAWS.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 14.—Gov. Glenn to-day issued a statement in which he says he retires from the United States Senatorial race for sake of harmony, and that he will support Senator Overman.

He declares that he is sacrificing the cherished ambition of his life; that he realizes this is the flood tide of his political career, and he loses all his ventures and surrenders forever his ambition.

"But better than holding office is duty," he says. He takes this course with no regret, but for the "public good" inasmuch as in the race against Overman the contest would be fierce. He says he is enlisting now for a big temperance victory in May and in November to battle for State rights.

PASS PRIMARY BALLOT BILL.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14. — Assemblyman Francis's bill providing for an official primary ballot was passed by the Assembly to-day. By the provisions of the bill all primary tickets would appear upon a blanket ballot supplied at county expense.

A similar measure was passed by the Assembly last year, but it failed to receive the approval of the Senate.

ELECTION CASES ON TRIAL.

Smallen and St. John Are Accused of Abetting False Registration.

The trial of Cornelius Smallen and John J. St. John, both officers of the Minnetonka Club, a Tammany organization, with headquarters at Eighth Avenue and 116th Street, on the charge that in the last election they aided and abetted false registration in the Nineteenth Assembly District, was begun yesterday before Judge Foster in General Sessions.

The greater part of the day was occupied in getting a jury.

Fail to Indorse Taft.

LAWRENCE, Mass., April 14.—Uninstructed delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention at Chicago were elecetd in the Third and Fifth Massachusetts District Republican Convention here to-day. Resolutions indorsing the Presidential candidacy of Secretary of War William H. Taft were tabled.

BINGHAM SHAKES UP POLICE.

Miles O'Reilly Made Acting Inspector and W. J. Lahey Promoted to Captain.

Police Commissioner Bingham announced a number of promotions and transfers yesterday, giving no reasons, however, for any of them. The most important promotion was that of Capt. Miles O'Reilly to be Acting Inspector in charge of the Eleventh Inspection District. O'Reilly is a veteran of the civil war and has been a policeman since 1874.

Acting Captain William J. Lahey of the Hamilton Avenue Station, Brooklyn, was made a Captain and assigned to the same station, while Lieut. Henry of the Detective Bureau was made an Acting Captain and assigned to the Mercer Street Station.

The changes are to take effect at 8 o'clock this morning.

HIGHER RAILWAY FARES.

Long Island Road to Increase Rate to Manhattan Beach and Rockaway.

The Long Island Railroad has filed with the Public Service Commission new schedules of fares on its Manhattan Beach and Rockaway Divisions. The rate is up to 3 cents a mile from 2½ cents an excursion mile.

The fare from Long Island City to Manhattan Beach will be 33 cents each way instead of 23 cents as heretofore. On the Rockaway Beach Division several reductions of fare to intermediate points are included in the new schedules.

Taft to Talk on Red Cross Here.

Secretary of War William H. Taft yesterday arranged to come to this city on April 28 to be the principal speaker at the Waldorf-Astoria that afternoon before the friends of the New York State Branch of the Red Cross. As President of the National Organization, Secretary Taft is particularly interested in the special work of pitching tuberculosis camps, lecturing to mothers on home care and enlisting young men for expert emergency aid which is being pushed by the Red Cross in this State. William Cary Sanger will preside.

Lincoln Steffens to Study Sociology.

Lincoln Steffens, who, when connected with McClure's Magazine, gained for himself the nickname of "muckraker," and later associated himself with the American Magazine, has now withdrawn from active association with the latter. He will devote himself to sociological studies for several years. Mr. Steffens still retains his stock in the American Magazine.

DELAWARE DECLARES FOR JUDGE GRAY

Delegation Instructed to Support Him Despite His Letter of Protest.

UNIT RULE IS ADOPTED

Platform Declares Unfaltering Devotion to State Rights and Demands Immediate Tariff Revision.

DOVER Del., April 14.—Despite the written declaration of Judge George Gray that he could not under any circumstances consent to have the delegates instructed for him, the Delaware Democratic State Convention to-day officially placed his name before the Democracy of the country for that party's nomination for President of the United States.

Judge Gray's declaration, contained in a letter to Thomas F. Bayard, Chairman of the State Committee, came as a surprise to the delegates, but they did not hesitate to place his name in the field. The mention of his name was enthusiastically received.

Before the Resolutions Committee was called up for its report, State Chairman Bayard presented Judge Gray's letter. It is in part as follows:

It would indeed be a proud distinction to be the standard bearer of the Democratic Party at this time and for such a cause. There are many reasons, however, why such a distinction is outside the range of my ambition, and these reasons compel me to say that I am unwilling that the delegates from this State to the Denver Convention be instructed for me, as I cannot, under any circumstances, consent thereto. You will therefore please convey my wishes in this respect to the convention, and express to it my most positive and emphatic request that delegates to be elected shall not be instructed to present my name to the Denver convention. In saying this I am not unmindful, as I have already assured you, of the long-continued kindness and partiality of my friends in the Democratic Party of this State, but I owe it to myself and to them to speak with perfect frankness, as I have done.

The motion to adopt the resolution presenting Gray's name was received with prolonged cheering.

The platform was in part as follows:

"We declare our attachment to our dual system of government, consisting of sovereign States, which are the surest bulwark against anti-republican tendencies at home, indissolubly united in a general government which is the sheet anchor of our safety abroad.

"The local self-government by which power to manage their own affairs is most efficiently retained in the hands of the people can only be maintained in the future, as it has been in the past, by unfaltering devotion to the rights of the States as reserved to them in the Federal Constitution.

"The present tariff law, enacted by the Republican Party, has increased the cost of the necessities of life to the people; it has burdened many industries in order to subsidize a few, and has promoted the formation of gigantic industrial trusts and fostered the establishment of odious monopolies. We demand the immediate revision of the tariff by the friends of the people."

The delegation was instructed to vote as a unit on all nominations and all other propositions.

The delegation is as follows:

JOHNSON SPEAKS IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Gov. John A. Johnson of Minnesota arrived to-day from Louisville, where he delivered an address last night. At noon he was entertained at luncheon by the Chicago Press Club and delivered a short address. During the afternoon he met the members of the Chicago Advertisers' Association and spoke a second time.

Gov. Johnson to-day declared emphatically that he and his friends are taking no part in the factional fight in this State between the friends and opponents of Roger C. Sullivan, the National Committeeman. He said he was not attempting to influence in any manner the personnel of the delegation that will be sent from this State to the Denver Convention.

In his address before the Press Club, Gov. Johnson emphasized the belief expressed last week in his speech at Shiloh, Tenn., that the centralization of power at Washington is the chief danger that threatens this country. He made a strong plea for adherence to the old forms of the Constitution and State rights. He said:

"There is a stretching out in various ways to give greater power. The situation is a dangerous one; it is a tendency to depart from the old Constitutional forms, and this is a dangerous menace to our Nation. Rome went through the same process. She wanted more power and instead of going forward she went backward. We must keep our faces ever toward the east and march on."

Gov. Johnson left for home at 6:30 o'clock.

Suppose the fixed expense in a given department of your business amounts to a certain sum.

Suppose we can show you a method of saving from 5 to 25 per cent. of that sum.

Isn't our story at least worth hearing — when it costs you nothing to hear it?

WHAT'S POLITICAL ECONOMY?

Dr. Slicer Forced to Explain That It Isn't the Household Kind.

The Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, minister of All Souls' Church, ran afoul of "political economy" while addressing a meeting of the Woman's Forum yesterday morning on "Practical Philanthropy." In his address he arranged the motives which led people into philanthropic work under three heads—first, the desire for the beneficial results "returning upon the doer, like a pleasant boomerang"; second, the motive of self-defense, "as men build dikes to keep out the threatening sea," and, third, the passion to be useful.

Thus far Mr. Slicer proceeded with the entire approval of the audience of which the Woman's Forum is composed. Then he went on to say that although "women were well acquainted with domestic economy, they did not know much of political economy." From that moment the audience straightened itself and began to follow closely. An elderly woman next to a reporter in the rear of the room moved uneasily in her chair, then asked the reporter in a stage whisper:

"What is political economy? You're a writer. You ought to know."

As soon as the speaker had finished with "Practical Philanthropy" the presiding officer, Miss Helen Boswell, called for questions. In the front up jumped a member who flung out: "I'd like to ask Mr. Slicer if women don't know anything about economy, who does?" The paradise plumes on the indignant member's hat fairly quivered with excitement.

Mr. Slicer mildly explained that he had purposely distinguished domestic economy from political, and he still maintained that women were not versed in the latter.

The member who had the floor paused only a moment. "Mr. speaker," she said, "I heard no such distinction made. I have not written down any such distinction in my notes, and I'm a very careful woman. If any had been made I should have noted it. I'm sure none of the ladies heard any such division."

A loud assenting chorus from the rest of the audience, however, affirmed that Mr. Slicer had separated economy political from economy domestic.

Meanwhile the elderly woman in the rear had grown more restless. At this point she rose in all her dignity.

"Madame Chairman," she said, "I know a great deal about domestic and practical economy, although I haven't kept house and brought up children and so forth, and so on, but, Madame Chairman, I should like to ask, and I think many of the ladies would join with me in asking Mr. Slicer, what is political economy?"

After this question had been answered the second speaker of the morning, Miss Helen Marot, secretary of the Women's Trades Unions, told of the latest move to aid the unemployed. Most of the unemployed women and girls, she said, are stenographers or operators of machines and can do nothing else. There is no demand for these, yet there are continual requests for women to sew by the hour, to renovate wardrobes, to assist in serving luncheons, and to wash fine laces.

A room has now been obtained at the West Side Neighborhood House and these girls are being taught to do these things. The society guarantees to supply trained help in any line it undertakes to fill.

Miss Marot feels that this new training department will be of the greatest assistance to the hundreds of unemployed who have never learned anything outside of one particular trade, and that at present overcrowded.

COUNTRY'S WASTE RESOURCES

Engineers in Meeting Discuss Means of Conserving Them.

In the auditorium of the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, a meeting of engineers, under the auspices of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, was held last night to consider the general subject of the conservation of the natural resources of the country. The meeting was arranged for in response to the invitation of President Roosevelt to the National Engineering Societies to co-operate in securing the ends desired.

Calvin W. Rice, Secretary of the Mechanical Engineering Society, read a letter he had received from President Roosevelt indorsing the objects of the society and regretting that he could not be present last night.

Dr. W. J. McGee, chief of the Bureau of Soils and Secretary of the Inland Waterways Commission, was the first speaker. He said, in part:

"The ancients defied four elements—earth, air, water, and fire. Our Revolutionary ancestors concentrated on one, earth. In modern times we recognize other values. Let us consider the living water. There is an average rainfall in the United States of thirty inches annually. All of our living water is from this. That is to say, about two hundred trillion cubic feet a year, or about ten lower Mississippis. That is all there is. Just as soon as our population and industries have increased to the consumption of that much, we have reached the limit of our development.

"One of the losses confronting the people of the United States is the loss of ground water. Too much flows away in torrents. There was a time when homesteads in this Empire State were located by springs. The springs have now gone. Geologists say that the law of soil is to increase in fertility from year to year. The conviction of every farmer in the United States is that it is the law for it to run poor. In the United States between one and two thousand millions of tons of rich soil are loosened and carried away annually. The methods of the farmer are such that the cream of his soil is swept away.

"The time has come to take these things seriously."

W. F. M. Goss, Dean of the College of Engineering of the University of Illinois, and a member of the Government Advisory Board on Fuels, spoke on the conservation of the coal supply.

$2,000,000 FOR ST. LUKE'S.

It is expected that the endowment fund of St. Luke's Hospital, 113th Street and Amsterdam Avenue, will eventually benefit to the extent of over $2,000,000 under the will of William Wheeler Smith, an architect, of 3 Wall Street, who died about a month ago. The bequest directs that the money be applied to patients recovering from surgical operations.

Mr. Smith left no immediate relatives, except his widow, and it is at her death that the bequest will come into the possession of the hospital. A second public bequest, which was afterward revoked in a codicil in favor of St. Luke's Hospital, was that the rent of 71 Wall Street, which was owned by Mr. Smith, was to be paid to the Association for the Relief of Respectable Aged and Indigent Females at 104th Street and Amsterdam Avenue. Why this bequest was revoked, the testator did not say.

Mrs. Smith has entire control of her husband's fortune during her life, and is at liberty to dispose of any of the property as she thinks fit, but should she sell it, the proceeds will revert to the hospital at her death. The house at 17 East Seventy-seventh Street is also left to her absolutely, with all its contents, to do with as she wishes.

Only Once in the Year Do You Have Such an Opportunity as This

WEBER PIANOS

¶ For nine consecutive seasons the Weber has been exclusively used by the Metropolitan Opera House and by the famous artists of the Company.

¶ Nowhere else but at Aeolian Hall, the home of the Weber, could this opportunity occur, and at Aeolian Hall it is possible but once a year.

¶ These are the instruments which twenty weeks ago were selected new from the entire stock of Weber Pianos, for use at the Metropolitan Opera House and by the artists of the Company for their own apartments.

¶ Only at the close of the Opera season, when these pianos are brought back to Aeolian Hall and offered at Special Sale, do you have the opportunity to secure a practically new Weber piano at a reduction from its rigidly maintained regular price.

BATTLESHIPS AGAIN AT AMERICAN PORT

Great Throngs at San Diego Welcome the Fleet Under Admiral Thomas.

SAILORS WILL LAND TO-DAY

Special to The New York Times.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 14.—The American battleship fleet in command of Rear Admiral Thomas arrived at this port at exactly 1 o'clock this afternoon and anchored off Coronado Beach. Thousands afloat and ashore cheered the arrival of the great fighting machines at the first American port they have visited since they began their record cruise of almost 14,000 miles.

Every ship arrived here in perfect trim after making an uneventful run from Magdalena Bay. It lacks one day of four months since the fleet left Hampton Roads, and the officers and men were simply crazy to get ashore on American soil again. Few bluejackets got shore leave to-day. To-morrow about 4,500 of them, one of the largest parties ever debarked from an American fleet, will land to join the great parade to City Park, where an elaborate celebration ceremony will be held.

Officers who landed this evening said that it seemed as though California had gone crazy over the fleet, but the fleet was mighty ready to help the people have good times all along the coast. To-night the city is a mass of electric lights and red fire, as a result of the preparations made at great expense to have the city brilliantly illuminated.

A feature of the arrival of the fleet was the trip of a boat carrying 33,000 oranges, which were given to the men on the battleships by the San Diego people. The tars greeted the boat with loud cheers, and the oranges with eager mouths. Another boat, filled with pretty girls, carried loads of flowers to the bluejackets, and there were more loud cheers.

Admiral Thomas has sent a request to the authorities here that the people refrain from giving his men too much liquor, and as a result the City Council this afternoon sent a request to all the saloons not to give liquor to any sailor who showed signs of having had too much. Those who come off the ships, however, say that the bluejackets have been saving up their thirsts too long already, and that there is not enough beer in Southern California to slake them.

San Diego realized a week ago that Admiral Evans would be unable to come here for the celebration, but went ahead just the same. The jeweled key and sword made for Admiral Evans will be given to Admiral Thomas to hand over to his superior, who still retains nominal command of the fleet. Medals are also ready to present to Thomas and the other Admirals, who will also be honored at dinners, dances, and in other ways.

A dinner was given to the Admirals tonight at the Hotel Coronado, while the city was ablaze with lights and the battleships played searchlights around the sky, throwing great fans of light over the hills and the water. Among those present at the dinner were Gov. Gollet of California and representatives from several other States.

The fact that the battleships did not come into the bay was a great disappointment to many who expected to see the ships at close range, but it was a great show, just the same.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., April 14.—"Rear Admiral Evans had a splendid night, and his improvement is most encouraging," said Surgeon P. H. McDonnold to-day. "The pain in his left knee, which has made it necessary for him to remain quiet for a day or two, has entirely disappeared again."

The Rear Admiral had kept to his room for several days, but was taken to the baths this morning in his wheeled chair.

ANOTHER VISITING FLEET.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Another fleet is being organized to visit European nations whose invitations for the original battleship fleet to visit them had to be declined. A third fleet is also in prospect, to be kept in Atlantic waters in reserve.

The new visiting squadron has as its nucleus the battleships Maine and Alabama, which will be detached from the Pacific Fleet immediately after the review in San Francisco next month. These two vessels will start homeward by way of the Suez Canal in advance of the sailing of the fleet, their places being taken by the new battleships Wisconsin and Nebraska.

The plan now is to have the Maine and Alabama met in Mediterranean waters by the new battleships Mississippi, Idaho and New Hampshire, with the scouts Salem, Chester, and Birmingham, and possibly the armored cruisers North Carolina and Montana. Calls then will be made at Italian, French, Spanish, and British ports.

In home waters the Iowa and Indiana and the cruiser Brooklyn will be in readiness. The Columbia, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Dubuque, Paducah, Marietta, Dolphin, and Mayflower are all to be placed in commission within a few weeks.

*Found Alaskan trails impassable and returned to Seattle. Due there Friday. Sails Saturday for Vladivostok to cross Asia and Europe to Paris.

†Sailed for Yokohama yesterday en route to Paris via Vladivostok. Due Yokohama April 29.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Washington, April 14.—The French and Italian cars in the New York to Paris race sailed from this city at 3 o'clock this morning for Yokohama, Japan. The steamer was reported later in the day from Victoria, when the foreigners got their last view of America. To-night they are speeding over the 5,000 miles of water that stretches between them and the Orient, where they will arrive on April 29, if they have good weather.

It was the intention of the crews of the two cars to sail to Yokohama and there unload, taking the road through Japan in order to get a boat to Vladivistok. A stretch of 215 miles, with one mountain range in their path, is before them in Japan, but the road conditions are such that they should be able to make this journey in two days without any trouble. Allowing for delays in unloading and reloading their car on another boat, the cars will probably be three days in Japan, sailing from Tsuruga on May 2 for Vladivostok across the Sea of Japan, and arriving in Siberia on May 4 or 5.

It develops now that the Italian crew departed from here by mistake. They received instructions from Milan to take the steamer for Vladivostok and not to attempt to cross Alaska. They construed that to mean they should take the first steamer leaving here and sailed with De Dion on that account. After their departure a telegram came here from R. W. Vollmoeller, who is conducting the car in America, telling them to await the arrival of the Thomas car from Alaska and to sail in company with the Thomas to Vladivostok. They will probably be instructed to await the American car at Vladivostok in order that the two may start together for Paris.

The Italian car went without Sirtori, the driver. In crossing the country Sirtori and the management of the Zust differed repeatedly as to the conduct of the trip, and Sirtori's contract was abruptly terminated at Seattle. He will return to New York and sail back to Europe next week. The car will be in charge of Heinrich Haaga, the mechanician, and another man will be sent from the factory at Milan to assist him in the run from Vladivostok to Paris.

The American car is due to arrive here from Valdez on April 17, next Friday morning. The car will immediately be loaded on the steamer Glenlogan, which leaves here on Saturday direct for Vladivostok. This steamer will make the trip across the Pacific in twenty days and will land the Americans in Siberia on May 7, not more than three days behind the two foreign cars, while in view of the doubtful connections which the foreigners must make, it is possible that the American may get there ahead.

Lieut. Koeppen of the German Protos car remained here after the others had departed, and announced to-day that he would ship his car on the same steamer as the Thomas. To do this it will probably be necessary for the Protos to be shipped here by railroad. In that event, Lieut. Koeppen will proceed from Vladivostok to Paris en tour, and not as a contestant in the race, according to his present declaration.

The conditions in Siberia along the line of the Trans-Siberian Railroad are believed to be such that the machines can make the run to Paris, across the 10,000 miles that intervene between the two points, in about two and a half months at most, so that they should reach Paris by the middle of July.

R. W. Vollmoeller of the Zust Company, who is in New York, stated yesterday that the shipping of the Italian car by steamer from Seattle to Yokohama was in direct violation of his instructions to the crew. He had instructed them to await the arrival of the Thomas car at Seattle and to sail with the Americans to Vladivostok by direct steamer. He declared that it was necessary to do this in view of the agreement with the Thomas Company in anticipation of the possibility of being unable to cross Alaska, due to the thaw.

He further stated that he would cable to Heinrich Haaga, who is in charge of the car, to await the arrival of the Thomas at Vladivostok, and that the two machines would start out from that point together to cross Siberia and Europe.

ST. CHAFFRAY'S GOOD-BYE.

De Dion Driver Takes a Last Look at American Mountains.

Special to The New York Times.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 14.—In the old time of the Indian supremacy Seattle was a fine place covered with high trees going down to the sea and enjoyed by game, and having lakes full of turtles and ducks. Now Seattle has two long streets full of commercial buildings and thousands and thousands of empty streets. There are no trees. All are cut. The town extends all over the small mountain, which is deprived of its green mantle of flowers and beauty. It has only a park.

It is a magnificent place for boats. I should say that Seattle is the biggest port in the world. Traffic is heavy, but the boats now are all out and the harbor is empty. In Chicago, which is not a port for the world at large, there are plenty of ships; in Seattle, which owns the first bay to protect a navy, are three warships and a few innocent boats of small size.

The only ship of good size that was there is now on its way to Japan. The Aki Maru is in Puget Sound, bound for Victoria. Among its passengers are the Italian and French crews, with the Zust and De Dion cars. We have cold feet. Our feet are cold because there is no more ice nor snow at the end of April in Alaska. We wanted ice, we expected snow, and all is over. So we have changed our minds, and the Zust and De Dion sailed.

Small, very silent children are conducting the Aki Maru. We are on a Japanese boat, and the small children are Japanese mates. The boat looks to be a tower on the sea. The front and back parts are flat, but the centre is five stories high.

Victoria is the one stop before leaving America. In the heavens far away are white lines of mountains whose feet are lost in the darkness. Peaks and peaks border the ocean as an impassable wall and remind us of the Sierra Nevadas and the Rockies.

Good-bye to Indiana's snow, to Iowa's mud, to Death Valley's sands. Good-bye to America's roads. We go to Asia.

SUES FOR $150,000 DAMAGES.

Automobile Man Demands That Sum from Prof. Prince of Columbia.

Edward C. Griffith, who is connected with the Automobile Arcade at Broadway and Forty-ninth Street, has begun suit against John P. Prince, Professor of Semitic Languages at Columbia University, to recover $100,000 for alleged slander and $50,000 for false arrest, imprisonment, and malicious prosecution.

The case was mentioned before Supreme Court Justice Dowling yesterday, when counsel for Mr. Prince applied to have the causes of action separated. The court decided that Mr. Griffith's pleading was proper, and denied the motion.

Griffith said that in February, 1907, he was manager at the Automobile Arcade, and that Prof. Prince had a machine there being repaired. He alleged that on Feb. 1, 1907, during a dispute about a bill for $547 for the repairs, Prof. Prince abused and assaulted him, and finally had him arrested for alleged assault. Griffith said he was acquitted, and then begun the present action.

SUES CHAUFFEUR FOR $30,000

Plaintiff Says Reckless Driver Cost Him One of His Legs.

William E. Servio of 796 East 163d Street, a chauffeur in the employ of an automobile firm, was locked up in Ludlow Street Jail in default of $10,000 bail in connection with a suit brought against him by Alexander R. Baxter, who seeks to recover $30,000 damages from Servio for the loss of his left leg, caused, it is alleged, by the latter's reckless driving of an automobile.

Baxter alleges that in November, 1906, a machine, recklessly driven by Servio at Irvington, N. J., struck him and hurt his leg so that it had to be amputated.

GIANT SAILING SHIP AT PIER.

The Preussen Docks After a Struggle with Wind and Tide.

After a struggle with wind and tide which lasted three hours, the five-masted German sailing ship Preussen was moored safely yesterday afternoon alongside Pier 3 at Bush's Stores in South Brooklyn. Shipping men in that section watched the proceedings with keen interest. As she came closer to the pier a dispute arose as to the correct name for the fifth mast of the giant ship. Some said that it was the driver, others called it the after-jigger, while the mate of a steamer lying on the other side of the pier said that the first three masts were called fore, fore main, and main masts, and the after two were the mizzen and jigger.

"We call the masts fore, main, middle, Laeisz, (owner's name,) and mizzen masts," he said.

DISPUTE OVER TITLE TO CITY WATER FRONT

DEAL OF 1873 INVOLVED

Series of Transactions Then Gave Apparent Title to the Bernheimer Family.

Application was made in the Supreme Court yesterday for the appointment of a referee to determine the ownership of the land between Fifth Avenue, the Harlem River, and 138th and 141st Streets. If the contention of the lawyers, Kellogg & Kellogg, of 9 Beekman Street, is correct, there is a possibility that the city last year paid between $300,000 and $400,000 for land which it already owned, and that it now owns land valued at about $600,000, which it has acknowledged to be the property of private parties.

According to Kellogg & Kellogg, back in 1873 B. A. Willis, who claimed the property, some of which was then more or less under water, mortgaged half of it to Samuel and Isaac Bernheimer for $25,000, and then sold the other half to them outright. A few days later he sold to William H. Raynor half of the portion of the land under mortgage, Raynor agreeing to assume one-half of the $25,000 mortgage.

In 1879, according to the Kellogg firm's contention, the two Bernheimers got a judgment of foreclosure against both the Raynor and Willis estates for the satisfaction of the mortgage on half of the original tract of land. In December of 1880 a referee sold at auction the land under mortgage, and the two Bernheimers bought it in.

In 1893 a bill was put through at Albany authorizing the Board of Estimate to acquire certain property along the Harlem River front for facilities. In 1896 the city acknowledged that the Bernheimers were the rightful owners of the block between Fifth Avenue, the river, and 138th and 139th Streets, and of the southern half of the block between Fifth Avenue, the river, and 140th and 141st Streets.

In 1906 two-thirds of the block between Fifth Avenue, the river, and 138th, and 139th Streets was condemned by the city, and Commissioners held hearings to determine the value of the land.

In 1907 the Bernheimer heirs asked for another hearing, and laid claim to the land on the ground that the City of New York owned it originally, but had placed the Bernheimers in possession of the title in 1896. Ultimately the attorneys for Scott and Tilt agreed that all the money might be paid to the Bernheimers except $18,000, which is now in the City Treasury awaiting decision as to who is entitled to it.

Recently Walter Hopping of 261 Broadway, for the Bernheimer interests, applied in the Supreme Court for a ruling that would give them this remaining $18,000. Yesterday Kellogg & Kellogg applied in court for the appointment of a referee to go into the matter of the ownership of the original tract of land.

" ' I declare one collar ' "

YOU can't imagine a jollier story than the new book, "THE CHEERFUL SMUGGLERS," by Ellis Parker Butler, who wrote "Pigs is Pigs." A young married couple with a year-old baby get up a scheme for raising money for the baby's education by placing an import duty on everything coming into the house; cigars, candy, clothing (including that of the guests), etc.

The way everybody tries to beat this game, even the young couple themselves, and the remarkable manner in which their guests manage to get along with very few clothes, and how they have to raise the cook's wages to cover the tariff on her new hat—all this makes up the funniest book in years.

HOW TO GROW TALL NOW TAUGHT IN JAPAN

Visiting Editors Say People Have Grown Two Inches in Few Years.

RIGID EXERCISE SYSTEM

Mr. Aishima and Friends Inspect The Times and Tell of Newspaper Work in Japan.

By a rigid system of physical culture Japan has increased the height of her men and women two inches in the last few years. News of this was brought here yesterday by three Japanese newspaper men, two of whom are visiting the principal large cities of the world, studying the methods of advanced journalism and the modern mechanical devices for printing newspapers.

They visited the Times Building, and, after inspecting the plant from dome to pressroom, said that it was decidedly the most modern newspaper plant they had as yet seen. The visitors were K. Aishima, General Manager of the Osaka Mai Nichi, which means the "Daily News of Osaka, Japan"; N. Okumura, editor of the same paper, and Jiro Abratani, its New York correspondent.

After inspecting the Times Building, Mr. Aishima was interviewed and asked to return at midnight and see the story of his visit set in type and run through the presses. Mr. Aishima threw many interesting side lights on the newspaper business in Japan, and told of the physical growth of the Japanese in the last few years.

"The attention of the Government was called about fifteen years ago to the fact that the Japanese as a race were not as tall as they might be," said Mr. Aishima. "So the Government decided to add a few inches to the stature of her sons and daughters. The Government instructed the heads of the schools to see to it that the students stood up as much as possible, as the discovery had been made that one cause of the short stature of the average Japanese was 'too much sitting down.' It also built gymnasiums and ordered a regular course of physical culture in the schools. The same was done in the army.

"The result was slow, but is now beginning to be felt, and it is now estimated that two inches have been added to the height of many Japanese men and women, and another two inches may be added in another generation or two."

Mr. Aishima, in speaking of newspaper conditions in Japan, said that American labor agitators had succeeded in unionizing a large number of Japanese printers and typesetters. Owing to the large number of letters and characters used in printing a Japanese newspaper, (there are 3,000 letters and characters,) it requires about 300 typesetters to get out a paper the size of the Osaka Mai Nichi. Although the unions have not a strong hold in Japan, they bid fair soon to become a power, said Mr. Aishima.

The Osaka Mai Nichi is the largest daily newspaper in Japan. Its circulation is 270,000, and the paper is read throughout Japan, Korea, and parts of China. It has a staff of sixty reporters, who are pensioned for life after becoming too old to work. Modern newspaper methods have invaded Japan, and several of the newspapers get out illustrated Sunday editions.

$5,000 PRIZE FOR ARCHITECT.

Design of F. E. Perkins of New York for Porto Rico Capitol Accepted.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 14.—The competition on plans for the proposed $300,000 Capitol Building of San Juan came to an end to-day and prizes were awarded as follows: To F. E. Perkins of New York the first prize of $5,000, to Ritchie Abbott of Boston the second prize of $2,000, and to H. L. Beadel of New York the third prize of $1,500. There were 135 competitors in all. The Committee on Awards was composed of American architects.

Frank E. Perkins has offices at 1,133 Broadway. He was advised by the Porto Rican Government yesterday that he had won the prize of $5,000, and was asked to go to San Juan immediately.

"As soon as I can arrange my business affairs here," he said, "I shall go down there prepared to start the work, as the winning of the prize carries with it the direction of the architectural work on the building at a figure to be approved by the American Society of Architects.

"The building I designed is to be practically 300 feet square and 75 feet at its highest point surmounted by a dome. The site for the building is the most prominent in the City of San Juan, and on the summit of the highest hill, with the front facing the bay and the rear giving a clear view of the ocean, which lies immediately below.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, April 14.—After a brief sitting today, Parliament adjourned until April 27 for the Easter recess. Sir Gilbert Parker tried to galvanize the House of Commons into a semblance of activity by urging action to stop the alleged dumping of American hops in England, but Mr. Lloyd-George, who made his first appearance as Chancellor of the Exchequer, pointed out in reply that Sir Gilbert's figures were greatly exaggerated.

CARACAS, enezuela, April 14.—The Venezuelan Government has entered suit against Ambrose H. Carner, ex-receiver of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt Company, to compel him to render an accounting of his four years' administration of the sequestrated property. The bond has been fixed at $200,000, and, failing to put up this surety, Mr. Carner cannot leave the country pending the trial.

RIO JANEIRO, April 14.—The Brazilian Government has issued in London Treasury bills to the amount of £3,000,000 of five, six, and seven months' time, issue price par, for the purpose of facilitating the Bank of Brazil in drawing exchange at the present time. Bills are scarce now, and the bank will repay them in the second half of the year, when they are abundant.

BERLIN, April 14.—A dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from its Corfu correspondent, dated yesterday, says that Emperor William in the course of a luncheon given in honor of the officers of the British battleship Implacable, made the following toast: "I drink to our two flags, and I wish that they may ever be united in the welfare of the world's peace."

LABORERS RUSH TO ALASKA.

Contractors Paying Them $5 a Day and Board.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 14.—With every berth occupied and many men sleeping on shake-downs, the steamer Princess May left last night for Skagway and Prince Rupert.

The departure of the steamer was reminiscent of the days of the Klondike rush. Most of the travelers are bound to Prince Rupert, where the contractors expect to have 6,000 men at work by the end of May.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 12, via Seattle.—At the annual meeting of the Mine Owners and Operators' Association held here last night it was decided to immediately wire John Ronan, their outside representative, authorizing him to contract for an additional 10,000 men in Seattle, at terms of $5 and board per day for ten hours work, to come to Fairbanks upon the opening of navigation.

MAY SAY SHE IS PRINCESS.

London Court Refuses to Enjoin Miss Moffitt, an American.

LONDON, April 14.—The court to-day refused to issue the injunction requested April 3 by Prince Victor of Thurn and Taxis of Austria to restrain Josephine Moffitt, an American woman, from alleging that she is the Prince's wife and that he fled from America to avoid his creditors.

The Judge found that Miss Moffitt was not responsible for the publication in a London newspaper complained of by the Prince, which had been copied from an American paper. Counsel for Miss Moffit declared that she maintained she had gone through a form of marriage with the Prince, who then left her to settle his debts.

VON BUELOW EXPLAINS.

Visit to Rome Due to a Desire to Settle Balkan Dispute.

ROME, April 14.—Prince Von Bülow, the Imperial German Chancellor, who arrived here two days ago with his wife, said to-day that the powers were engaged in finding a middle course between the projects for reform in Macedonia advanced by Great Britain and Russia, and that he hoped an agreement would be reached.

Germany had no direct interest in Macedonia, he declared, but she desired that the present entente be maintained, thus avoiding any possibility of a conflict. His conference with Signor Tittoni showed that both held the views set forth in the Triple Alliance, namely, the maintenance of peace and the status quo.

ATTACKS BRITISH CONSULS.

Their Reports on Congo Conditions False, Says Government.

BRUSSELS, April 14.—The Government of the Congo Independent State has issued a reply to the British White Book containing reports from British Consuls in the Congo.

These reports, the reply states, are untrue, particularly the affirmation with respect to the exaction of taxes in labor instead of money. The statements that transportation on the upper part of the Congo River is a State monopoly, that the collection of taxes in the Katanga region is farmed out, and that a commercial agent sentenced to death for murder had been released are declared to be equally false.

Valuable German Art Works Burned.

BERLIN, April 14.—None of the beautiful wood carvings nor any of the masterpieces of art illustrating in themselves two centuries of North German art with which the building was filled were saved from the flames which last night completely destroyed the historic garrison church in Berlin. Emperor William was extremely fond of this church, which was the property of the Crown, and he personally designed three of the stained glass windows that were destroyed.

Austrian Steamer Is Sunk.

TRIESTE, Austria-Hungary, April 14.—The Austrian Lloyd steamer Galatea, outward bound from here to-day, struck the Mole at Sebenice about seventy miles from Trieste. She was badly broken below the water line and sank. The crew was saved. The Galatea was 787 tons' register.

Woman Suffrage in Denmark.

COPENHAGEN, April 14.—By a vote of 64 to 35 the Folkething to-day passed the Government Franchise bill. It already has been adopted by the Landsthing. Under it all taxpayers, both male and female, over 25 years of age, and all married women whose husbands are taxpayers are entitled to vote in all communal elections.

SUES W. S. LOGAN'S ESTATE.

Mining Director Wants $500,000 for Alleged Misappropriation.

A suit involving $500,000 was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court by John J. Gibbons, as a Director of the San Luis Mining Company, to recover that sum, which is alleged to have been lost, wasted, or converted to his own use by the late Walter S. Logan, who was President, Director, and counsel of the company. Other defendants named are Myra B. Martin, who was Director and Secretary of the company, and who is executrix of Mr. Logan's will; Hollister Logan, also an executor of the will, and Eliza K. Logan, Janette Logan Bayles, and Walter S. Logan, beneficiaries under the will, and Britton Davis, George B. Agnew, and the San Luis Mining Company.

Logan, according to the complaint, collected all moneys sent to the company for the sale of treasury stock, and put the cash in his personal bank account, mingling it with his own and other trust funds, and converted it to his own personal use.

PLATT'S FURNITURE SOLD.

Feminine Sentiment Counts for Little at Fifth Avenue Hotel Auction.

The suite of rooms occupied for twenty years by Senator Thomas C. Platt went under the auctioneer's hammer yesterday at the auction sale of the Fifth Avenue Hotel furnishings. Most of the bidders were women, and the furniture went at low prices.

"The Senator has good taste," said one woman. "Look at the beautiful red roses on that carpet." She bought it at a bargain.

Auctioneer Clark found the room crowded with women when he finally got around to it.

"Those of you who have any sentiment," he said, "should certainly be willing to add something because this was Senator Platt's suite. In here many little schemes were hatched."

Real Estate Broker Cohn Missing.

Hugo Cohn, a real estate broker, with an office at 19 Avenue A, has been missing since March 31. His affairs are involved. Edward G. Davis, attorney for the estate of Charles Thomson, of which Cohn was executor, has an attachment for Cohn's body. The estate is valued at $60,000.

Aided His Niece to Marry Three Men.

Philip Neibling of 206 Taylor Street, Brooklyn was held in $1,000 yesterday in the Adams Street Court for aiding his niece, Juliana Krone, to marry three men. The husbands are Adolph Schurwald, Fred Ludwig, and Stephen Tallor. In court they each identified articles of millinery which they had given Juliana.

To Spend $15,000,000 in Havana.

HAVANA, April 14.—A committee of the City Council to-day reported favorably on the plan submitted by Gov. Magoon for the paving and sewering of Havana at a cost of $15,000,000. The whole Council will discuss the report to-morrow, and it is expected that it will be approved. The State will advance the city $5,000,000, and will itself pay the other $10,000,000 for the improvements.

Characteristics

It is easy to discern those characteristics which mark the superior excellence of our $18 Spring Overcoats. These characteristics we term style—a style which reflects the individuality of the particular man.

Numerous models are shown at this price—$18—in bright hues and attractive weaves of gray, tan, olive, brown and the more conservative black.

Three of Them, Ill or in Poverty, Shoot Themselves in Various Hotels.

HARD TIMES HIT "OLD JOE"

So He Took Gas to Put the Lights Out—Tailor Out of Work Hangs Himself.

Five men, weary of a futile fight against ill-health or poverty, ended their lives in this city yesterday, three shooting themselves, one dying by gas, while the fifth hanged himself.

Joseph Christopher, a young cigar salesman, shot himself in the Hotel Albany. He was known to many in the Tenderloin and was a familiar figure in the restaurants and hotels in Broadway.

It is told of him that fifteen years or more ago his father, skipper of an ocean liner, brought him here from France, and that the boy ran away, drifting to the Tenderloin. He developed into a clever salesman, but recently contracted consumption. Friends sent him to Liberty, in Sullivan County, but there, deprived of the friends and the life which he craved, he grew despondent.

"I don't want to die up here," he wrote to several friends. "Let me come back to Broadway."

So they did, and for several days Christopher had been living in Broadway hotels.

It is believed he had relatives in France, but if they cannot be located his friends will see that he is properly buried.

"Old Joe" Hoffman, who was 64, but appeared older, had made cigars in the back of a little shop at 505 West Forty-third Street for many years. He was always cheerful and apparently happy, though he had neither wife nor children, and the persons who stopped in the little shop on Monday did not know that hard times were pressing the old man.

His efforts on Monday night to collect small sums due him failed. The exertion and disappointment caused a renewal of heart trouble. He wrote two letters in German, one to Henry Meeke, at 215 West Thirteenth Street, and the other to his niece, Mrs. Anna Fredmund of 243 Bleecker Street.

He mailed them and then seated himself in his little room with a tube from the gas jet in his mouth. He was alive when Meeke found him, but died soon afterward.

Frank Dennison, who, as was shown by letters found later in his room, was even then being sought by relatives in Bradford, England, shot and killed himself in the morning in his room at the Hotel Albert, University Place and Eleventh Street, where he had lived for about four months. Dennison was behind in his bill, and it is believed that inability to raise funds caused him to kill himself.

Wolf Laber, a tailor, 55 years old, of 168 Attorney Street, lost his place two weeks ago and became so despondent that he hanged himself to a water pipe in the cellar.

A man who registered as Charles Fisher, but in whose pockets were citizenship papers made out to Herman H. Mewi, shot and killed himself yesterday morning in Mills Hotel No. 2, in Rivington Street. Nothing was known about him.

Brill Stores are Double

Two distinct merchandising ideas find expression in each Brill store.

One is the idea that a modern store should carry the most modern sort of clothing irrespective of price; the other is the idea that a modern store should present desirable clothing at "special" prices; and by "special" prices are meant prices lower than the same or similar clothing can be bought for elsewhere.

Because Brill clothes are tailored by ten of America's most modern concerns the Brill assortment is larger, more diversified, and more modern than any other. In addition there are exclusive Brill clothes tailored in Brill-directed shops, made of exclusive Brill fabrics—and cut on exclusive Brill models that are six months to one year in advance.

Because Brill stores possess certain trade advantages that are Brill stores' ONLY, and because the Brill policy turns to the benefit of the customer every trade advantage, Brill special values are best clothes values anywhere.

$15 to $21.50 Waists, $12.98.

HERE IS AS FINE AN EASTER CHANCE as even the Loeser Waist Store ever had to offer. Seventy-five lovely Waists have come to us at a small fraction of their worth because there are but a few of a style. They go on sale to-day at a price that in most cases would not pay for the material in them.

There are plain colored and black chiffon Waists made over fancy silks. There are black and white plaids, brown and green stripes, and also striped chiffon over plain silk and plain chiffon over silk of the same color.

One style has a square yoke effect of net trimmed with soutache braid and the yoke outlined with a wide band of satin edged with color. Other fancy chiffon Waists have braided yokes and several are all white. There are chiffon taffeta Waists, silk lined, some gray chiffon among them, and a few also of black silk.

ROOSEVELT URGES NEED OF BATTLESHIPS

Sends Message to Congress Advocating Four Instead of Two to be Authorized.

FOLLY TO TRUST NATIONS

Points to Great Britain's Naval Policy and Cites China as an Example of "Peace at Any Price."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Declaring that he is actuated by the spirit of George Washington and quoting in his defense a message of the first President, President Roosevelt to-day sent a message to Congress advocating an appropriation for four first-class battleships, instead of the two fighting craft recommended by the House Naval Committee. In this message the President points out that, while the additional ships are primarily for the purpose of promoting international peace, they are made necessary by the failure of the powers to agree to any treaties curtailing the size of navies or the size of individual ships.

The President's message reached the House in the midst of the discussion of the Naval Appropriation bill. Representative Hobson yesterday finished his speech for four battleships, and had been loudly applauded. To-day numerous amendments had been offered of generally local interest.

The President's Message.

"To the Senate and House of Representatives:

"Let me again urge upon the Congress the need of providing for four battleships of the best and most advanced type at this session. Prior to the recent Hague Conference it had been my hope that an agreement could be reached between the different nations to limit the increase of naval armaments, and especially to limit the size of warships. Under these circumstances, I felt that the construction of one battleship a year would keep our navy up to its then positive and relative strength. But the actual experience showed, not merely that it was impossible to obtain such an agreement for the limitation of armaments among the various leading powers, but that there was no likelihood whatever of obtaining it in the future within any reasonable time.

"Coincidentally with this discovery occurred a radical change in the building of battleships among the great military nations—a change in accordance with which the most modern battleships have been or are being constructed of a size and armament which doubles, or more probably trebles, their effectiveness. Every other great naval nation has or is building a number of ships of this kind; we have provided for but two, and therefore the balance of power is now inclining against us.

"Under these conditions, to provide for but one or two battleships a year is to provide that this Nation, instead of advancing, shall go backward in naval rank and relative power among the great nations. Such a course would be unwise for us if we fronted merely on one ocean, and it is doubly unwise when we front on two oceans. As Chief Executive of the Nation, and as Commander in Chief of the navy, there is imposed upon me the solemn responsibility of advising the Congress of the measures vitally necessary to secure the peace and welfare of the Republic in the event of international complications, which are even remotely possible.

"Having in view this solemn responsibility, I earnestly advise that the Congress now provide four battleships of the most advanced type. I cannot too emphatically say that this is a measure of peace and not of war. I can conceive of no circumstances under which this Republic would enter into an aggressive war; most certainly under no circumstances would it enter into an aggressive war to extend its territory or in any other manner seek material aggrandizement.

Navy Commensurate with Our Needs.

"I advocate that the United States build a navy commensurate with its powers and its needs, because I feel that such a navy will be the surest guarantee and safeguard of peace. We are not a military Nation. Our army is so small as to present an almost absurd contrast to our size. It is properly treated as little more than a nucleus for organization in case of serious war. Yet we are a rich Nation, and undefended wealth invites aggression. The very liberty of individual speech and action, which we so prize and guard, renders it possible that at times unexpected causes of friction with foreign powers may suddenly develop.

"At this moment we are negotiating arbitration treaties with all the other great powers that are willing to enter into them. These arbitration treaties have a special usefulness, because in the event of some sudden disagreement they render it morally incumbent upon both nations to seek first to reach an agreement through arbitration, and at least secure a breathing space during which the cool judgment of the two nations involved may get the upper hand over any momentary burst of anger. These arbitration treaties are entered into not only with the hope of preventing wrongdoing by others against us, but also as a proof that we have no intention of doing wrong ourselves.

"Yet it is idle to assume, and from the standpoint of National interest and honor it is mischievous folly for any statesman to assume, that this world has yet reached the stage, or has come within measurable distance of the stage, when a proud nation, jealous of its honor and conscious of its great mission in the world, can be content to rely for peace upon the forbearance of other powers. It would be equally foolish to rely upon each of them possessing at all times and under all circumstances and provocations an altruistic regard for the rights of others.

Cites Example of China.

"Those who hold this view are blind, indeed, to all that has gone on before their eyes in the world at large. They are blind to what has happened in China, in Turkey, in the Spanish possessions, in Central and South Africa during the last dozen years. For centuries China has cultivated the very spirit which our own peace-at-any-price men wish this country to adopt.

"For centuries China has refused to provide military forces and has treated the career of the soldier as inferior in honor and regard to the career of the merchant or of the man of letters. There never has been so large an empire which for so long a time has so resolutely proceeded on the theory of doing away with what is called 'militarism.'

"Whether the result has been happy in internal affairs I need not discuss; all the advanced reformers and far-sighted patriots in the Chinese Empire are at present seeking (I may add, with our hearty good will) for a radical and far-reaching reform in internal affairs. In external affairs the policy has resulted in various other nations now holding large portions of Chinese territory, while there is a very acute fear in China lest the empire, because of its defenselessness, be exposed to absolute dismemberment, and its well-wishers are able to help it only in a small measure, because no nation can help any other unless that other can help itself.

"The State Department is continually appealed to to interfere on behalf of peoples and nationalities who insist that they are suffering from oppression; now Jews in one country, now Christians in another, now black men said to be oppressed by white men in Africa. Armenians, Koreans, Finns, Poles, representatives of all appeal at times to this Government. All of this oppression is alleged to exist in time of profound peace and frequently, although by no means always, it is alleged to occur at the hands of people who are not very formidable in a military sense.

"In some cases the accusations of oppression and wrongdoing are doubtless ill-founded. In others they are well founded, and in certain cases the most appalling loss of life is shown to have occurred, accompanied with frightful cruelty. It is not our province to decide which side has been right and which has been wrong in all or any of these controversies. I am merely referring to the loss of life.

Massacres Worse Than War.

"It is probably a conservative statement to say that within the last twelve years, at periods of profound peace and not as the result of war, massacres and butcheries have occurred in which more lives of men, women, and children have been lost than in any single great war since the close of the Napoleonic struggles. To any public man who knows of the complaints continually made to the State Department there is an element of grim tragedy in the claim that the time has gone by when weak nations or peoples can be oppressed by those who are stronger without arousing effective protest from other strong interests.

"Events still fresh in the mind of every thinking man show that neither arbitration nor any other device can as yet be invoked to prevent the gravest and most terrible wrongdoing to peoples who are either few in numbers or who, if numerous, have lost the first and most important of national virtues—the capacity of self-defense.

When a nation is so happily situated as ours—that is, when it has no reason to fear or to be feared by its land neighbors—the fleet is all the more necessary for the preservation of peace. Great Britain has been saved by its fleet from the necessity of facing one of the two alternatives—of submission to conquest by a foreign power or of itself becoming a great military power.

"The United States can hope for a permanent career of peace on only one condition, and that is on condition of building and maintaining a first-class navy; and the step to be taken toward this end at this time is to provide for the building of four additional battleships. I earnestly wish that the Congress would pass the measures for which I have asked for strengthening and rendering more efficient the army as well as the navy; all of these measures as affecting every branch and detail of both services are surely needed, and it would be the part of far-sighted wisdom to enact them all into laws; but the most vital and immediate need is that of the four battleships.

"To carry out this policy is but to act in the spirit of George Washington; is but to continue the policies which he outlined when he said, 'Observe good faith and justice toward all nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all.' Nothing is more essential than that permanent, inveterate antipathies against particular nations and passionate attachments for others should be excluded, and that in place of them just and amicable feeling toward all should be cultivated.

"I cannot recommend to your notice a measure for the fulfillment of our duties to the rest of the world without again pressing upon you the necessity of placing ourselves in a condition of complete defense, and of exacting from them the fulfillment of their duties toward us. The United States ought not to indulge a persuasion that, contrary to the order of human events, they will forever keep at a distance those painful appeals to arms with which the history of every other nation abounds.

"There is a rank due to the United States among nations which will be withheld, if not absolutely lost, by the reputation of weakness. If we desire to avoid insult, we must be able to repel it; if we desire to secure peace, one of the most powerful instruments of our rising prosperity, it must be known that we are at all times ready for war.

FOOD.

FIVE BROTHERS

All Thought They knew Good Coffee.

An amusing story comes from a veteran in Iowa. It shows how possible it is for not only one man to be mistaken about a matter, but four make the same blunder at once.

"Thirteen years ago," writes a Colonel of the late war, "I was a confirmed invalid, unable to attend to business. I had heart trouble, and had it bad.

"Deciding to consult a specialist, I told my wife I was going to Chicago for a few days on business, not saying what the main business was.

"On arriving in the city I went to see a man on a small matter, and had to climb two flights of stairs. I thought I would never get to the top. I could only go up two or three steps at a time, and did this by hanging onto the railing. When I got to the man's office, I was so exhausted I had to rest before I could state my errand.

"Next morning I sought out my specialist. He looked me over, asked me if I used tobacco, or intoxicating liquors. I said no. Ever drink coffee? Yes, always have, in fact it is all I live on these days.

"Well, you just stop it entirely, said the doctor. Why, man, I gasped, what will I live on? Did you ever drink Postum? he asked. I said no. Then he asked me where I was stopping, and sent me to a restaurant with instructions to have them make me Postum.

"So I took my meals there, and really liked Postum from the start. I stayed more than ten days, and went home feeling much better. I could sleep and that 'gone' feeling had gone, sure enough. When I arrived at home I just picked up my suitcase and walked home from the depot as spry as a kitten, and I'll not soon forget the happy, surprised look on my wife's face.

"When she opened the suitcase, she found two packages of Postum. She laughed at me and said we could get plenty at the store. I had always been finicky about my coffee, and my four brothers were all acquainted with the fine Java my wife used to make.

"We were all bankers and got together sometimes for a visit. About this time they all happened to be at our house and remarked that they expected some of Nettie's fine coffee. She called me out and said we must have some coffee.

"Make Postum just as you have been doing, I said. The boys were all about as I had been from drinking coffee. They complimented my wife on her 'Java' and drank two cups apiece.

"After dinner she told them it was not Java. What! No, it was Postum. Then she told them of my complete recovery since quitting coffee and using Postum. They all went away determined to quit coffee, and we are all to-day enjoying the pink of good health, and we attribute it largely to the use of Postum."

LONG ISLAND R. R. DEFICIT.

Improvements and Wage Increases Cause $858,828 Shortage.

The annual report of the Long Island Railroad, made public yesterday, showed a deficit for 1907 of $858,828, compared with a deficit of $28,358 the previous year. The report states that the deficit was the result of extraordinary expenditures of various kinds and of increased fixed and other charges arising from efforts made to furnish facilities to the public beyond the limits justified by the company's revenues.

Of the total increase of $1,045,422 in operating expenses $253,602 is given as the increase due to advances in rates of pay and $15,198 due to Federal and State laws.

The report names July 1 next as the date by which the subway will be in operation to the Flatbush Avenue Station in Brooklyn.

BIG FOUR ANNUAL MEETING.

The Net Earnings for 1907 Showed a Good Increase.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 14.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Company was held here to-day. The report of the year 1907 covering the operations of 1,668.7 miles of railroad is as follows:

Gross earnings, $37,646,589.52; an increase of $3,161,088.59; operating expenses, $28,853,173.59, an increase of $2,902,824.11; net earnings, $8,793,415.93, an increase of $258,264.48.

To Cancel B. & O. Lease.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Counsel for the minority stockholders of the Chicago Terminal Transfer Company entered a motion to-day in Judge Kohlsaat's court to be permitted to intervene in the Chicago Terminal foreclosure suit and to oppose the request of the Baltimore & Ohio to have the terminal company's property sold subject to the lease to the Baltimore & Ohio.

THREATENS POLITICAL REVOLT BY BANKERS

DANGER IN RESERVE CLAUSE

Other Representative Bankers Favor the Fowler Bill in Hearing Before House Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Declaring that the Aldrich bill contained several "monstrous propositions," J. D. Powers, President of the American Bankers' Association, presented an ultimatum to Congress to-day. He declared that the American Bankers' Association will cause a "political revolution" of far-reaching magnitude if the bill becomes a law.

The American Bankers' Association, Mr. Powers told the Ways and Means Committee, includes nearly 10,000 banks with more than 1,000,000 stockholders, most of them solid business men. These men, said Mr. Powers, were ready to use their franchise for the punishment of whatever political organization might pass such a measure.

"If this bill is forced through Congress as a political measure," said Mr. Powers, "it will prove a roorback of disastrous power. And I would like to say just here that this bill as it has passed the Senate is not the least like the bill that was introduced by Senator Aldrich. It has been stripped of everything save the enacting clause.

"The gentleman from Alabama who was guilty of the Eighth Section, requiring an increase of bank reserves, didn't know what he was doing. This depletion of the existing funds of the country for the increase of reserves will mean the retirement from commercial channels of $1,100,000,000, and the result of this retirement will be the greatest panic that this country has experienced. There would be a panic before the bill even got into operation, and there are one million people who would know where to fix the responsibility.

"After this panic there would ensue a political revolution that would be a wonder and a marvel to those who look at these things."

A number of other bankers and representatives of Clearing Houses appeared before the committee, most of them from the Middle West. They favored the Fowler bill and were particularly opposed to those provisions of the Aldrich bill increasing bank reserves and prohibiting loans by a bank to concerns in which officers were interested.

NEW YORK BANKS DEFENDED.

Secretary Cortelyou Declares They Did Not Hold Up Country Banks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Secretary Cortelyou to-day gave the National banks of New York City a clean bill of health, practically absolving them from the charge that they refused in the recent flurry to meet the appeals of country banking institutions for payment of cash reserves. He made a report to the Senate in response to the Culberson resolution. A mass of correspondence from banks was turned over to the Senate.

The Secretary acknowledged that fifty-one complaints from forty-three country banks had been received, but showed that they were not in distress. Only eight were below the legal reserves, and this percentage of deficiency was very small. Nearly all of the other banks, the Secretary says, were in exceptionally strong condition.

MEXICAN BANKING REFORM.

Close Control by the Government a Feature of New Bill Agreed On.

Important reforms in the Mexican banking system, which have been agreed upon between the leading bankers of that country and Minister of Finance Limantour, have been embodied in a bill which will shortly be presented to the Mexican Congress. The bill provides not only for many restrictions on the various classes of banking done in Mexico, but also for closer control of the banks by the Department of Finance.

It is provided, among other things, that the minimum capital of any banking institution in the future shall be $1,000,000, which is twice the minimum capital required now of mortgage banks, while other banks have been permitted to operate with a still smaller capital.

Deposits not bearing interest, according to the terms of the bill, will have preference over other credits except banknotes.

Union Bag and Paper Co.

The report of the Union Bag and Paper Company for the year ended Jan. 31, submitted at the annual meeting yesterday, showed net earnings of $1,276,758, a gain of $342,271 over the previous year. After deducting charges, interest, and appropriations there was left a balance of $907,399, an increase of $211,479 over the previous year. The surplus was $379,224, which added to previous surplus, left a total surplus of $1,455,123.

Steel Plant Enlarged.

Formal announcement was made yesterday that the United States Steel Corporation will carry out practically without change the plans of the old management of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company for the development of that company's plants. Upon the completion of the improvements the company will have a capacity of over 50,000 tons of pig iron a month, compared with about 35,000 tons at present.

TRUST MERGER LEGAL.

Court of Appeals Decides Mercantile and Equitable Company Case.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—The merger of the Equitable Trust Company with the Mercantile Trust Company of New York City was declared legal in a decision handed down by the Court of Appeals this afternoon. There were two questions certified for answer by the court in this case, the first being as to whether the trust companies were applicable to certain sections of the State banking law permitting the merger of the corporations, and could legally be merged under that law. This question the court answers in the affirmative.

The second question, which was answered in the negative, was as to whether the banking law permitting such a merger against the dissent of a portion of the stockholders of such corporation, was unconstitutional, as depriving dissenting stockholders of their property without due process of law.

TWO BANKING BILLS PASSED.

One Reduces Loan Maximum and Other Affects Securities.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—The Assembly today passed two more banking bills, making nineteen financial reform measures which have passed that house. One of the bills reduces the maximum of any loan from 40 per cent. of the capital and surplus to 25 per cent. It also adds a new sub-division in relation to security, in accordance with the recommendation of Superintendent of Banks Clark Williams. Another provision limits to 10 per cent. the loans that may be made upon the stock of another moneyed corporation.

The second bill permits savings banks to hypothecate their securities, with the approval of the Superintendent of Banks, in times of financial stress.

5-CENT FARE BILL DELAYED.

Senate Railroad Committee Refuses to Report It in Original Form.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—Senator McManus to-day made an unsuccessful effort to rescue the five-cent-fare bill from the Senate Committee on Railroads, the committee defeating his motion to report the bill in the form in which it was received from the Assembly.

WILLIAMS REAPPOINTED.

Named as Bank Superintendent and at Once Confirmed.

ALBANY, April 14.—Gov. Hughes sent to-day to the Senate, which immediately confirmed it, the nomination of Clark Williams of New York to succeed himself as State Superintendent of Banks for a term of three years.

Mr. Williams's original appointment in October was to fill an unexpired term.

Bill Extending Debt Limit Passed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—The Senate to-day without opposition passed the Travis resolution proposing a constitutional amendment which would exempt from the debt limit of New York City sums borrowed for subway or dock extension where the property acquired is profitable enough to pay interest on the debt and provide a sinking fund. If the resolution passes the Assembly it must be submitted to another Legislature before it can be voted upon by the people.

DEFENDS THE PAPER TRUST.

President Burbank Says International Co. Was Forced to Raise Prices.

President A. N. Burbank of the International Paper Company, when his attention was called yesterday to the letter of Attorney General Bonaparte, which stated that the evidence against the company in possession of the Department of Justice at present was insufficient to warrant proceedings, said that he had not read the text of the report, but that he had not expected any other result. He said that the company had been forced to put up its prices to follow the advancing prices of cost of manufacture.

"The price has not advanced in full relation to costs," he said. "I wish it was true that we were making the profits attributed to us."

Appeal to the Mayor for Unemployed.

Representatives of the unemployed decided last night to appeal to Mayor McClellan for relief. A hundred delegates from labor and Socialistic organizations met at the Labor Temple, in Eighty-fourth Street, and appointed a committee to formulate a plan for such relief and to report to the Mayor. These were named on the committee: Morris Hillquit, Chairman; Solomon Fieldman, Edward Martin, T. J. Lewis, and Algernon Lee. It was decided to make weekly reports on the condition of the unemployed.

CALLS TARIFF A TAX ON INTELLIGENCE

RAINEY FOR REVISION

Congressman Shows How Prohibitive Tariff Has Made It Impossible for Us to Have a Merchant Marine.

Adherents of the protective tariff were rapped hard at the annual dinner of the Tariff Reform Committee of the Reform Club at the Hotel Astor last night, when Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois talked of "The Tariff and Our Merchant Marine," Prof. William G. Sumner of Yale discussed "Two and Two Do Make Four," Miss Ida M. Tarbell "A Little Tariff Exploration," and Herman Ridder "A Tax on Intelligence."

Miss Tarbell declared that from her investigations the tariff of the country was fixed almost absolutely by the Woolen, Iron and Steel, Tin Plate, and Sugar Trusts, and that half a dozen men were entirely responsible for fixing the figures as they finally appeared in the schedules. She said that these men, whom she did not name, had only to speak and their wishes would be respected.

Herman Ridder arraigned the white Paper Trust which, he said, was trying to throttle the newspapers and magazines of the country by the high price to which they had raised their product by combination and the high protective tariff on wood pulp.

"Is there any necessity for these taxes?" asked Mr. Ridder. "Can they be reasonably justified? They are simply a present the American papermakers have by lamentations, pretenses, and other means less fair than foul obtained from the Government. At whose expense? Solely at the expense of the most unprotected among all manufacturing industries in the United States—the printing and publishing industry, more especially the newspapers. The latter insist that the paper manufacturers, in view of the protection granted them against competition from abroad, are at least under so much obligation as to provide for the demands of consumers in this country. Have they lived up to the fulfillment of this just expectation?

"As to the increased cost of labor, figures printed in the Paper Mill Directory for 1907 show an increase of only 1 per cent. in labor, cost of a news print paper mill, modern machinery, and other improvements having offset the increased pay of the paper mill employe. The labor employed in news print paper mills is not the beneficiary of the oppressive advances that have been made in paper prices. Not one-twentieth of the advance in paper prices goes to labor.

"At the beginning of the year 1907 there was a stock of 60,000 tons of news print paper on hand. Owing to increased activity at the mills and decreased consumption on the part of the newspapers during the Summer months, there should have been an accumulation of stock at the beginning of the Fall season, but at that time the announcement came from the papermakers that a paper famine was imminent and that prices must be raised. It was difficult to reconcile this statement with the increased shipments of paper to Mexico, Cuba, Chile, Argentina, and Japan, and an export of 60,000 tons of news print paper during the year ended June 30, 1907, in disregard of the depleted condition of the domestic market.

"The printing business stands for the intellectual growth of the country, and it is helpful to good Government in that it promotes intelligence and raises the standard of citizenship. If the combination of paper makers can succeed in its course, it will cripple the publishing business, it will tax intelligence because the newspapers and periodicals are the people's school and library. Under any Government such a tax would be oppressive and proscriptive. In a government, based, as ours is, upon the intelligence and resultant virtues of the people, it is anomalous and monstrous. In recognition of this fact President Roosevelt in his recent special message to Congress has recommended the immediate repeal of the duty on wood pulp, with a corresponding reduction of the duty upon paper made from wood pulp."

Representative Rainey declared that on account of the prohibitive tariff on raw materials there were but three ways in which a man could own a ship in this country and sail it under the American flag, the first being to construct it in the United States and thus contribute to the various trusts, the second, was by capturing a vessel in war, and the third by saving a derelict and then repairing it until it was almost entirely rebuilt.

John De Witt Warner, the toastmaster, read letters of regret from Horace White, Hoke Smith, Governor of Georgia, and concluded by reading this letter from William J. Bryan:

"I regret that I cannot be present at the Tariff Reform Club dinner. Tariff reform is sure to occupy a prominent place in the coming campaign and our cause is greatly strengthened by the confessions that are now being made by Republican leaders.

"Secretary Taft has, through the convention of his State, declared in favor of an extra session of Congress, to convene March 4, and Vice President Fairbanks, not to be outdone, has declared for a special session to be convened immediately after the election. The gentleman from Indiana seems to be four months ahead of the Secretary of War, and two other candidates, Senator Knox and Gov. Hughes, are yet to be heard from.

"The excitement is increasing, and it may yet be necessary to require the candidates to submit sealed bids for the tariff reform sentiment in order that all may be upon equal footing. Those who platform last platform best.

"But it will be seen that all the Republican reformers give more space to the defense of the protection system than they do to the need of tariff reform, and the fact that they have allowed all these years to pass without any effort to respond to public sentiment on this subject, and the further fact that they even now refuse to make the slightest concession even where the rates are over 100 per cent., ought to convince the tariff reformers of the Nation that a reduction of the tariff cannot be intrusted to the Republican Party.

"The Democratic Party, looking at the question from the standpoint of the taxpayers rather than from the standpoint of a few beneficiaries and strengthened in their position by the fact that our manufacturers are selling abroad cheaper than at home, ought to be able to make a successful appeal to those who want to restore the Government to its old foundation and make it a defender of the rights of all."

TRUSTEE MAY SIGN TO HAVE BANK REOPEN

Court Decision Makes Outlook Bright for the Mechanics and Traders'.

ASSENTS FROM DEPOSITORS

Banking Department Reports Satisfactory Conditions and Officers of Bank Are Hopeful.

Supreme Court Justice Hendrick handed down a decision yesterday by which it is expected that the Mechanics and Traders' Bank will be able to resume business within thirty days. He declared that it was permissible under the law for a trustee or guardian to sign the reorganization plan under which the bank expects to reopen, and this will place within the possibility of acquiescence to the plan an additional 8 per cent. of the bank's deposits.

Depositors representing 84 per cent. of the deposits have already signed the deferred-payment agreement. Strauss & Anderson of 141 Broadway, counsel for the bank, presented a petition to the court on behalf of Joseph Heidelberger, an incompetent, who is a depositor in the bank. William Beck, the committee appointed for Heidelberger by Justice Scott in 1902, had been asked to sign the agreement, and demurred on the ground that he did not know whether or not he had the authority. Justice Hendrick's decision was as follows:

> I think no obstacle should be put in the way of the speedy resumption of business by the bank, which, from the report of the Banking Department, appears to be solvent. The petitioner, as committee of said incompetent, is directed to subscribe to said deferred payment agreement.

Three hundred depositors in the bank, representing 8 per cent. of the total deposits, are trustees, guardians, &c. The officers of the bank are confident that a majority of them will now sign the deferred-payment agreement, and that sufficient signatures will then be obtained to allow them to present to the court a motion for resumption. The State Banking Department has already reported satisfactorily on the condition of the bank, and the officers say that they have money enough at present to reopen without obtaining more assents.

The resumption plan calls for the payment of all accounts in sixteen months. Ten per cent. will be paid on date of opening, 15 per cent. within four months, 20 per cent. within eight months, 25 per cent. within twelve months, and the remaining 30 per cent. within sixteen months. The Mechanics and Traders' was closed on Jan. 30, following heavy withdrawals of deposits. It had fourteen branches and deposits of $8,000,000 to $9,000,000 at the time it closed.

ALL CONEY REJOICES TO-DAY.

Reopening of Its Only Bank to be Celebrated with Noise and Fireworks.

The reopening of the Coney Island branch of the Jenkins Trust Company at 9 o'clock this morning will be celebrated with all the pyrotechnics that resort can muster. It will be a jollification, a ballyhoo, a frolic, and a jamboree in the original Coney Island sense.

Precisely at 9 o'clock, when the Surf Avenue doors of the establishment are thrown open, every whistle on the island will tear loose and continue to punch holes in the air until the steam gives out. Simultaneously all the merry-go-rounds between Brooklyn and the sea will start up.

Out of the gates of Luna Park, Frederic Thompson will march at the head of four mascot elephants and Lemlein's Luna Park Band. A similar cavalcade, minus the elephants, will depart from Charles Feltman's, Fred Henderson's, Louis Stauch's, Dreamland, and Tilyou's Steeplechase Park at the same time.

Henry Pain, the fireworks man, has rigged up mortars in front of Luna, Henderson's, Feltman's, and Stauch's, and when the pyschological moment arrives artillerists will touch off the mortars.

Then the big men of Coney Island will march in a solid line to the bank and make their deposits. They have adopted this measure as a means of showing their confidence in the only financial institution in Coney.

Incidentally the opening of the bank will be the opening note in the Coney Island season.

BOROUGH BANK REOPENS.

Deposits on the First Day Many Times Greater Than Withdrawals.

The Borough Bank of Brooklyn reopened for business yesterday. According to the new President, Broo R. Shears, the deposits made on the opening day at the main office exceeded the withdrawals six times. Mr. Shears said that the deposits at the Eighth Ward Branch were twelve times greater than the withdrawals.

Very few of the depositors withdrew their accounts completely. Vice President William S. Hurley received many floral gifts and letters of congratulation.

"The depositors," said Mr. Hurley, "are to be congratulated on the condition of the bank. Its capital of $200,000 is unimpaired; it has a surplus and guarantee fund of $150,000, and it has $1,400,000 in cash. Its condition makes its future an assured success.

Designs for New Municipal Building.

The designs submitted in the competition for the new Municipal Building, which is to be erected at the Manhattan entrance to Brooklyn Bridge, went yesterday to the jury of award. A choice is expected in about a week. There are four competitors.

COURT STILL HOLDS $4,623,000 GAS MONEY

Judge Hough Declines to Surrender Funds Deposited Since Fight for 80-Cent Gas Began.

COMPANY SAYS IT NEEDS IT

Judge Hough Considers Final Issue of Litigation Doubtful—Company May Use All Payments Hereafter.

Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court declined yesterday to grant a motion of the Consolidated Gas Company for the return to the company of $4,623,000 deposited with the court since the beginning of the 80-cent gas litigation and representing the difference between 80 cents and $1 per 1,000 cubic feet on the gas sold since that time.

The court, however, held that the company need not deposit any more money with the court, on the theory that the amount already deposited would be sufficient to pay all refunds if necessary.

Judge Hough declared that he considered the final issue of the 80-cent gas case as doubtful still, referring to one section of his opinion declaring the rate confiscatory and the law unconstitutional.

Judge Hough declared that he was inclined to accede to the arguments of the people that the franchises of a public service corporation cannot be valued against the consumers, but he believed that the weight of legal opinion was in support of the company's contention.

If the United States Supreme Court should hold that the consumer cannot be compelled to pay a rate sufficient to earn a return on the value of franchises given by the State or city the reduction will be sufficient to make the 80-cent gas rate a legal one, considering 6 per cent. as a fair return on the value of the property admitted.

John A. Garver of the law firm of Sherman & Stirling asked for the return of the $4,623,000 deposited as the company needed the money because times were hard and it had to borrow at 6 per cent., whereas the $4,623,000 was drawing interest at not more than 2 per cent.

A statement was published yesterday purporting to come from a former employe of the Gas Trust to the effect that the company's books given to the accounts for the city and State in the gas litigation were doctored, that false statements were prepared bearing upon the price of gas, and that witnesses needed in that proceeding and in the investigation of the Gas Trust before the Stevens Legislative Committee were spirited out of the State. On this latter proposition counsel engaged against the company in the litigation were disposed to agree.

"I think it is entirely probable that they sent witnesses away," said Mr. Burr.

FRANK DANBY'S FINE NOVEL FINELY TOLD

BEING PASSAGES FROM THE EARLY LIFE OF SALLY SNAPE, LADY KIDDERMINSTER

What all London is Saying of the Book. Cloth $1.50

"Who says Frank Danby says sparkling wit, and shrewd observation. . . . No one has caught the atmosphere of theatrical life so completely as she, or put it to such vivid uses. . . . A fine story, finely told."
The Sunday Chronicle, London

"Frank Danby has found herself. It is full of the old wit, . . . but it is also full of a new quality, the quality of imaginative tenderness, and creative sympathy. . . . The book is crowded with types, and they are all etched with masterly fidelity of vision and sureness of touch, with feminine subtlety as well as virile audacity. . . . For those who know their London this novel is like the first mouthful of spring asparagus . . . or the first daffodil. Its freshness of style is as delightful as its freshness of theme . . . it is absolutely vivid, triumphantly alive."
James Douglas in The London Star.

Before a crowd numbering more than 20,000 persons the American League baseball championship season was auspiciously ushered in yesterday at the American League Park. Favored with a regal Spring day, the Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics battled twelve innings before Kleinow crossed the plate, scoring the only run made in the long game. Everything was in harmony with the occasion. The weather, the crowd, the playing, and the deportment of the spectators was all that could be desired, and not an incident occurred to mar the proceedings.

The preparations of the management were on a par with those of former years. Every available point of vantage had been decorated with flags and bunting, which waved and snapped with the breeze as though to welcome the players and their adherents. Flags of all nations surrounded the grounds, while the grand stand and boxes were draped with American flags arranged in the forms of shields.

In spite of the fact that each successive season sees the usual parade of players headed by a band, the public hail this the first outward demonstration of the season's opening with shouts of joyous welcome, and as the players took up their positions for preliminary practice there were more cheers, more applause, and more hand-clapping. It was the baseball crowd over and over again. The spectators had perforce been compelled to curb their enthusiasm during the Winter months, and they gave full vent to their feelings whenever an opportunity presented itself. Joy was unconfined, and the exciting nature of the contest furnished abundant scope for the frequent outbursts of appreciative applause.

The start of the game was delayed for ten minutes because of the immense crowd which overflowed from the stands and swept onto the field, encroaching into the players' territory. Another short delay was caused by the non-arrival of Mayor McClellan and his party. It was a few minutes past the scheduled time before the city's Chief Executive took his seat in a private box on the south side. Once on hand he lost no time, and, standing erect, he threw a new white ball to Umpire Tim Hurst, who caught it amid loud cheers. It was the official start, and put everybody present on good terms with themselves.

At the last moment a change in the Athletics' batting order was imminent. Hartsel, the Quaker left fielder, got in the way of a wild pitch by Lake, who was warming up. The ball struck his nose, which was broken by the impact. He, however, declined to retire from the game, and after having the injured member attended to signalized the event by making the first hit of the year—and also the first kick, when a strike was called which he thought was a ball.

The Yankees presented an attractive appearance in the field, with their white suits and black stockings and caps, which was in striking contrast to the uniform of the visitors, which was a serviceable gray, with red stockings. Doyle was Manager Griffith's selection for the initial game. He still retains the labored effort with the ball which resulted in considerable loss of time. He, however, compensated for this by his masterly pitching. In twelve innings he allowed but four hits, gave two bases on balls, and struck out three Quaker players. Opposed to him was Carter, whom Manager Mack obtained from the Syracuse Club of the New York State League. Although defeated by the score of 1 to 0, the youngster made a creditable début in the major league ranks. With the exception of Kleinow and Chase, the locals could do little with his delivery. He was cool at critical stages, and has the earmarks of developing into a good pitcher.

The game was on the whole well played. The men are not yet seasoned, and lacked their usual judgment in placing the ball. The fielding was in spots ragged, and there was an absence of snap and vim. This latter defect will gradually disappear as the players become accustomed to the new order of things.

Although twelve innings were required to decide the contest, both teams had more than one chance to score before the winning tally was made. The visitors lost a splendid opportunity to win in the tenth inning, when they had a runner on both second and third bases and only one batsman out. A clever running catch by Keeler enabled the latter to effect a double play with Kleinow, which brought the dangerous inning to an abrupt termination. The Yankees also had two men on bases with one out in the next inning, but another double play headed off the possibility of a score.

The game was won in the twelfth inning. Conroy was an easy out at first. Kleinow found one curve to his liking, and drove it into the crowd in centre field for two bases. Doyle made a clean single to left, advancing Kleinow to third. Niles sent a long fly to Coombs in deep right field, and Kleinow scored on the throw to the plate.

In batting and fielding the Yankees outplayed the Athletics. Kleinow led at the bat with a double and two singles, while Chase was responsible for two safe hits, each being good for one base. These two players were the only men to secure more than one hit. Murphy had an off day, making three errors, all of which were inexcusable. The score:

Young Baffles Senators.

BOSTON, Mass., April 14.—Despite a chill east wind the grand stand and bleachers at the Huntington Avenue grounds were crowded to-day, and the spectators saw the home team defeat Washington by a score of 3 to 1. The visitors could not score until the ninth inning, when Delehanty sent the ball over the left-field fence for a home run. Young struck out nine men. Smith was a trifle wild in the third inning, but was generally effective. A sensational one-hand stop by Laporte in the fifth was a feature. Before the game the teams, preceded by a band, marched to centre field, where there was a flag raising by Managers McGuire and Cantillion. The score:

Yankee Cast-Off Helps Browns Win.

CLEVELAND, April 14.—St. Louis won the opening game from Cleveland by the score of 2 to 1 in ten innings. Pelty outpitched Joss, holding the locals to six hits. Joss also was effective until the eighth, when, with two out, Williams singled. Wallace was passed, and, when Ferris doubled, Williams scored. Cleveland tied the score in the ninth on Stovall's single, Lajoie's double, and Turner's long fly. St. Louis won in the tenth on C. Jones's single, a wild pitch, and Williams's single. The score:

Champions in Poor Form.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Chicago defeated Detroit in the opening game of the season to-day by the score of 15 to 8. The visitors seemed in poor condition and after the first five innings the Chicago pitchers took things easy. A crowd that overflowed the field and made ground rules necessary saw the contest. Princeton Drops Game in South.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 14.—Princeton dropped the first game on her Southern trip to-day, Virginia winning easily by the score of 6 to 2. The Tigers were outplayed at every stage of the game. They could only collect a total of three hits off Walker, the Woodbury Forest youngster. The two runs scored by the visitors were due to wild throws by Honaker and Pearson. The score:

FORBES TO SAIL BALLOON.

New York to Qualify for Lahm Cup Race by Ten Ascensions.

While the Aero Club of America, through its new Aviation Committee, is preparing to give wider attention this season to aeroplanes and other heavier than air machines, one member of the club, A. Holland Forbes, is planning to launch into the air within the next two weeks the largest balloon that has ever been built in America. Mr. Forbes expects to do some challenging for the various club cups in the near future, and the fact that he is the only member of the club who has built an entirely new machine this year indicates that old-fashioned ballooning has by no means lost its charms for Aero Club members.

"My new balloon will be named the Conqueror," said Mr. Forbes last night at his home, 75 East Fifty-fifth Street. "It will have a capacity of 80,000 cubic feet of gas, and will, therefore, be a trifle larger than the big Government balloon made by Leo Stevens last year. I hope to make the first ascension in the Conqueror from North Adams in about two weeks, and then if everything works well I may take it South or West for some long-distance flights."

Mr. Forbes will leave to-morrow for North Adams, where on Friday he will make his ninth ascension, and he hopes to round out an even ten before returning home. When he can show ten bona fide ascensions he will be eligible to receive a pilot's license from the Aero Club of America, and he will then be enabled to compete for the Lahm Club, besides being eligible for selection as a member of the American team for the international balloon race in Germany next October.

Three-Cushion Tourney at Doyle's.

Frank Keough and Tom Burns won a close game of three-cushion billiards in the tournament at Doyle's Academy, Broadway and Forty-second Street, last night, from D. Laurence, and P. Leonhardt, by the score of 20 to 19 in thirty-three innings. The highest run was made by Keough, who scored three points without a miss.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—The reign of bat and ball is supreme. Almost 17,000 baseball enthusiasts enthroned the great National game for a six months' sway at the Philadelphia National League Park to-day. It was one of the most successful openings ever recorded in this city. One fact only, most disappointing to the great throng, marred the occasion. The Philadelphia team lost a splendidly played, highly interesting contest to New York by a score of 3 to 1.

The Mayor of the city, attended by other high officials, gave dignity to the occasion. It was almost a perfect baseball day. It was a typical baseball gathering that filled every inch of available space in the lower part of the grand stand, crowded the upper pavilion, and packed the field stands to an overflow. A fringe of spectators ten or more deep extended from the left-field fence to the clubhouse.

Early arrivals were treated to a musical programme by Hummel's Veteran Corps Band. At 3 o'clock the band proceeded to the clubhouse, where Capts. Doolin and Donlin marshaled their baseball forces in splendid array to the flagpole in deep centre field. Standing in a semicircle with uncovered heads, forty-six players watched Capts. Doolin and Donlin straining in sailor fashion on the halyards, hoisting a dull gray bundle to the top of the tall staff. Then a dexterous jerk by Supt. Payne, the blaring of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by the band, the hoarse huzzas of the spectators, and Old Glory was unfurled—thousands of diminutive Stars and Stripes dropping from the folds as the mother flag straightened to the south wind.

With the flag raising and parading over, Mayor Reyburn took the ball presented to him by President Shettsline, and, standing erect and with a true throw, hurled the sphere to Umpire Klem, and the game was on.

Mathewson was not long in showing his superiority over McQuillan, who pitched most of the game for the Quakers, but neither side could hit into safe territory often, and it was not until the fifth inning that the first score was made. Then, with one out, Bridwell walked and stole second. After Matty fouled out Bridwell scored on hits by Shannon and Tenney.

In the sixth Seymour singled, Bresnahan sacrificed, and Grant booted Devlin's grounder, filling the bases. Doyle laced to Knabe, who cut down Seymour at the plate. Bridwell walked, again filling the bases. Then Mathewson smashed out a two-bagger, scoring Devlin and Doyle. Shannon grounded out. That ended the run-getting. The score:

Reds Lose Before Banner Home Crowd

CINCINNATI, April 14.—The opening game of the season was played here to-day before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a baseball contest in this city. Cincinnati secured a lead of five runs in the first inning through errors and timely hits, but was unable to score thereafter. Chicago gradually overcame the lead, and won in the ninth on a base on balls, a sacrifice, and a hit. A band concert and a short speech by Mayor Markbreit were the only special features. The score:

NO MOTORBOAT RACE DELAY.

England's Request to Postpone International Contest Refused.

A request from the Motor Yacht Club of Great Britain to postpone the international challenge race for the Harmsworth Cup, which is to be held this year in Huntington Harbor, was refused last night at a meeting of the Motorboat Club of America held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Word was received by the club during the day asking that the date of the race, which has been set for Aug. 1, be postponed for one month. After a long discussion the officers unanimously declined to grant the delay, owing to the fact that all arrangements for the regatta week at Huntington Harbor have been completed and the date originally set for the race was accepted by the British motor yachtsmen some time ago.

The Wolseley-Siddeley was the challenging boat for the trophy, which was captured last year in England by ex-Commodore Schroeder's Dixie. The Wolseley-Siddeley was entered in the recent Monaco motorboat races, but owing to accidents failed to make a creditable showing.

Another announcement of interest was the statement that a syndicate has just been formed among the wealthy members of the club and several motorboat enthusiasts outside for the building of the best possible defending boat. If necessary, a sum of $20,000 will be available.

BIG CROWD IN BROOKLYN.

But Superbas Are Severely Trounced by the Boston Team.

Citizens of Brooklyn celebrated the opening of the baseball season in their city yesterday afternoon by turning out strongly to witness their favorite team play, and when the slow game was over the red stockinged Boston team had decisively defeated the Superbas 9 runs to 3. After much music by a large band and some parading across the field by the two teams, the game was called shortly after 4 o'clock, and the first ball of the season was thrown on to the diamond by a Brooklyn clergyman.

The immense crowd that showed up at the gates began to get unruly shortly after the game was started, and many of the people in the field stands jumped the fences and rushed out and seated themselves on the grass a few yards behind the base lines. Toward the end of the game they had completely surrounded the diamond, shutting off the view of the game from many of the spectators.

The Beaneaters jumped on to Rucker's curves early in the game and scored 2 runs in the first session, five hits being registered off the Brooklynite's delivery. The Superbas did no scoring in their half of the first period, but the Boston ans added another tally in the second. In Brooklyn's half Jordan started in on his season's heavy hitting by clouting a long drive over the right-field fence and leisurely made the circuit. Jordan nearly repeated his stunt in the eighth, but the ball only hit the fence and bounced back into the crowd, giving him two bases.

Hummell ripped out a two-bagger in the fifth, and scored a run for the Brooklyns on singles by Ritter and Rucker. In the last half of the seventh three hits, a base on balls, and an error placed four runs on the Boston's tally sheet, and they added two more in the ninth on a hit by McGann and errors by Jordan and Lewis.

The men acquired by Boston in a deal with New York recently—Browne, McGann, Dahlen and Bowerman—showed up well in the gname and helped support their new comrades in good shape. The score:

RACING SEASON HERE.

Carter Handicap of $10,000, with Sixteen Entries, Is the Feature.

The racing season of 1908 opens to-day at the Queens County Jockey Club's Aqueduct track, and aside from the attractions of the two stakes on the afternoon's programme there is the prospect that popular curiosity will cause an attendance such as never before was known on the Aqueduct course. To this result all the agitation against the existing racing laws and the uncertainty that still surrounds the continuance of racing contribute, and the prospects are that with fair weather the conditions at the Queens County track to-day will be such as to establish a new record of attendance.

The chief feature of the opening is to be the running of the $10,000 Carter Handicap, at seven furlongs, for three-year-olds and upward, the first big race of the season in New York. For to-day's contest for the Carter sixteen horses are named to start, including the most prominent horses of the Winter meetings at New Orleans and in California, together with entries from some of the most prominent stables of the East. In the estimates of the betting on the race last night the Burlew entry, comprising Chapultepec and Angelus, were rated as the favorites. The full entries for the first day's racing of the New York season follow:

Stewards Warn Jockeys.

A meeting of the Stewards of The Jockey Club, held yesterday afternoon in the Windsor Arcade, adopted a resolution aimed particularly at the jockeys who may ride at the coming meetings under The Jockey Club control, as follows:

Resolved, That all jockeys holding a license from The Jockey Club be notified that their conduct and habits when absent from the race course are under strict scrutiny, and that they be also warned that the keeping of bad company will be promptly and severely punished by the Stewards, and it is further

Resolved, That a copy of the above resolution be sent to each jockey and to each trainer holding a license from the Stewards of The Jockey Club, with an explanatory note to the trainer, saying that his co-operation in enforcing the above resolution is expected by the Stewards of The Jockey Club.

Mrs. Minott and De Rham Win Doubles

In a well-contested three-set match Mrs. Harold Minott and Frederick De Rham yesterday won the final of the mixed doubles lawn tennis tournament on the court of the St. Nicholas Rink. Mrs. Minott's driving was excellent, while Miss Anita Peabody's tricky placing and stop volleying at the net were each features of the contest, which ended in Miss Peabody and C. Frederick Watson, Jr., losing by the score 6—4, 4—6, and 6—1. The continuation of the women's doubles this afternoon will mark the debut of Miss Edna Wildey and Miss Natalie Wildey, who will meet the pair composed of two National ex-champions, Mrs. William H. Pouch and Miss Elizabeth H. Moore. The summary:

Mixed Doubles.—Final Round—Mrs. Harold Minott and Frederick De Rham defeated Miss Anita Peabody and C. Frederick Watson, Jr., 6—4, 4—6, 6—1.

Women's Doubles.—First Round—Mrs. George L. Chapman and Mrs. A. G. Miles defeated Mrs. Harold Minott and Miss Margaret Busk, 6—3, 6—4.

DRIVERS DRAW FOR BRIARCLIFF RACE

Prossen Wins First Position and Will Lead the Way with the Bianchi Car.

OLDFIELD WILL CARRY NO. 13

Nine of the Contestants Speed Over Circuit in Morning Practice—Three Make Their First Appearance.

The drawings for positions by the entrants in the Briarcliff race April 24, took place at the office of the Manufacturers' Committee in the Bryant Arcade yesterday afternoon. With the exception of the Allen-Kingston car, representatives of every entrant attended, while at least half of the drivers in the contest were present. The No. 1 position, entitling the contestant to lead the way on the first circuit of the course, fell to Prossen, driver of the Bianchi, one of the Italian cars in the contest, while the No. 2 position, considered by many better than the first, went to Cedrino of the Fiat Company. Barney Oldfield predicted his draw accurately, and procured No. 13, while "lucky" No. 7 went to Michener of the Lozier. The order of the start on the day of the race will be:

No.	Driver and Name of Car.	Make.
1.	Prossen, Bianchi	Italian
2.	Cedrino, Fiat	Italian
3.	Lytle, Apperson	American
4.	Strang, Isotta	Italian

19.	Harding, Isotta	Italian
20.	Bergdoll, Benz	German
21.	Seymour, Simplex	American
22.	Watson, Simplex	American

The announcement was also made of the referee for the race. Colgate Hoyt, former President of the Automobile Club of America, will be the referee, and A. R. Pardington associate referee.

Work was vigorously begun on the course yesterday in the effort to get it into shape for the race. In a day a surprising transformation was effected in the few spots where the workmen were busily employed. To-day and to-morrow the work will be started at all the bad spots in the circuit, and it is expected that before the middle of next week all of the worst stretches will be in such shape that the speed for the course will be increased at least 5 miles an hour. It is expected that with fair weather the road can be made safe for the careful driver and safe enough to allow the winner to make an average speed far in excess of the usual estimates for the course.

Work was also begun on the grandstands yesterday, and they will be pushed to rapid completion. All the other details of the arrangements will be perfected in the next two days, so that the army of workmen who will be employed to carry out the plans will be through their work by Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Nine of the drivers in the race had their cars speeding over the course yesterday morning between 5 and 7 o'clock. Cedrino was the first to appear with the Fiat, and with Parker as his associate made the circuit of the 30 miles twice. Leland made his first appearance with his Stearns car, while Vaughan also drove his racer over the course for the first time, though he himself had driven over it several times in testing machines. Strang had his Isotta on the course early, and Campbell was out with his Allen-Kingston. Lytle also speeded his Apperson, while Seymour and Watson had the two Simplex racers out for an hour. Hilliard was the last to appear and took the Hol-Tan part way over the 30 miles. All the drivers were warned yesterday against exceeding the speed limit except during the practice hours, and not even then in the Mount Kisco district.

AUTO CLUB OFFICERS.

Judge Gary Succeeds Colgate Hoyt as President of Club.

The Automobile Club of America held its annual meeting at the clubhouse on Fifty-fourth Street last night and elected officers for the ensuing year. President Colgate Hoyt retired and Judge E. H. Gary was elected to succeed him. Henry Sanderson was chosen Vice President, William G. McAdoo Second Vice President, and Robert Lee Morrell Third Vice President, while Edgar L. Marston was elected Treasurer.

Seven members of the Board of Governors were also elected. Horace Porter was named for the vacant Governorship, with the term expiring next year. Waldron Williams, Frederick D. Underwood, and William Pierson Hamilton were elected to serve three years, while Cornelius Vanderbilt, Colgate Hoyt, and Schuyler Skaats Wheeler were chosen for the full four-year term. The other members of the board who remain in office are John Jacob Astor and George F. Chamberlin, with terms expiring next year; Dave Hennen Morris, Albert R. Shattuck, and Winthrop E. Scarritt, with terms expiring in two years.

In retiring from office President Hoyt made an extensive report that showed the splendid conditions within the club. His report showed that the membership had increased to 1,540 members during the year, an advance of 291, while during the year $40,000 worth of the second mortgage bonds against the new clubhouse were taken up. President Hoyt praised the efficient work of the Executive Committee in organizing the activities of the club as well as other committees of the club.

The Bureau of Tours was another new departure that proved very successful, while the work of the Exhibition Committee during the show held at the Grand Central Palace spoke for itself. In referring to the contests held under the club auspices President Hoyt said:

> One of the most successful contests ever held was the Sealed Bonnet Contest, in which forty-seven cars, with all working parts sealed, ran 150 miles a day for four days, and forty-one finished without breaking the seals. The Ormond Beach races were carried to a successful conclusion. A big representation of foreign and American cars competed, and a world's record of 77.2 miles per hour for 300 miles made, which stands without a parallel.
> I would recommend that there be held this Spring or Summer an international touring car trial, somewhat on the lines of the trial to be held by the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain, to provide an exhaustive test of touring cars, each car being given a definite rating under a standard formula, and that an exhaustive tire test be held in connection with such trial.

TRAPSHOOTERS' BIG DAY.

New York Amateurs Compete for Gold Medals at Bergen Beach.

All the crack amateur trapshooters of Greater New York and vicinity and a number of the country's best professionals were attracted to the grounds of the Bergen Beach Gun Club yesterday by the liberal prizes offered by the club and individual trophies of members and admirers.

John H. Hendrickson of Long Island City, the ex-amateur champion of America, led in Class A, with 42 out of 50; President Bergen of the Bergen Beach Club was first in Class B, with 41 out of 50, and H. M. Booth led the Class C shooters. In the gun-below-the-elbow contest the veteran Flatlands expert "Garry" Remsen and S. M. Van Allen tied at twenty-four each. The only straight score of twenty-five breaks was made by "Winnie" Clark of the North River Gun Club.

A special match of twenty-five targets between L. M. Palmer, Jr., and C. A. Lockwood, the former standing at 19 yards and the latter at 16 yards, both of the Crescent Athletic Club, was won by Lockwood by a score of 21 to 18.

Military Games To-night.

The Twenty-second Regiment Armory will be the scene of a big athletic carnival this evening on the occasion of the annual championships of the Military Athletic League. With the exception of Harry Hillman and Tad White, who are both on the sick list, every prominent runner in and around Manhattan Borough is on the lists. In every event, from the 70-yard sprint to the one-mile run, champions will race. The struggle for the point cup will be a close one between the Thirteenth and Twenty-second aggregations. Though the engineers are favorites because the races will be on their floor, many concede Capt. Farrell and his Thirteenth athletes a chance to win.

THE NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

It is proverbial that in Democratic Conventions peace attends apathy, while a fight reflects hope. The proceedings of the Democratic Convention at its first session in Carnegie Hall yesterday were marked with abundant disharmony. If the old rule holds good, therefore, the march of Mr. McCARREN down the aisle bearing a sheaf of injunctions intended to restrain Mr. MURPHY and Mr. CONNERS from unseating him and his followers must be construed to mean that Democratic prospects in the State are looking up. A row may be a hopeful sign in a Convention, but harmony is believed to be better than factional strife in the campaign. For that reason we imagine that the leaders will have the good sense to compose their differences in some becoming and peaceful manner. They might possibly put Mr. McCARREN out of Carnegie Hall, but it would be hard to put him down in Brooklyn, where he is a person of influence and authority. It will obviously be better to have him working with the organization than against it.

Mr. CARMODY, the Temporary Chairman, assured the Convention that "the aroused energies and the awakening conscience of the Democracy of the Empire State" show that it is alive to the questions of the hour. Whether or not the party's conscience is awake, it is very evident that it has undergone an awakening of its common sense. It is not a Bryan Convention that will name the delegates at large to-day. The resolution indorsing BRYAN goes to the committee, where it is practically certain that it will without much ceremony be laid in its grave.

The recovery of the party from the Bryan delusion is unconscionably slow, but there is still time for other States in the East, in the West, and in the South to follow the example of New York. The Democrats of this State understand very well that Mr. BRYAN is a Republican asset, one of the chief assets of that party, indeed. Whenever he is a candidate the Republicans are certain of triumph. Upon the Democratic ledger he represents liabilities, deficits, and bankruptcy. He is, in truth, as President WILSON pointed out at the Jefferson Day banquet, practically a receiver of the party. As part owners of the property the New York Democrats are seeking to have him discharged. To that end they will send an uninstructed delegation to Denver.

In the platform to be reported at Carnegie Hall to-day the Democrats will do well to embody the vital issue set forth by President WILSON when he said Monday night that "we have in fact turned from legal regulation to Executive regulation" of the business of the country. "We have turned from law to personal power." That issue has been brought into being, shaped, and put into the minds of the people by the President himself. The proposed amendments to the Sherman Anti-Trust act embody not only his ideas but his demands. The passing of these amendments by Congress would make him the judge of the reasonableness of restraints of trade, would repose in him the power to determine whether a corporation might do business. Opposition to such a policy is a vital principle of the Democratic Party.

With the President thus defiantly laying himself open to attack, the party cannot complain that it lacks an issue. Centralization, the inordinate and dangerous increase of power of the Executive, has been the dominant idea in Mr. ROOSEVELT's policies from the beginning. In that he has followed Mr. BRYAN, and now Mr. BRYAN follows him. It is an idea repugnant to sound Democracy, and will certainly be unacceptable to the people if they are made to understand where it leads.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

The "unemployed conference" of organized labor in Philadelphia formally resolved that unionists should not accept relief jobs at less than union rates. The occasion for the resolution was the gift to Philadelphia of $5,000 by the Citizens' Permanent Relief Committee for employing the unemployed at the rate of $1 per day. So far as the unionists can control affairs the money will not be taken, the unionist argument being that acceptance of such pay tends to lower the standard of wages, an attempt which should be "spurned," in the language of one delegate.

The most obvious remark is that when charity is spurned the giver is relieved of responsibility for the troubles of the spurner, and what he rejects is left free for the relief of some more necessitous person. Conceding that the unions are right in holding that a standard wage is a proper first charge upon an industry, it does not follow that they are right in applying this principle to relief funds. Even they should be managed upon economic principles, lest the charity should be frittered away upon unworthy objects. By charity is not meant anything offensive, but mere benevolent doing of what would not be done upon strict business principles. The funds allotted to such uses obviously will always be limited, and will be withdrawn at the earliest possible moment. The influence of $5,000 upon the standard of wages in Philadelphia can hardly be traced, while the relief would be large.

The incident may be utilized to remark upon the principles which experience has settled in the disbursement of such funds. They ought to be made to go as far as possible in both directions—that is, they should be made to produce the greatest economic and benevolent results. The wage should be small, so that it may benefit as many of the needy as possible, and they should be made to earn it, because there is no true benevolence in waste. When trades unionists insist upon a standard wage they increase the unemployment. This is a wrong to the benevolent, and is indefensible when the funds disbursed are tax money. Taxation for the support of trades unionism is something taxpayers cannot be expected to stand, whatever the union arguments regarding standardizing wages.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S FUTURE PLANS.

The recurrence of the report that President ROOSEVELT is looking forward to a long term of foreign travel is worth noting. The lease of a house in London in the "season" of 1909 is a part of this report frequently iterated. Mr. ROOSEVELT would be a distinguished figure in a London season. He would receive more tributes of respect than have been bestowed on any other American abroad, which is saying a great deal.

However dubiously we may look upon the stereotyped English expression of admiration for the United States, there is nothing dubious about the curiosity, respect, and strong liking in Great Britain for our present foremost citizen. Seen at a distance, Mr. ROOSEVELT looms prodigiously. Like the wild man of the West in BALLANTYNE's once popular story for boys, he seems a very giant in achievement and resource to the observers 3,000 miles away. One who has a passing acquaintance with the editorial opinion of the British press can have no doubt of the quality of Mr. ROOSEVELT's reception in London. VOLTAIRE himself, at the zenith of his fame, made no deeper impression than the ex-President will make.

Wherever he goes throughout the world Mr. ROOSEVELT will be received with the honors due to a hero. How long he will be able to bear exile from his native land is a matter for conjecture. The obvious reason for his reported intention to absent himself, in view of his belief that Mr. TAFT will be the next President, is both honorable and logical.

TO STUDY THE MINOR COURTS.

It is to be hoped that the Legislature before its near adjournment will find time to pass the bill for a Commission to study carefully the "manner in which justice is administered in courts of inferior criminal jurisdiction in cities of the first class." Conditions are such in these courts that despite the efforts of some excellent Magistrates it is practically injustice that is done, and the community fails almost entirely to secure the protection to which it is entitled.

According to a statement submitted to the Legislature a single instance, by no means an extreme one, will show the laxity of methods, the inconsistency of action, and the utter futility of the work attempted. One female offender, charged with disorderly conduct, was arrested thirteen times in 110 days, or very nearly once a week. Twice she was arrested two days in succession, once she was arrested twice in three days. Eight times she was fined from $2 to $10, three times she was discharged, and twice she was sent to the Workhouse, being released the second time. The arrests were made by seven different officers, and she appeared before eight different Magistrates. In another case a female offender was put on probation one week, arrested and discharged the second week, arrested and fined $8 the next week, again put on probation, then arrested and fined $10, then arrested and discharged, then arrested and sent to the Workhouse, then arrested and discharged, and finally arrested and once more put on probation. Here are nine arrests, three probations, and three discharges. The assumption in every case of putting on probation is that the offense is the first one. What must be the condition of the records, and what the continuity and connection of the administration of justice in cases like these?

It is matter of common knowledge that looseness in court records and court action affords rich opportunity for corruption. It is this as much as anything that makes possible the truth of Commissioner BINGHAM's repeated statement that crime is bought and sold in this city. The Committee of Fourteen for the suppression of the illegal Raines law hotels and the vice connected with them has reached the conclusion that very little can be done in this direction while the minor criminal courts are in their present condition. The State Department of Labor, charged with the enforcement of the child labor laws, has had a like experience. Clearly reform is sorely needed. Study by a competent Commission is the essential preliminary step toward reform.

QUEER THINGS IN KENTUCKY.

There is a curious state of affairs in Kentucky. The night riders, in their peaceful and benevolent activities to promote inter-State commerce, found it necessary to dynamite some property, and the insurance companies are desirous to plead that a loss by dynamite explosion is not a loss by fire. They have the idea that the courts of a State in which grand and petit juries are largely composed of night riders are not likely to try such an issue without prejudice, and they wish to transfer their cases to a Federal court. They distrust the report that there is "plenty of evidence to prove the dynamiting of the property before the fire broke out."

But Kentucky, which has not done its entire duty toward the rest of the United States as regards the suppression of the night riders, refuses to permit the insurance companies to take their cases to another jurisdiction, and has passed a law revoking the licenses of insurance companies which transfer their suits from the State to the Federal courts. Some may think that this leaves little to choose between the night riders and the honorable legislators of Kentucky in their methods of attaining their objects, regardless of all legal obstacles. Kentucky is a queer State, and these are queer times.

SOME STARTLING FIGURES.

It is unfortunate that the United States Government is not provided with a Representative in Congress responsible for an authoritative statement of expenditure and income and the relation of one to the other. The two branches of the business of the country, each of the utmost importance, are dealt with in the House by two entirely distinct committees or sets of committees. Thus we have Mr. TAWNEY of Minnesota, Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, making statements literally startling in their nature and scope in regard to the expenditures asked for by a second committee, that on Naval Affairs, the money for which must be provided on the report of a third committee, that on Ways and Means. Ultimately some definite result, of course, must be reached, but what would be thought of a great business concern in which millions were spent and other millions collected with no more specific co-ordination of the two processes?

Mr. TAWNEY tells us that "we are this year spending $84,975,238 more than England" on preparation for war and on account of wars; that our little army of 52,000 men, and our navy with only 42,000 men, are costing within $66,000,000 as much as the British Army of over 200,000 men and a navy with 129,000 men, and within a smaller amount of the expenditure of Germany, with an army of 600,000 men and a navy of 62,000 men. But does any one suppose that these figures produce a distinct impression on the mind of Congress, still less upon the mind of the general public?

We cannot wholly agree with Mr. TAWNEY that these expenditures are excessive in amount or that we can rely on "the resources, the patriotism, and the loyalty of the people, who at all times are known to be ready and willing to sacrifice their property, and even their lives, in the defense of their Government and its beneficent institutions." On the contrary, we may by too confident reliance on these elements of strength, unorganized and undisciplined, only incur enormous sacrifices wholly out of proportion to the saving attained. But it is obvious that we are not getting the full worth of our money, and that the money is not being collected in the least burdensome way. And this must continue to be the case until we reform our system of legislation both as to revenue and expenditure.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Conditional Promise of Cheap Cabs. THOMAS DUFFY, President of the Independent Hackmen's Association, is quoted in a printed interview as saying that if all special privileges for cabs were withdrawn—he seems to have meant if all cabs had the privileges now accorded to some of them—he and the men of whom he is the official leader would be glad to carry passengers for 25 cents a mile. As he figures it out, with the approach to continuous employment he would expect to secure in those conditions, the cost to the cabman would be only about 10 cents a mile, 4 cents for the keep of the horse and 6 cents for wear and tear, and he could work two cabs twelve hours a day and make a clear profit of something like $10, besides giving the public good and cheap service.

This computation is not very intelligible, but perhaps it is accurate, at least enough for Mr. DUFFY's purpose, which is, and long has been, the elimination of legal—and as he claims illegal—discrimination at piers, railway stations, and stands against any kind of cabs. Of course, the public doesn't care whether the figures are right or not; all it wants is the good and cheap service to which Mr. DUFFY so gayly and glibly refers, and to get that it would gladly join in any campaign—in the success of which it believed. But long and trying experience has convinced the public that the average cabman, when left to his own devices, much prefers big prices from a few passengers to small prices from many, and such improvements in the service, as it has ever seen have been rather closely connected with those very special privileges about which the President of the independents complains so bitterly.

Best change of all, perhaps, has been the establishment of fixed rates, with a machine to determine beyond question the distance traveled. The traveler likes this as saving him from squalid and embarrassing disputes at his journey's end, but the old-school cabman apparently doesn't like it, since it deprives his business of the opportunities for displaying a highly cultivated skill in embroidered controversy and robs it of the sporting and aleatory elements which so much mitigate its hardships and tediums for the born hackman.

The fact is that New York hasn't the right shape for a cab service even as good as that which exists in several foreign cities of the same size. Hardly ever, instead of almost always, can our cabs expect to get a fare both ways; and they are empty about half of the time, even when in motion. Then we have cars under, on, and above the ground, to meet all ordinary requirements as well as, or better than, cabs could do it, and at prices at which even the hopeful Mr. DUFFY would not promise to compete.

They Work Hard These Days. A peculiar and unexpected, though easily comprehensible, result of the "hard times" and "business depression" is reported in the shape of a marked advance in the efficiency of the men who are still employed. Now that jobs are comparatively hard to get, the man who has one does his best, or at least his much better, to convince his employer that he is worth keeping, and his output of labor and amount of production have both notably increased over what they were in the days when discharge was something not at all to be feared and "soldiering" was as safe as it was pleasant—pleasant to all except the man who paid the wages, that is.

Roughly stated by one observer, the member of a big contracting firm, sixty men now do as much as 100 did formerly, with a corresponding reduction in the cost of the work done. This, in many cases, has changed what had seemed to be a losing contract into a profitable one, and has made possible the continuance of operations that otherwise would have had to stop.

Looking deeper into the matter, one gets some new light on the pretty reasons so often given in the past as justification of the worker who did not exert himself to his fullest capacity. This, it was said, was for altruistic reasons—in order that there might be work enough to go round and none should be left without employment. Apparently an even stronger argument along these lines could now be made, but, if the facts are as stated, the inclination to make it has departed and in its place has come what, according to old-fashioned people, is the old-fashioned habit of finding the highest self-interest in consideration of the employer's interest.

It is highly doubtful, however, that there has been any real change. Now, as always, it is only the exceptional worker in any industry who does more than enough to make his hold on his place moderately secure. More is required for that in the existing circumstances than when the demand for labor was imperative, so more is done. Thought of the other fellow's fortunes will not be the determining one in many minds for some centuries to come, and talk to that effect is lamentably apt to decrease in exact proportion to the amount of real self-sacrifice that would be required to make it effective.

But perhaps the phenomenon isn't as much to be regretted as the sentimentalists will say. Men simply must be what they are for the good reason that for the time being that is the best way to be. Survival is the proof of superior fitness to survive—and that's no argument for giving up the attempt to improve things and people. It only looks like one to those who do not understand it or look ahead far enough, which was the fatal mistake of races now extinct.

Contentment Not the Standard. As was pointed out by JOHN T. WILDS in the letter printed on this page yesterday, people to whom east side conditions are unfamiliar are apt to be misled by their own distaste for what they see there into thinking that the people in the tenements are much more unhappy than they really are.

Of course there is an extreme of poverty to which nobody can or should become wonted, and the suffering it causes can hardly be exaggerated. The amount of such poverty, however, though always large in a city of New York's size, is relatively small, even when, as now, things are not going as well as usual. The east side is not at all notable for the unhappy faces to be seen there, and much more of an animation that looks like gayety is displayed there than in other parts of town. The visitors forget that what is one man's necessity would often be regarded as an irksome superfluity by another, at least for a while, and that apparent hardships are sometimes nothing of the kind, but the results of deliberate choice.

But Mr. WILDS's argument, though good, cannot safely be carried very far. Much that is easily enough bearable ought not to be borne merely on that account, and its rightness is not thereby established. Contentment is a vastly overrated virtue, and the fact that the majority of people in a certain district are satisfied with what they have is no reason at all for leaving them as they are.

"MENTAL DYSPEPSIA."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a letter to THE TIMES of April 10 "J. W. E." complains that by reading many papers daily he lost inclination for reading books, although formerly he was a booklover. He seriously asks the cause of this change—whether it is the deterioration of books, increasing interest in world affairs, or an improvement of the newspaper.

Not at all. His is clearly a case of mental dyspepsia. To read seven papers daily is enough to ruin the strongest and most robust mental digestion. Luckily the cure is not very difficult. It is a question of proper mental diet. First, remove the cause, give up the reading of newspapers, except one sound morning paper. Skip accounts of escapades by dissolute rich men and women, of police and other graft, and petty politics, and confine the interest to current events in the sociological, economic, and political world. Take a dose of classics and read every day a chapter of the Bible, Shakespeare, or Milton. E. LANDAU.

A Pharisaic Bachelor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The man possessing the real genius of bachelorhood doesn't go about asking whether it is possible for two to live on the income of one. He lets well enough alone, and, like the Pharisee, thanks heaven that he is not as other men are. His "duty to society" may be just as well performed by paying taxes for the support of other people's children as by rearing a family of his own. A tax on bachelors would be a good thing, for it would convince men that single blessedness is a luxury which is worth all it costs, and ought to be paid for.

RIIS ON SETTLEMENT WORK.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to thank THE TIMES for its fairness in printing my reply to Father Curry's assault upon the Riis Settlement House, showing how wanton was the charge of proselyting in his parish. Your editorial comments suggest that I overlooked one point, viz.: We might have taken Mrs. Mallon to Father Curry to make her confession—I do not say we would have done so, for her great desire was to go far from home—but we might have done it, and we certainly should have considered it had not Father Curry himself locked that door. When he first came to St. James's Church as pastor we sent him word from our house that it would give us great pleasure and, as we then thought, profit to meet him, or have him come in to consult and advise with us, since we had many of his people among our friends. In reply we received a curt note, saying that he was too busy then, but that in no event had he any wish to meet us, as he had no interest in us or in our work.

Father Curry says that the Jews also object, and are establishing centres down there to oppose us. The history of that is interesting. When, some years ago, that issue was raised by the perennial Lucas, we invited a body of representative Jewish rabbis to come and look our house over and see if they could find any trace of religious instruction there. For a very good reason they found none. The upshot of that was a proposition to "sell" our house to the Jews. One does not traffic in settlement houses as in stocks or bonds, and we suggested that the obvious alternative was for the Jews themselves to provide the opportunities for their children which they found with us if they did not wish them to come there. To the extent to which they have done that, or shall hereafter do it, they will have proved their good sense, and shall always have our hearty co-operation.

Settlement work, as we understand it at 48 Henry Street, is most certainly in its essence religious work, for it springs from the conviction that I am indeed my brother's keeper and must help him wherever I find him in need. But proselytism of any kind whatever is as utterly foreign to it as is sectarianism. Its spirit is far too broad for that, its conception of the fatherhood of God inclusive of all His children, by whatever name they were taught to call upon Him at their mother's knee. JACOB A. RIIS.

UNFOUNDED PREJUDICE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The east side should be extremely grateful to the Rev. James B. Curry for his admirable statement printed in to-day's TIMES of the prejudice and continual misrepresentations about it in the press.

For many years the writer has been waiting in vain for a champion to expose and refute the lies which have been published about the east side. It seems to be the object and aim of the newspapers, by means of so-called humorous and news articles, to discuss the east side from the standpoint of superior people, casting aspersions upon the morality and integrity of its residents, so that the New York public has come to regard persons living in this quarter as objects of suspicion or curiosity.

So strongly has this prejudice been intrenched that a youth seeking to enter a business career, upon making known that he resides in the east side, is nine times out of ten denied the opportunity of doing so. A. SPINRAD.

Father Curry's Attack.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Undoubtedly the wild attack of Father Curry on settlement work was incited by mere jealousy, for these organizations do a vast amount of good which cannot be accomplished otherwise. As to women workers, no sane man could say that women do not belong in settlement work, for they are an absolute necessity.

LIVING ON $35 A WEEK.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been attracted to the articles in THE TIMES regarding the question of living on $35 a week, and they remind me of the experience I had in New York over fifty years ago when I married on a salary of $12 a week. The first six months there was enough saved to repay a $25 loan for furniture. Our rent for three rooms was $8 a month. The first meal was on a cake board, top of a barrel, and all went cheerfully.

My wife was a good cook, and we lived well—something on the "Simple Life" order, but we had all the comforts and many of the luxuries of the day. I always look back on that time as a season of pleasure, and think I could repeat that experience now on one-half or three-quarters of the $35.

Can Be Found.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been a business girl in New York and I know how difficult it is to meet desirable people, but I am sure if "J. F." and the other thousand will stop dreaming of their ideal, they will find the kind of girl for whom he is "looking" without much trouble. Even then, of course, He may not be hers.

ONE WHO KNOWS WHEREOF SHE SPEAKS.

The "Merry Widow."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I cannot imagine where "J. F." has been living all these years. He is either blind or too selfish to give up his bachelorhood. There are lots of "Mary Harts," but what's the matter with the "Merry Widow"? She, too, is in evidence. L. D. O.

Mr. Roosevelt's Courtesy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read in your Sunday's issue an item headed: "Subway Manners; Boys Keep Their Seats Rather than Give to a Sick Old Woman!" which reminds me of the first time I saw Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, about eight or nine years ago. He was sitting next to me in a Broadway car and somewhere along about Thirtieth Street the car stopped to let some people on and all secured seats except a colored woman with a large bundle of clothes. As soon as Mr. Roosevelt saw that she had to stand he jumped up, took off his hat and bowed as graciously as though she were the first woman of the land. It made a deep impression on me and has done much to instill into me and my sons whom I told about it more respect for women, be they rich or poor, white or black. EDGAR A. WALZ.

More Bread Philosophy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"A Lover of the Crusty Loaf" should find his cry for clean bread answered. Just think of it; a loaf served fresh and clean "from the oven to your table," free from dirt and dust, and insured against the various odors which arise in a grocery store from the sauerkraut barrel or the oil tank. This is accomplished through wrapping it in wax paper after the loaf has cooled sufficiently to avoid the sweating process. Its use is becoming more general, and members of the medical profession advocate it owing to its sanitary feature.

Wrapped bread should be the cry in this age of enlightenment and progress. Here is a good subject for the pure-food law authorities to take up. They can help us to have clean bread. J. H. SCHOVERLING.

CHURCH MEMORIAL WINDOWS.

Original Designs in Favrile Glass Shown in the Tiffany Studios.

On exhibition in the galleries of the Tiffany Studios are more than thirty notable memorial windows, designed for leading churches in twelve different States throughout the country, which will be unveiled and dedicated on Easter Sunday and the following festival days of the Church. The windows have been executed in favrile glass from original designs by the artists of the Tiffany Studios.

A particularly noticeable work is a large Gothic traceried window, designed by Frederick Wilson for All Saints' Church, Atlanta, Ga. Its subject is "The Annunciation." A jeweled window of three panels, designed by Louis C. Tiffany for the First Church of Christ of Fairfield, Conn., is an excellent example of the revival of the medallioned idea of the thirteenth century. The lesson of "The Good Samaritan" is shown in the Canfield Memorial, which is to be placed in St. John's Church at Boonton, N. J.

For the First Methodist Church at Melrose, Mass., is a large Gothic window, the Hunt Memorial, having as its subject "The Ascension." A smaller window, but very thoughtfully designed, is the Joy Memorial, which has for its subject "The Queen of Heaven," which is to be placed in St. Saviour's Episcopal Church, Bar Harbor, Me. The famous painting by Holman Hunt, "The Light of the World," has been adapted to a brilliant window for St. Luke's Lutheran Church of Brooklyn.

The hymn, "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," is the subject of a large Gothic window for Wellesley College. Two windows for the Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church of Baltimore represent "St. John the Evangelist" and "The Garden at Gethsemane."

There are two beautiful examples of the possibilities of delineation of floral effects in glass in the memorials for Trinity Church of Brooklyn, Conn., and the Episcopal Church of Leesburg, Va. A large window for the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Columbus, Ohio, is the Goodspeed Memorial, representing "Christ Blessing Little Children."

Grant Memorial Window.

Secretary of War Taft, Andrew Carnegie, and Leslie M. Shaw, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, are down for speeches next Sunday evening in connection with the dedication of a peace window in memory of Gen. Grant in the Metropolitan Temple, at Fourteenth Street and Seventh Avenue. Gen. Grant was a member of the Metropolitan Temple, and a memorial tablet is now above the pew he occupied there.

TO RING OR NOT TO RING.

That Is the Question That Puzzles New Guardians of Mount Morris Bell.

The Sinking Fund Commission formally accepted from the Fire Commissioner yesterday the old bell tower and bell in Mount Morris Park, Fifth Avenue and 124th Street. They are to hold the tower and bell in trust. The Park Commissioner is to take action on the request of the Board of Aldermen that the ringing of the bell be resumed. Some people in the neighborhood do not want the bell rung, some want it rung at certain hours, and others wanted it rung on holidays.

Dock Commissioner Spooner submitted a report to the commission showing the amount of money needed for the department for 1908. The Dock Commissioner does not get his money from the budget, in which these expenses are not included, the Sinking Fund providing this money. He asked for $12,434,478. The Commissioners adopted a resolution recommending the Board of Estimate to authorize the Controller to issue from time to time corporate stock not to exceed this amount.

THE INDEPENDENT WOMAN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your last Sunday's paper my attention was drawn to a letter signed "Father." I quite agree with him that our women are being trained to too much independence, and that it is the cause of much matrimonial strife, especially up North. The Northern woman is the most independent being I've ever met. Really, it amuses me to see how she demands the purse from her husband, paying all the bills, running the house, and often doling out to him money for his tobacco and carfare. She even buys his clothes, from his collar button up.

Down South it is entirely different. Woman down South looks to man for everything, and clings to him as the ivy clings to the oak. And that is as it should be. Holy Writ says if a woman wants to know anything, let her ask of her husband at home. To face the world hardens a woman, and more or less robs her of a certain refinement and modesty; makes her indifferent to domestic affairs, and, of course, it makes her independent of marriage. Still, if she is forced to win her own bread and butter, let her do it with as much grace as she can. R.

I have the honor to call your attention to the article in your paper under date of April 5, relative to the reports rendered by Inspectors of the War Department upon the condition of the organized militia of this State. The remarks and criticisms quoted therein refer to the reports of inspections for the year 1907.

I feel justified in directing your attention to this matter in view of the fact that an unintentional injustice may be felt by certain organizations, believing that the opinions quoted may have reference to the inspections for the year 1908.

The organized militia of this State has shown a steady improvement in arms, uniform, and equipment, as well as discipline and efficiency, and it is my opinion that the reports, when received from the War Department for the present year, will verify this assertion. The inspections for 1908 will not have been completed until the close of the present month, and it is not expected that this office will receive the reports from the War Department until some time in September.

If you see fit to make such correction, I believe it would be much appreciated by the organized militia of this State.

Booms McClellan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Would it not be a popular move for the New York Democrats to put forward George B. McClellan, our Mayor, as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency? None of those so far named inspire confidence. Bryan certainly does not, and Gov. Johnson is weak. Judges do not make good candidates, and Judge Gray in particular will not. Mayor McClellan needs no introduction or word of praise; he is the best Mayor this city has ever had, and will make just as good a President. He will carry New York and New Jersey, and other States carried by Cleveland. He will beat Taft out of his boots. Let us have him.

CORNOYER AND CRANE PAINTINGS ON VIEW

NEW ENGLAND DEPICTED

An exhibition of more than ordinary interest opened yesterday at the Katz Galleries, 308 Columbus Avenue, to continue until May 2. Ten paintings by Bruce Crane and nine by Paul Cornoyer are shown, and in each case the artist is worthily represented, the general impression having also the merit of variety.

Mr. Crane's "The Village" contains the very spirit of the homely commonplaceness apparent throughout rural New England without missing the distinction demanded by a work of art. The composition is exceedingly simple in its elements, a line of hillside, accented by sparse trees with bare branches; a line of houses, bald in their geometrical construction, innocent of external ornament, their clapboards painted with browns and reds and whites that have softened under the harsh treatment of New England Winters, and a line of gray rail fence, the grave harmony relieved by the cool, greenish blue of the sky and by the patches of quiet green on the hill and in the foreground, and of piet red in the bushes, echoing and emphasizing the red of the house on the right. Nothing could be more reserved or less idealized, yet the prim, sweet beauty of the New England landscape and the human interests that so often are in closest harmony with it are rendered with unmistakable truth. "Evening," by the same artist, is a more usual composition, a tall tree at the right against a background of underbrush and at the left an indeterminate mass of bushes giving opportunity for a blur of lovely reds and purples. The sky, which fills about half of the canvas, is beautifully observed, with a sense of the doming form given in its fine gradation of tones. "Misty Morn" needs a greater distance than the small gallery affords to bring out its quality.

The atmosphere is thick with a suggestion of milkiness, the sky is rather opaque and flecked with small white clouds, the foreground, with its useful little pool gathering and concentrating the light, is extremely well managed—better than the foreground in the "Evening," which also has its pool, but which shows a slightly stiff and clumsy arrangement of spaces. "Windy Sunset" strikes a dramatic—perhaps a theatrical—note. Across a light, sullen sky clouds of orange and brownish gray are blown like strips and tatters of drapery. An old, forked tree is relieved dark against the lighter portion of the sky. There is much reddish brown throughout the picture, which makes itself felt in the collection with an almost too exclamatory emphasis. The "Cape Cod Marshes" is a pleasant rendering of a characteristic landscape. The low horizon is monotonous in line and color, the clouds in the light-blue sky are unmistakably floating, coarse grasses and sedges accent the marshy foreground, which is broken by a little inlet of irregular shape. The atmosphere is that of the Massachusetts coast, bleak and salt and inspiriting. "Autumn Afternoon" is a brilliant canvas, but unsuccessful in so far as the colors seem pigment and not a part of the impression of the scene. In "Prelude to Night" the composition is familiar, but the feeling is conveyed with delicacy.

Mr. Cornoyer's art has a quality of its own, manly, vigorous, and eloquent without rhetoric. Four of his pictures in the present collection celebrate wet days in New York, and it would be natural to expect from them more or less monotony of effect. The painter's very personal vision, however, has been at work on each subject, and has extracted from each the essence of the particular moment and atmospheric mood. In "Rainy Day, Madison Square," the gleams of light in the sky give promise of clearing near at hand, the trees, buildings, carriages, pedestrians, and street cars are all seen through rain and mist, the tall buildings compose with the taller trees in a distinguished pattern, their outlines softened but not dimmed by the moisture in the air, a cab with its obscure but perfectly characterized and deeply dejected horse makes with the masonry of the fountain a mass of weight and stability in agreeable contrast with the less sharply determined figures of the men and women moving briskly about the square impelled by the stimulus sometimes given by wet weather.

The picture is beautiful as a whole and interesting in detail. In "Wet Day, Madison Square," we have almost the same scene after the rain has stopped, washing the air clear and leaving a kind of brilliancy in its wake. There are reflections in all the wet surfaces, and the buildings, grass, bare trees, and people stand out sharply, there is an effect of bright color given by a mere spot of red in a window, a little of the same color subdued in the dress of two figures in the centre, and the dull salmon of a street car. While lacking in some degree the charm of the "Rainy Day" the general impression is of place portraiture of unusual quality. "Wet Day, Columbus Circle," repeats much of the feeling of the "Rainy Day," but more distantly, without the same intimacy of detailed rendering. The rain forms more of a veil between the observed and the thing seen, the sky is more solidly gray, and there is none of the sense of a stimulating atmosphere belonging to the first picture. In "The Last Snow" we return to Madison Square to feel the dank and wintry chill of a slow thaw. The Diana tower is in the distant background, a wide wet path with snow on either side largely fills the foreground, the few figures on it emphasizing its loneliness. In none of these four examples is there any effect of a painty surface. The atmosphere shimmers and vibrates as though produced by an impalpable medium.

"The Brook" and "The Old Farm House" are not so happy in this direction, in spite of a nice frankness and dexterity of brushwork. In the former the beautiful blue of the distance between the trees and the white of the upper sky seems out of value, shining like a misplaced bit of enamel. In the latter the composition also leaves something to be desired, the crowding of the canvas giving an impression of the air having been forced out as in a "congested district." In the beautiful "Village of Moret, France," on the other hand, although the canvas is well filled with the river of the foreground, the stone bridge, and the thickly built up town stretching across the horizon, there is the impression of ample space and of a great quantity of air. The green-blue sky flecked with its light clouds domes majestically over the solid French walls of the village houses; beneath the bridge flows a stream of the depth of which you are in some way made conscious, and in which the buildings are reflected, all the objects are set in their envelope of atmosphere. The scope of a talent that can do equal justice to such a subject and to the streets of a metropolis is far from narrow. Mr. Cornoyer's exhibit will inevitably lead his public to look with increased interest toward his future accomplishment.

REAL COUNTY FAIR TO INVADE SOCIETY

MISS BARNES A BRIDE

The Committee of Arrangements for the County Fair and Dance at the Waldorf-Astoria on Monday evening, April 20, has announced a number of new attractions for the show. There is to be a gypsy dance by the Misses Doris Bissell, Ruth Davis, Mary Mason Hasell, and Paul Hammond and William Bowers.

A jockey race by men dressed as jockeys, with toy horses' heads at the end of sticks mounted on wheels, will be a feature also, and Mrs. Alfred Wagstaff will tell fortunes. There will also be a circus troop led by Gardner Perry and Newbold Herrick, assisted by the Misses Anzonella Kane and Ina Kissel.

The shooting gallery will be in charge of Alexander D. B. Pratt and Benjamin S. Young, while the Misses Annie C. Sturges, Eleanor Robinson, and Mary Vanderbilt Pyle will serve drinks from an innocuous soda fountain. Miss Elsie Sanford will preside over the baby show, the exhibits in which are to be grown-up boy babies exclusively, the winner to receive a silver cup.

The Messrs. Lathrop, Bartow, and Brown will do clog dancing, the Misses Alice and Annie Riggs will sell peanuts, and the Misses Miriam Blagden and Amy Thurston are to sell popcorn, and all will wear appropriate costumes.

The Supper Committee consists of the Misses Helen Sloan, Elizabeth Jennings, and Elizabeth Hannah, and the waitresses are to include the Misses Hester Davis, Dorothy Hurry, Olga Kobbé, Mary Watson, and others.

BLISS-BARNES WEDDING.

Young American Diplomat Weds Daughter of Mrs. W. H. Bliss.

Robert Woods Bliss, Secretary of the American Legation at Brussels, a son of William H. Bliss by his first wife, and Miss Mildred Barnes, daughter of Mrs. William H. Bliss, by her first husband, were married at noon yesterday in the chantry of Grace Church. The Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington, rector of the church, officiated.

The bride had no attendants and was given in marriage by her mother. She wore a white satin gown, trimmed with old lace, and carried valley lilies.

Philip L. Brown of Boston was best man, and the ushers were Dr. F. B. Talbot and Samuel W. Lewis, classmates of the bridegroom at Harvard.

As the wedding occurred in Holy Week only intimate friends and relatives were invited. The ceremony was followed by an informal reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Bliss will sail for Brussels about May 1.

Mr. Bliss was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1900, and entered the Government service at Porto Rico the same year. Next he was made private secretary to the Governor General, and in July, 1903, was appointed Consul General to Venice. In October, 1904, he was appointed Second Secretary of the American Legation at St. Petersburg, succeeding Montgomery Schuyler, Jr. From there he was sent to his present post.

FRIEDMAN—SUESS.

The wedding of Samuel Friedman and Miss Elsa Suess took place at 6:30 o'clock last night at the Majestic. The Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman officiated.

The bride, who is a cousin of Mrs. Robert Lambert, was given in marriage by Mr. Lambert. Benjamin Rosenthal was best man, and the ushers were Malcolm Sondheimer, Frederick Friedman, Harry Lissauer, and Benjamin Woolman.

Mr. and Mrs. Friedman will go to Washington on their wedding trip, and plan to sail for Europe on April 22. On their return they will live at the Majestic.

Baldwin-Whitman Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Maud Whitman, daughter of Mrs. George L. Whitman, and Jared Grover Baldwin, Jr., will take place on May 4 at the home of the bride's mother, 165 West Fifty-eighth Street. Neither Miss Whitman nor Mr. Baldwin will have attendants, and the only guests asked will be members of the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom. The Rev. Dr. Crocker of the Church of the Epiphany will officiate. There will be no reception.

ROMANTIC TILFORD WEDDING.

Bank Clerk Wins Bride After Five Years' Opposition by Her Family.

The secret marriage in Brooklyn of Miss Elsie Tilford, younger daughter of Frank Tilford, and Edward C. Wilson, a bank clerk, is not regarded by Mr. and Mrs. Tilford, they declare, as an elopement, but, nevertheless, it is known that there was parental opposition to the match. The young pair were married on Friday last in Grace Church parsonage by the Rev. Mr. Carson, after a courtship that stood the test of five years of opposition. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. George C. Wilson, was in the confidence of the bridal pair.

The bride has been living with her parents in the Hotel Renaissance, at 512 Fifth Avenue, and preparations were being made to take her abroad. Yesterday the Tilfords were not at their hotel, and it was said that they had gone away for a few days. It is understood that Mr. Tilford will forgive his daughter, and young Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are now waiting at the Hotel Seville, in this city, for word from the bride's parents.

Behind the secret wedding is a romance. Wilson was known as a protégé of Mr. Tilford. He had a good position with the Lincoln Trust Company.

Long before the Tilford girls were introduced to society young Wilson was a frequent caller at their home. He helped Mr. Tilford with the details of his newsboys' dinners. When Miss Tilford was 17 years old her mother thought she detected signs of an attachment between her and Wilson and whisked her daughter off to Europe for three years. When the Tilfords returned, every effort was made to present to Miss Elsie suitors of position and wealth, and finally one of them, a New Yorker, well known in society, became conspicuously attentive. He was Mrs. Tilford's choice, and the story goes that when his suit became pressing Miss Elsie told him of her other attachment and asked his co-operation, turning him from an unwelcome admirer into a stanch friend.

Then, while still engrossed in her own plans, Mrs. Tilford was surprised by the unexpected marriage.

Lieut. Beavers and Miss Arden to Have a Military Wedding.

Lieut. George W. Beavers, United States Cavalry, and Miss Mildred Hunter Arden, who are to be married on April 20 in the Church of the Transfiguration, will have a military wedding. All the church decorations will be in yellow, including jonquils and other Spring flowers.

Charles G. Beavers will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will be army men, with a single exception. They are to be Lieut. Philip Gordon, U. S. A.; Lieut. Edwin Martin Watson of Virginia, Lieut. Walter Reed Weaver of Washington, Lieut. Henry Fairfax Ayres of Virginia, Lieut. Henry W. Torney, Lieut. Edwin V. Sumner, and Russell Earle of New York.

Miss Arden will give a bridesmaids' luncheon at her house, 684 St. Nicholas Avenue, on Thursday, and a luncheon for the bridal party on Saturday. The names of her attendants have been published.

Lieut. Beavers will give his farewell bachelor dinner at the Astor House on Saturday night.

The wedding of Miss Ethel L. Price, daughter of the late Edward A. Price, and Albert K. Arnold, son of the late Ezra Arnold of Philadelphia, will be celebrated at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the bride's home, 19 East Forty-eighth Street. Miss Marion Price, a sister of the bride, will be the maid of honor, and Arthur Liveright of Philadelphia will be best man.

LONE ANTI-VIVISECTIONIST.

The Woman's Republican Club at its meeting at the Plaza Hotel yesterday afternoon listened to an exciting discussion on vivisection. The subject of the day was "Vagrancy," on which O. F. Lewis of the Charity Organization spoke. But afterward, by invitation, Mrs. Diana Belais, President of the Anti-Vivisection Society, talked a little about the vivisection regulation bills introduced at this session of the Legislature. Immediately three New York physicians who somehow chanced to be present pounced upon the speaker, and kept the club until long after its usual time for adjourning.

"We should not be called anti-vivisectionists, but restrictionists," said Mrs. Belais.

Dr. Parks, Director of the Health Board laboratory, and Dr. Frederick Lee defended vivisection.

St. Paul's Chapel Crowded at Noonday Service to Hear Trained Choir.

Lawyers, brokers, business men, stenographers, office boys, the sailor, the idler, all crowded into old St. Paul's Chapel at noon yesterday, filling it to overflowing, to hear a choir of 200 trained voices sing Stainer's "Crucifixion."

The music had been rehearsed with great care under Choir Director Edmund Jacques. In addition to the regular choir of thirty-five voices more than fifty young girls from the parochial school, and a large number of members of the congregation, occupying front pews, made up a special chorus.

Mr. Jacques, standing just beneath the altar facing the congregation, conducted. Victor Baier of Trinity Church played the organ accompaniments, and the soloists were Everett Waterhouse, tenor; George Fleming, baritone; Herman Greinert, bass, and Archie Conover, baritone. The cantata was preceded by a brief prayer, offered by the Rev. William M. Geer, the vicar.

She Was Run Down and Injured by a George Ehret Brewery Wagon.

A jury before Supreme Court Justice Newburger yesterday awarded $3,000 damages to Rose Wiesner, the 5-year-old daughter of poor parents who live in Suffolk Street, against George Ehret, the brewer.

On June 23, 1905, little Rose was playing in Suffolk Street, when she was run down by a wagon owned by Mr. Ehret. She sustained a severe injury to her left leg. The contention of the plaintiff that a person causing an injury to children in crowded streets is responsible, even if the children are negligent, was upheld by the court.

Clubhouse for Independence League.

Plans have been filed for making over the old four-story and basement high-stoop building at 17 Gramercy Park South into a clubhouse for the Independence League. An extension will be added, and the basement will be refitted as a rathskeller, with bowling alleys. A reception room and kitchen will occupy the ground floor, the first story being made into a clubroom, with library, billiard room, and cardrooms adjoining and on the upper floors. The changes are to cost $15,000 and are to be made for William R. Hearst as lessee.

E. H. Ripley Ill.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., April 14.—E. H. Ripley, President of the Santa Fé Railroad, during a visit to his son, who is Superintendent of the Santa Fé properties in the Kern River oil fields, was forced to call a physician yesterday on account of ear trouble. He had a severe abscess in the left ear and a slight one in the right ear.

MME. DE LUSSAN LIKES VAUDEVILLE

WILL RETURN TO THE OPERA

The Prima Donna Had Been with the Moody-Manners English Company Until She Entered Vaudeville.

Zelie de Lussan, who a few seasons ago was singing Carmen, Mignon, Zerlina, and Cherubino at the Metropolitan Opera House, is appearing in vaudeville in New York for the first time this week at the Colonial Theatre. After several other "acts" have had their turn, the curtain rises to disclose a grand piano. Presently Mme. de Lussan, clad in flowing silks and with a picture hat, appears, followed by her new husband, M. Fronani, who plays her accompaniments. She sings first the "Habanera" from "Carmen" in French, then two songs in English, Maud White's "Spring," and a song by an English composer called "The Bee," and finally "La Paloma," in Spanish. It is this last which aroused the audience to the greatest pitch of enthusiasm.

After she left the stage yesterday the singer saw a reporter for THE TIMES in her dressing room, where she talked of herself and vaudeville. As a matter of fact, Mme. de Lussan is quite as much an operatic star as she was before she made "the plunge," as it is called. She had been singing with the Moody-Manners English Opera Company in England until she came to America for this vaudeville tour, and she intends to return to opera. Besides her conversation is liberally sprinkled with references to "Jean," an operatic notability who is never referred to by his last name by those who sing.

"I have found vaudeville delightful," she said, "and I have had much success. This New York week is one of the last of my contract, as I have been singing through the West, in Chicago, and way to the coast. Everywhere it has been the same. I seem to be expected to sing the 'Habanera,' for my name is so largely identified with 'Carmen,' but I sometimes vary this with the 'Styrienne' from 'Mignon,' and 'Scenes That Are Brightest' from 'Maritana.'

"Then I follow with two English songs and 'La Paloma.' I have tried songs by Landon Ronald with success. I am a little afraid of Tosti, but I may sing a song or two of his. You see, I don't try to educate my audiences. I try to please them, but I think they can just as well be pleased with songs which are good in themselves. There is nothing tasteless about melody.

"Songs like 'Comin Thro' the Rye,' 'Annie Laurie,' 'Home, Sweet Home,' and the like I carefully avoid. They are songs that every one does."

THE KNEISEL QUARTET.

Last Concert of the Season Devoted to Dvorak, Brahms, and Schumann.

The Kneisel Quartet finished its season last evening with its sixth concert in Mendelssohn Hall, in which it gave a programme that presented no perplexities or problems to any of its listeners. The three works that were heard were modern works, all beautiful in the types of beauty universally accepted by lovers of chamber music—Dvorak's string quartet, Op. 97; Brahms's piano trio, Op. 8, and the first of Schumann's three string quartets.

Dvorak's quintet is one of the three works he produced while he was in this country, and by his own avowal, under influences which impressed him here and of which he found characteristic expression. It is among his most spontaneous and fluent outpourings, and full of rhythmic and melodic traits which, though they may not make an immortal work, will long exercise their spell. It is associated in a special way with the Kneisel Quartet, which was the first to play it in 1896, and indeed was the first to give the composer a hearing of his own creation. It may therefore be supposed that Mr. Kneisel, though he has not played it here for a considerable number of years, plays it with an especial fondness and also with an especial authority. There was a fine spirit and gusto in its performance last evening, a contagious spirit and vivacity that reached their highest point in the exuberant last movement that is full of the suggestion of the dance. Mr. Joseph J. Kavarik, viola, was the fifth player, and gave a wholly admirable contribution to the ensemble.

Brahms's trio is also in a special way associated with New York, for the records show that it, too, was first publicly performed in this city, a year after the composer had finished it. The revision to which he subjected it near the close of his life testifies to the affection he had for this early work. He much improved its quality by drastically recasting the first movement, and consorting with the nobly beautiful first theme—one of the most expressive and deeply moving of all his musical inspirations—other musical ideas, treatment and development more in keeping with his riper ideals of chamber music. It was played with a deep insight into its poetry and the essential quality of its beauty. Mr. Arthur Whiting played the piano part sympathetically and with a fine sense of proportion and relationship between the piano and the stringed instruments, although not without certain technical slips.

The second offering of the Italian Grand Opera Company at the Academy of Music was "Il Trovatore," which was sung last evening before another audience of good size. Mme. Novelli was the Leonora, Mme. Strauss the Azucena, Mr. Samoiloy the Manrico, and Mr. Zara the Count. The performance was a lusty one and pleased most of the audience.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Mme. Kirkby-Lunn, after singing three times in the Ring at the Metropolitan Opera House this week, sails for London on Saturday. She will open her season at Covent Garden on April 30.

Will Buy Old Schoolship.

Alumni of the New York City Nautical School have decided to buy the old schoolship St. Mary's, if she is sold by the United States Government and the price is not too steep. It will be used as a clubhouse.

'DIE WALKURE' HEARD AGAIN.

Large and Enthusiastic Audience at Metropolitan Revival.

"Die Walküre," the second drama in the series of the "Ring des Nibelungen," which is being given in its entirety at the Metropolitan Opera House this week, was performed last night. The audience was very large, and the enthusiasm and interest were so great that the expressed fear that Wagner is becoming tiresome need not be taken seriously.

Every one who sang last night has appeared before this season in this music drama. Mr. Burgstaller on a former occasion found himself unable to sing the music allotted to him on account of severe hoarseness. Last night he succeeded in doing better, but still his hoarseness clung to him, and as a consequence his intonation was often false. He also persisted, most of the evening, in shouting the music according to the Baireuth fashion, and much of it suffered under this treatment.

Mme. Morena's Sieglinde has been praised before in these columns. Mme. Leffler-Burckard was the Brünnhilde, Mme. Kirkby-Lunn the Fricka, Mr. Van Rooy the Wotan, and Mr. Blass the Hunding. There was a notable gathering of Walküren.

After all, the most satisfying feature of the evening was the orchestra, which poured forth a flowing version of the score under Mr. Mahler's direction. Both in the first and in the last act this conductor achieved heights of poetic distinction.

MME. VIARDA TO STAR HERE.

Alexandra Viarda, the German actress who played a season of four weeks at the Fifth Avenue Theatre in 1897, is now in New York, preparing for her second venture in this country. Mme. Viarda brought with her from Paris and Berlin a number of plays which she is having translated, and which she hopes to produce for the first time in the Fall. She has now learned English, and wishes to appear here as an English-speaking actress.

Among the plays to which Mme. Viarda has obtained the American rights are "The Immortal Felix," by Ernst von Wildenbruch, and "The Martyr" and "Das Krippenspiel," both by Rudolf Greinz. Mme. Viarda is especially interested in the classic and semi-religious drama.

The Junior Class of New York University, which was suspended for three days last week as a punishment for hazing a freshman, last night furnished all the debaters who contended with a trio from Rutgers College on this little question:

Resolved, That the United States Government should create a commission with powers similar to those of the Inter-State Commerce Commission to control other quasi-public corporations doing an inter-State business.

The New York University men had the affirmative and won. The debate was in the auditorium of the university.

TURNED BACK FROM THE TRAIL

Runaway Eight Were Just Firing the Engine to Dash for the West.

The police who fare along the Hudson River front have given the name Old Lady to an ancient New York Central locomotive that sits sorrowfully on a side track there growing old. Yesterday morning Policemen White and Kearns saw smoke coming out of the Old Lady's stack. They stole up behind to see what was the matter.

"I am the engineer here," said a voice of command inside the cab, "bein' 13 an' older'n any of you seven. Call me Jimmy Kelly, the wildcat engineer, 'cause we're goin' on a wildcat tear with this engine. Youse fellers is under me, an' if you don't mind me I'll knock yer blocks off, that's all.

"Arthur Hanson, how is the fire comin' on?"

Muffled voice: "It's a blazin' a little. I'm blowin' my head off tryin' to make her roar. I got two soap boxes an' a barrel in her already. She ain't doin' a thing but smokin'."

"Blow harder," said Jim Kelly. "Eddie Fannon, git down an' help him blow. Archie Bruce, how's the water in the tank? Is there any at all?"

"Must be; I see drippin's on the ground."

"Larry Schneider, how's the larder an' the arms?" asked the Executive. "Guard the ammunition. If any copper-face boards the tender, kill him or you lose your own life."

"Ay, ay, Sir," answered Larry, who had read sea novels as well as detective stories. "We have sixteen loaves of bread, a pound of boiled ham, and ten pounds mixed candy. This will last until we get to the Black Hills. There we will get fresh meat for food. We have plenty of ammunition—fifty cartridges for the target rifle and thirty for the revolver."

"It is well," said the Executive. "We leave in thirty minutes. If any have words for their women folk, let 'em be said."

Chorus: "Shucks! We ain't sissies."

And then the two policemen cut short the wildcat trip to the Black Hills and haled eight boys to the station and thence to the rooms of the Children's Society, where there was laid against them on the books the charge of malicious mischief. They said they were: James, Thomas, and Frank Kelly, 220 West Sixty-seventh Street; Edward Fannon, same address; Alexander and Archie Bruce, 219 West Sixty-seventh Street; Arthur Hanson and Lawrence Schneider, 112 Riverside Drive.

Trout Season Postponed to May 1.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—Gov. Hughes this afternoon signed the bill of Assemblyman Mills, recodifying the forest, fish, and game laws of the State. The opening of the trout season is changed from April 16 to May 1, with the exception of a few counties. The new law also provides among other things for a license for resident and non-resident hunters.

On Long Island the brook trout season had already opened, under the old law, the last Saturday in March. The Long Island season remains unchanged and ends Aug. 31.

Czarina Hears American Singer.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14.—Miss Lucille Marcel of New York, soprano of the Opera Comique of Paris, sang before the Empress to-day at Tsarskoe-Selo. Miss Marcel is going soon to England and will sing in London and elsewhere.

6,200 ORPHANS SEE THE CIRCUS

BOYS BRING THEIR OWN BAND

The Pied Piper of New York was out yesterday, and the ancient and classical Pied Piper of Hamelin is not comparable with the New York article when it comes to getting out the children. There were exactly 6,200 little children and big children, children with crutches and children without, that the New York edition of the Hamelin piper brought together at the Barnum & Bailey Circus yesterday afternoon. They came from twenty institutions in the city to enjoy the hospitality of the Barnum & Bailey management.

It was Orphans' Day, and the children came from Brooklyn and Flushing, from the Bronx and from Mott Street. There were big girls and little girls, big boys and little boys, curls and straight hair, brown eyes and blue eyes—it was better than a baby show, for there never was one of these where there was such a host of very happy little people.

The little people came in big automobiles that rich people who wished to have a part in the happy day had lent, and those who did not come in the regular automobiles came in something that they thought was just as good—the street cars given over for the occasion. It was a great day. If you are an orphan and do not have many treats, it is a great thing to have a long ride, and then when there is a wagonload of peanuts, as there was yesterday, outside the door at the circus, and you can have as many as you like handed right out to you as you go in, it seems too good to be true, and then after that, when you see the most wonderful things you ever could dream of, it is so much like a dream that you won't really wake up and know all about it until next day.

That was the way the little orphans felt, and if any one could be prouder than the greater number of them were, it was the lot which came first. These were the small boys, 400 of them, from the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin, and they were the only ones who really were a little circus by themselves. They had their very own band and a big policeman of their very own, who walked ahead of the procession. With every one of the 400 keeping step with the big policeman, they marched around the whole circus ring with their band playing.

All the little girls had brand-new hair ribbons for circus day, even if they were the little Randall's Island girls who dress all alike and wear white aprons. A hair ribbon is more important than a dress anyway. When all the children had been brought into the Garden—the big boys carrying the little slips of girls and the big circus men the poor little cripples who could not walk—it sounded as if an enormous playground had broken loose in the Garden and looked as if some gigantic school was in session. That was until the big circus procession began to march in, and then every one laughed and shouted and had such a good time as no one possibly could in school.

The boys liked the clowns on stilts best. The little girls liked the small animals best, and when the clown came in with the pig squealing at the top of his lungs the little girls squealed almost as loud with delight and sympathy.

BLOW DAZES DON QUIXOTE.

Actor Sothern Gets Whacked in Earnest by One of the Galley Slaves.

While playing Don Quixote at the Lyric Theatre last night Mr. E. H. Sothern got a somewhat more severe taste of actual knight errantry than he had bargained for. In the scene near the end of the first act when the Knight of the Sorrowful Countenance liberates the galley slaves, who later turn upon him, he came near getting a broken head in earnest.

Fred Martin, one of the galley slaves, instead of merely striking the wind in Mr. Sothern's neighborhood, struck him fairly on the side of the head with his flail. Mr. Sothern was dazed for an instant, but continued to the end of the act, which was only a few moments.

Miss Thurber to Give Song Recital.

Miss Marianna Thurber, better known as Mrs. Francis Lansing Pruyn, will appear in a special programme of French, Spanish, and Breton songs at a three-o'clock matinée next Thursday afternoon at the Garden Theatre. She will be assisted by Ernest Perrin of the Theatre des Varietes, Paris. Miss Thurber played the rôle of the maid in "Mrs. Van Vechten's Divorce Dance," when this piece was presented at the Plaza with Kyrle Bellew and Mrs. George Gould in the leading parts.

New Tenor in "A Waltz Dream."

Vernon Stiles, a tenor new to Broadway, will make his first New York appearance on Friday night in "A Waltz Dream" at the Broadway Theatre, succeeding Edward Johnson in the rôle of Lieut. Niki. Mr. Stiles, who has been singing Lieut. Pinkerton in "Madama Butterfly" this season, has been lent to Frank McKee by Henry W. Savage. Mr. Johnson has returned to his oratorio work.

Singers for Helen Noldi Opera Co.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

To-night will be a gala baseball night at the Casino. The American League teams representing New York and Philadelphia are to be the guests of the management.

"The Merry-Go-Round," the first production of the new Circle Production Company, will be seen for the first time in New York at the Circle Theatre next Monday.

A special performance of Mabel Taliaferro in "Polly of the Circus" will be given on Easter Monday for the benefit of the Knights of Columbus.

Julius Hopp's Socialist play, "The Dolls," will be presented to-night by a company of English-speaking players at the People's Theatre on the Bowery.

The White City Amusement Company has been incorporated with a capital of $30,000. Albert H. Woods, Benjamin Swartz, and Mortimer Fishel are the directors.

Nervous Breakdown the Main Cause of Retirements on Pensions.

Neurasthenia, or nervous breakdown, is the most common disease among New York school teachers. This fact is set forth in the annual report just issued by the Secretary of the Board of Retirement of the Board of Education.

Since the Board of Retirement came into existence, nearly three years ago, 345 persons have applied for the benefits of the retirement fund on the plea of service. In most of these cases the length of service was considerably more than thirty years, in many instances more than forty years, and in several more than half a century.

"The principal reason," says the Secretary, "was given as 'neurasthenia,' which claimed 124 applicants; then followed heart disease, 31; rheumatism, 30; indigestion, 15, and deafness, 13."

When the present law became effective, about three years ago, there were on the Teachers' Annuity Roll of New York 702 teachers, 39 men and 663 women. Under the new order of things 24 men and 310 women have been retired, but as 67 annuitants have died within this period there are now a total of 46 men and 923 women, in all 969, participants in the benefits of the fund.

Since Dec. 31, 1904, the fund for the payment of retired teachers has increased from $907,924.37 to $1,196,992.44 on Dec. 31 last. The aggregate annuity of the 969 teachers on the roll is $729,917.88, an average of $754.30. For the last two years the teachers have contributed more than half of the fund.

WILLIE EDOUIN DEAD.

England's Noted Comedian Often Appeared in American Productions.

LONDON, April 14.—Willie Edouin, the English actor, is dead. He had been in failing health since his return from the United States. He was born at Brighton, in 1841.

Willie Edouin, the English low comedian, made his last trip to this country about a year ago, when he appeared in vaudeville. Previously he had appeared as Tweedlepunch in "Florodora."

His first appearance was with his sisters and brothers as a member of "The Living Marionettes" at the Adelaide Gallery in 1849. In 1856 the Edouin family left for Australia. After two years in Australia Edouin came to this country and joined Lydia Thompson's stock company and returned to England with her, playing in "Blue Beard" and "The Babes."

From 1888 to 1894 he appeared at the Strand Theatre under his own management, and then took the Opera Comique and produced the musical comedy, "Newmarket."

Among the notable productions in which he played during the last ten years were "La Poupee," "The Royal Star," "A Bunch of Keys," "Fun in a Photograph Gallery," "Dreams," "Florodora," "The Silver Slipper," "The Girl from Kay's," "Sergeant Brue," "The Little Michus," "The Blue Moon," and "The Little Cherub." After the production of "The Silver Slipper" in England in 1901 he made a trip to South Africa with his own company.

In his career it is said that he appeared in five hundred different characters. He married an American burlesque actress, Alice Atherton.

Obituary Notes.

FREDERICK SMITHSON, manager of the St. George Cricket Grounds, in Hoboken, for more than twenty years, died Sunday at his home, 383 Palisade Avenue, West Hoboken. He was 60 years old.

Capt. CARL EDWARD WILHELM VON LELIVA, Chief Engineer of the Board of Assessors of Yonkers, N. Y., died Monday in Yonkers from gangrene, following an injury. He was 80 years old. He served as Captain of Company C, Fifty-eighth Infantry, in the civil war.

CHARLES C. QUINN died yesterday at his home, 203 West 148th Street, after a brief illness, aged 28 years. An attack of grip three weeks ago in New Haven caused his resignation as general stage director for Julia Marlowe. He was stage manager for Richard Mansfield during the last five years of that actor's career.

STEPHEN T. BRADFORD, one of the oldest coal merchants in Brooklyn, died Saturday at his home, 34 Sterling Place, in that borough. He was 73 years old.

GUSTAV MEINEU, 73 years old, a wholesale dealer in varnishes and brushes at 49 Murray Street, fell dead of heart disease yesterday at Murray and Church Streets.

MRS. EMMA HOPKINS BROCK, who died yesterday at her residence, 306 West Ninety-fourth Street, was the wife of Preston M. Brock and daughter of the late John L. Hopkins of Talbot County, Md. She was formerly of Baltimore, Md.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

FOREIGN EXCHANGE UPAGAIN

There was no outward change in the character of the stock market yesterday from its immediate predecessors, save, perhaps, in the somewhat greater firmness displayed by the general run of stocks. In the point of volume transactions fell below those of Monday, and such business as went forward was again due almost exclusively to the operations of professional speculators. This element found it fully as difficult to depress prices as to advance them materially, and, abandoning such attempts, confined itself altogether to the so-called specialties, stocks which are easily moved owing to the absence of interest in them and their relatively small supply. Such issues were vigorously pushed forward. New York Air Brake rose at one time some 3½ points, American Can only a little less, while such ancient speculative favorites as American Ice and American Grass Twine were singled out and galvanized into temporary activity. All this means only that where the market was active it was wholly devoid of significance. Whatever importance attached to the day's dealings lay in the firmness of the standard shares in the face of absolute neglect. There was practically nothing in the day's budget of news to attract more than passing attention on the Stock Exchange. The Government's usual weekly bulletin on weather conditions in the crop country told of the prevalence of needed moisture over certain areas, and all in all circumstances surrounding the development of the crop were favorable. Some little interest attached to the announcement that the New York Central had determined to increase its rail order, and would shortly sign a contract for an additional 35,000 tons with the United States Steel Corporation, but the general belief still is that with traffic returns continuing so poor as they are at present, orders will be kept down to cover bare necessities. In this connection it became apparent yesterday that the contraction in business is progressing into the Northwest, which until recently had escaped its effects. The Great Northern Railroad reported a decrease of $1,142,000 in gross earnings for the month of March, while the Northern Pacific returns a loss of $683,000 for the same month.

Another rise in the foreign exchange market, bringing demand sterling to $44.87½, was offset in its bearing upon gold exports by a corresponding advance in the Paris cheque on London. This leaves the position for the moment as it was on Monday, but there is little doubt in banking circles that we are on the eve of substantial shipments. Estimates of the probable extent of exports vary widely, but transfers will have to be exceptionally heavy before the money market is at all affected. Quotations on call and time loans were practically unchanged yesterday, but there is a wider demand among the banks for commercial paper, and this is not easily supplied owing to trade conditions. Local banks have gained from the Sub-Treasury since Friday last $2,926,000, while receipts from the interior have likewise been heavy. The Bank of England released $250,000 gold during the day for shipment to Paris.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, April 14.—Trading in the local copper shares was dull again to-day, but with the tendency toward higher prices. American Telephone was again the feature of the miscellaneous list, being active and gaining over a point, selling up as high as 114⅝. The market closed steady and without particular feature.

COPPERS MOVE HIGHER

Boston Consolidated Makes 1 Point Gain and Cumberland-Ely Sells Up on Active Trading.

Curb trading was in better volume yesterday, with a sharp upward turn in prices in many of the issues. Boston Copper was notably strong, gaining 1 point on transactions of 1,150 shares. After opening at 10½, the stock sold at 10⅜, but rose to 11½ at the close. A sudden accession of activity in Cumberland-Ely put the price up from an opening at 8 to 8⅝. The close, after transactions reported at 12,000, was at 8¼. Nevada Consolidated, which usually reflects the course of the other stock controlled by the same interests, sold only 1,800 yesterday, but gained ⅛ on the day, closing at 11½. The Nevada gold stocks were quiet, with narrow price fluctuations.

Short Term Notes
Yielding about
6% to 8%

Short Term Notes are direct obligations of the issuing railroads or other corporations. They represent a temporary method of financing. Sometimes they are secured by pledge of collateral. Some few issues are guaranteed either as to both principal and interest, or as to principal only. Our ten-page circular describes practically all of important Short Term Notes now upon the market.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Continues Apathetic.

It is a perfectly natural tendency to exaggerate the dullness of the market, and in comparisons to minimize the apathy of other periods, but brokers with good memories said that some periods in yesterday's market would bear comparison with any that could be recalled offhand. One particular example that might be cited was Union Pacific, which fluctuated within a range of 1⅛ points during the day. That was doing remarkably well, as a matter of fact, and the stock might be classed as one of the most active on the list. There was even an absence of rumors, and gossip was so colorless that it was scarcely worth while repeating, and usually lost its initial velocity quickly. The customers' rooms of brokers were deserted, and it looked very much as if many of the brokers and many of the traders had constituted the whole week as a holiday time, a fact which the market reflected. The news developments of the day were not sufficiently interesting to stimulate the stay-at-homes.

Some Holiday Theories.

Those who have to do with the market in these days of dullness naturally try to figure out what is likely to be the influence of the two holidays and the three-day interval between the last session of this week and the first session of next week. There are two sets of theorists who take into consideration merely the effect of the limitation of traders' commitments on the market, and accordingly deduce something to buttress their own opinion or position. One party holds that those who are long of stocks will not be desirous of carrying them over for the three days, during which something might develop which would be an adverse influence in the market, consequently there will be liquidation of long stocks, resulting in a reactionary market. The other side holds that at present traders are generally bearish, professionals being particularly antagonistic to the market; therefore, the dominant interest is on the short side and they will limit their commitments over the holidays by covering.

"Inasmuch as I have not the reputation for being bearish, and as I possess a large amount of what I might call fundamental optimism with regard to the country, there is no good reason why I should not repeat what a business man told me the other day, and not be accused of personal pessimism, although the information I voice is not hopeful," said a business man who was taking up some bonds he had purchased through a brokerage office, yesterday. "This man knows more about the oil business than any man I know, and probably as much as any man in the country, and his particular position with his company, which I shall not name, gives him an insight into conditions that is peculiarly clear. He told me that in some departments of his business they were doing about 35 per cent. of normal, and he cited particularly the business done at present with a certain great industrial corporation. This, according to his figures, was just a little over 30 per cent. of what was being done at the corresponding period last year and indicated to his mind the curtailment in the business of that particular industrial corporation. But let me add, that while the statistics he offered indicated the business depression, his own attitude is one of hopefulness for quick improvement."

Investors' Courage Lacking.

One bond man described the situation yesterday as spotty, but he added that the spots were few and far between and according to his chart represented little bursts of incipient activity. He said that his experience led him to believe that just now none of the bond houses believe that business will show distinct improvement in the immediate future, but they are so inured to inactivity that they are beginning to forget how to think in terms of real good business. Just at present there are all sorts of embryonic projects waiting for the reappearance of investment courage, when bonds will be offered for sale which at present would fall flat. The Street brokers, particularly the young fellows who keep in touch with the daily demand and supply, say that although there are some indications which look good, for the most part apathy supervenes.

Labor and Business Factors.

Traders are watching the labor situation carefully. They are afraid that there will be many adverse developments in the next few months, but they are unable just now to determine their speculative value, and consequently find it difficult to make up their minds as to how these prospective happenings should be discounted. Only casual interest is manifested in the money market, but every development with regard to business is scrutinized carefully, and without doubt the most beneficial factor which could be imagined from a stock trader's point of view would be a steady increase in business and a return to the normal. Two customers of one house are in business uptown, one in the feather business and one in the ribbon business. The man in the feather business had no complaint to make. He said that, while his season was shorter than usual, there was no material falling off in the volume of business. The man in the ribbon business said he doubted whether the panic had been a more adverse factor for him than the change in fashion. Feathers and wings cut into his profits more than the general business collapse.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, April 14.—Local trading today was again confined mainly to the bond list, with prices strong. Southern securities were among the most active, though the United Railways and Cotton Duck 5s were in demand, the incomes of the former company advancing ⅝ and the latter also ⅝. Seaboard 10-year 5s were fractionally firmer. Stocks, 110 shares; bonds, $30,000.

BAKING POWDER WAR BEGUN BY THE TRUST

ON NEW GLUCOSE PRODUCT

The Royal Baking Powder interests, which recently purchased the $2,400,000 plant of the Western Glucose Company at Roby, Ind., and organized the American Maize Products Company to manufacture the starch, which is one of the principal constituents of baking powder, and at the same time to enter the glucose market in competition with the Corn Products Refining Company, the $80,000,000 Standard Oil concern, has begun active war on its powerful rival. As a start it announced yesterday that a discount of 15 per cent. on all glucose and other products would be given to customers.

The Corn Products Refining Company has hitherto sold to the Baking Powder Trust all of the starch, which makes up about 85 per cent. of what goes into the baking powder cans, and when it became known that the Royal Baking Powder interests were about to make their own starch and sell their surplus corn products in the Corn Products Refining Company's territory, the Standard Oil interests retaliated by announcing that the Corn Products company would start the manufacture of baking powder.

Both concerns are now busy perfecting the business organization of their enterprises in their new fields. The Corn Products interests have been hiring some of the best practical men of the Baking Powder Trust, and the Baking Powder people have been busy trying to entice customers from their old friends, now their bitter rivals.

It was said at the office of the Corn Products Refining Company yesterday that no action has yet been taken toward undercutting the new concern. The discount of 15 per cent., the Corn Products officers say, does not give consumers any better price than the profit-sharing plan by which the Standard Oil Company allows rebates to its steady customers.

The Corn Products Company, at the beginning of the year, declared "a profit-sharing rebate" of 15 cents on each 100 pounds of the company's products purchased during 1907, but this discount does not accrue to customers until the end of the year, and is payable only to those who continue to buy from the company.

The company had been considering the manufacturing of baking powder for a number of years before the decision to enter the new field was reached a month or so ago as a retaliatory measure against the baking powder interests. They held off only because the management believed that, as they were supplying 85 per cent. of the raw material used by the baking powder manufacturers, little would be gained by entering a new field. The Standard Oil concern has not yet put its baking powder on the market, but one of the company's officers said yesterday that there would not be any great delay in doing so. The Corn Products Refining Company, he explained, already had close relations with the grocery trade through its heavy sales of starch, corn syrup, jams, and jellies, and its sales department boasts that it sells more small package goods over grocers' counters to the buyers of baking powder than all of the manufactures of baking powder put together. The company will put up its baking powder at its starch plants and handle it through its existing selling organization.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Prices opened ¼ to ⅝c higher yesterday on higher cables and good spot demand, but at the close showed ⅝c net loss. Early indications of rain in the drought-stricken region started a sharp-selling movement. That the situation has been serious is attested by diminishing supplies. The rainfall in Kansas for March was the smallest with two exceptions in forty years. Of the 5,930,000 acres in that State given as sown by December's Government report, 4,000,000 are at present said to be in need of rain, while Nebraska and California are in much the same condition. American millers are offering full prices at all points. Exporters took eighteen loads, the largest in many days. No. 2 red wheat in New York closed 99⅛c elevator and 99⅝c free on board afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.07¾, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.04¾ free on board afloat.

CORN.—The future market was a nominal affair yesterday. Sales for exports were two loads. Spot demand was arrested by the want of desirable offerings. No. 2 corn in New York closed nominal in elevator, and 72c free on board afloat; No. 2 white, 72c free on board afloat.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee was much less active yesterday, but there was further switching from near to late months. The market closed steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower. Sales, including exchanges, were reported of 80,500 bags.

The market had rather an irregular opening, June being 5 points lower and other months unchanged to 5 points higher. Havre closed net unchanged and Hamburg ¼ pfennig lower. Rio was 25 reis higher and Santos was unchanged, while receipts were around the recent average. Spot coffee was quiet; 6c for Rio No. 7.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Steady After New Low Records—Closes at 10 to 13 Points Loss.

Cotton made another set of new low records yesterday, all months selling below 9 cents. There was selling as a result of favorable weather over most parts of the belt, pessimistic trade reports, and a belief that supplies unmarketed in the South are much heavier than normal. The close was very steady at a net decline of 10@13 points. Sales were estimated at 275,000 bales.

The market opened easy at a decline of 4@9 points in response to lower cables, and shortly after prices steadied temporarily. There was a withdrawal of selling orders just before the close.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Mon. Close.

NATIONAL RAILROAD COMPANY OF MEXICO:

- Preferred Stock,
- Second Preferred Stock,
- Common Stock (old),
- Deferred Stock.

Referring to our previous notice, dated April 6th, the undersigned have consented to act as Readjustment Managers of a Plan of Readjustment and Union of Mexican Central Railway Company, Limited, and National Railroad Company of Mexico, through the constitution of a new company, under the name of Ferrocarriles Nacionales de Mexico (National Railways of Mexico,) to be controlled by the Mexican Government by stock ownership.

The New Company is to authorize the following bonds and shares:

a. Prior Lien Four and One-Half Per Cent. Sinking Fund Redeemable Gold Bonds, for $225,000,000 United States Gold.

b. General Mortgage Four Per Cent. Sinking Fund Redeemable Gold Bonds, for $160,000,000 United States Gold, unconditionally guaranteed, principal and interest, by the Republic of Mexico, by endorsement on each bond.

c. Non-Cumulative Four Per Cent. First Preferred Shares for 60,000,000 Mexican Gold Pesos or $30,000,000 United States Gold.

To assure to the holders of First Preferred Shares the payment of semi-annual dividends of 1% for the period of three years from January 1, 1908, to the extent to which the net profits of the Company which shall first be applied for that purpose shall not be sufficient to make such payment, provision is to be made for the setting aside by the New Company, as a separate fund, of $1,800,000 Prior Lien Bonds, and $1,200,000 Guaranteed General Mortgage Bonds, or in case of a sale thereof, then a sufficient amount of the proceeds thereof.

d. Non-Cumulative Five Per Cent. Second Preferred Shares for 250,000,000 Mexican Gold Pesos or $125,000,000 United States Gold.

e. Common Shares for 150,000,000 Mexican Gold Pesos or $75,000,000 United States Gold.

NEW TAX SYSTEM FOR BANKS LIKELY

Movement to Recover Back Charges Discloses That the Banks Paid Double.

MAY GET BACK $1,000,000

Bank Surpluses Often Taxed Twice Under Different Forms—Clearing House Banks Interested.

The movement among a large number of the banks in this city to recover taxes which have been paid by them during the last few years has as one of its chief objects, it was learned yesterday, a change in the manner of levying taxes against the banks. In all probability the method pursued by the Tax Department this year, as a result of this movement, will be more in keeping with the views of the banks.

Not all of the back taxes are claimed by the banks to be recoverable because of certain alleged irregularities in the manner in which they were levied, but only so much of them as may be shown to have been in effect duplicate taxes. The amount involved in the claims was placed yesterday by one of those interested at about $1,000,000 for the last three years.

It was pointed out that, in addition to the taxes paid by the banks on real estate, they are assessed under the law at 1 per cent. on the amount of their capital, surplus, and undivided profits. It is declared, however, that real estate holdings by the banks in many instances represent the investment of part of the surplus, and that to the extent to which this is true the banks under the system which has prevailed in the past have really been paying double taxes. All such taxes, it is declared, may be recovered by the banks.

It has been the custom of the Tax Department, it was said, to notify the banks during December of the amount of the tax levied against them with the ruling that the tax must be paid by Jan. 1 following under penalty of a daily fine of $100. Under this arrangement the banks have had no opportunity to present any protests against the amount declared to be due from them in taxes. That the banks will this year have the opportunity to be heard was said yesterday in banking circles to be assured.

The banks which have already become interested in this movement include, it was stated, most of the Clearing House banks. The Clearing House Association as such, however, is not taking any part in the movement.

BONDHOLDERS LOSE.

Judge Lacombe Says Suit Might Be Brought for Wrecking Traction Co.

Anticipating an appeal of the bondholders from the order granting the receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company and the New York City Railway Company permission to issue $3,500,000 of receivers' certificates, constituting a lien upon the property and having priority over the outstanding 4 per cent. bonds, Judge Lacombe of the United States Circuit Court filed a memorandum defining his position in the matter.

Justifying the issuance of the certificates, Judge Lacombe took occasion to say "that it would seem that the lessor company (Metropolitan) might have a good cause of action against the lessee (New York City Company) for waste in allowing the leased property to go to wreck."

Judge Lacombe observes that, as the bondholders expect to appeal from the order authorizing the issue of the $3,500,000 of certificates for funds to properly equip the system, he deems it well to state why the suggestions presented by those opposing the order were not approved. He says the expenditure of large sums for improvements and equipments were absolutely necessary to maintain the property. It was foreseen at the time, he declares, that the expense for betterments would have to be borne by the property, the income being wholly insufficient.

"Such conditions were unfortunate for the bondholders," adds Judge Lacombe, "but there was no help for it, as the property had to be put in proper condition. By restricting the expenditures to the betterment of such property only as is covered by both mortgages, the court has done all it can to protect the bondholders.

"The court is better able to determine the details of expenditures than the bondholders, who are not familiar with the details of the practical operation of the roads, however competent they might be to deal with the legal aspects of the situation."

BUDD REGIME INDORSED.

Conservative Members on Consolidated Exchange Put Up Second Ticket.

The members of the Consolidated Exchange who have been dissatisfied with the action of the regular Nominating Committee in putting out a ticket this year which they think does not properly recognize the present administration have nominated by petition a second ticket, which is headed by President Ogden D. Budd for re-election. One of the objections made to the regular ticket by a large element on the Exchange was that it did not indorse through its selection of candidates the conservative policy put in force two years ago by the existing administration, and the personnel of the new ticket has been chosen with a view to emphasizing the importance of keeping up the bars.

Besides President Budd the candidates for the principal offices on the new ticket are: First Vice President—Aaron De Cordova; Second Vice President—H. G. Romaine; Treasurer—E. R. Grant; Chairman—Valentine Mott; Board of Governors, two years—David E. Levey, Adrian R. Allen, W. B. Valentine, Alexander S. Hackley, J. Frank Howell, R. M. Jarvis, John E. Hoey, W. W. Walsh, Jr., Herbert L. Joeckel; L. B. Wilson; One Year—Adams C. Sumner.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, April 14.—Money was in restricted supply on the market to-day, and discounts were firmer.

The business on the Stock Exchange was of a holiday character, and there was practically no buying. Consols were marked down ¼, but they recovered in the afternoon. Home rails were easy, with Northeastern 2¼ lower on fears of a strike, but the close in this section was firmer.

American securities were depressed by probable new issues, and after a steady opening the market drooped under realizations. New York sent light support in the afternoon, and this caused a slight recovery. The market finished dull. Copper shares and Kaffirs were steady.

Bar silver steady at 25¼d per ounce.

Money, 2@2¼ per cent. Rate of discount in the open market, for short bills, 2¼@2⅜ per cent.; for three months' bills, 2⅜@2¾ per cent.

PARIS, April 14.—The tone on the Bourse to-day was heavy.

Exchange on London, 25f 18c for checks.

BERLIN, April 14.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was stagnant and prices were mostly lower.

Paid in Dividends.

This is equal to over 12% on our outstanding preferred stock from the starting of our mill in 1901 to date.

If all earnings had been used to pay dividends instead of EXPENDED ON THE PROPERTY, they would have equaled over 35%.

produced in bullion which is being now shipped every ten days as it has been for 7 years.

PROFITS.

Our present mill has a capacity of 200 tons per day. In order to increase our output to 1,000 tons per day, thus enabling us to earn and pay five times as much to the stockholders as ever before paid, we have decided to sell a part of our unsold preferred treasury shares at par with a bonus of 50% of common stock free.

This company has the same officers who started development work 12 years ago, and whose holdings are in common stock, which comes after the preferred stock, which has many unique features, making it better than a bond.

Don't make the mistake of thinking that just because YOU are offered this opportunity in this way, it cannot be valuable. When you write we will tell YOU WHY this opportunity is offered to you.

Write us and you will be astonished at the magnitude of the proposition, and the array of self-evident facts presented, demonstrating the ABSOLUTE SAFETY and PHENOMENAL PROFITS you can secure by an investment with us.

KNICKERBOCKER FEES.

Court Hears Attorney General's Protest Against Payments to Receivers.

Deputy Attorney General De Ford appeared before Justice Clarke, in Flushing, yesterday to resist the payment of $75,000 each to the three former receivers of the Knickerbocker Trust Company and the seventy-five-thousand-dollar fee to the receivers' counsel. Julien T. Davies, counsel for the company, appeared to ask that the allowance be confirmed. Justice Clarke took the papers.

NEW YORK TANNING EXTRACT COMPANY.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of this Company will be held at the Company's office, No. 17 Battery Place, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on Thursday, April 30th, 1908, at eleven o'clock A. M., for the purpose of electing nine Directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. Polls will remain open until eleven-twenty.
WILLIAM C. LOW, Secretary.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF NEW YORK TANNING EXTRACT COMPANY:

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the stockholders of said Company will be held at its office, No. 17 Battery Place, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 30th day of April, 1908, at 11:30 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of voting upon a proposition:

(1) To increase the capital stock from the sum of $2,900,000, consisting of 29,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, to the sum of $3,162,500, to consist of 31,625 shares of the par value of $100 each.

(2) To classify into common and preferred stock the authorized increase of capital stock of said Company amounting to $262,500, so that $175,000 thereof shall be preferred stock and $87,500 thereof shall be common stock, said preferred stock to be entitled to preference and priority over the common stock as follows, to wit: To receive cumulative dividends at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in each year, before any dividend on the common stock shall be paid, and upon dissolution, after all the debts of the corporation shall have been paid, the assets, property, and effects shall first be applied to the payment of the said preferred stock at par, with any unpaid accumulations thereon, before any payment is made to the holders of the common stock. The preferred stock shall have no voting power. The Company shall have the option, in the discretion of the Board of Directors, of retiring any part or all of the preferred stock at any time by paying the same off at par, with any unpaid accumulations thereon, and in that event the stock so retired shall be called in from all the holders of preferred stock in the same proportion as near as may be, without making fractional shares. The common stock shall be entitled to all net earnings and profits in excess of the cumulative dividends of six per centum per annum payable on the preferred stock, and in excess of the amount, if any, used for the retirement of preferred stock as above provided.

SUMMONSES.

SUPREME COURT, NEW YORK COUNTY.—PETER KENNEDY, plaintiff, against JOSEPH KENNEDY, James Kennedy, Johanna Reedy, Johanna Reid, individually and as administratrix of the goods, chattels, and credits of Michael Kennedy, deceased; Cornelius Kennedy; Joseph Kennedy, a minor; Peter Kennedy, as administrator of the goods, chattels, and credits of Michael Kennedy, deceased; The Bowery Savings Bank, Mary Bodley, John Kennedy, and all devisees and heirs at law of the said John Kennedy, if he be deceased; Patrick Kennedy, and all devisees and heirs at law of the said Patrick Kennedy, if he be deceased, and also all persons who by purchase or inheritance or otherwise have or claim to have an interest in the premises described in the complaint herein, derived through the said John Kennedy and Patrick Kennedy, or either of them, or his or their widows, devisees, and heirs at law, or through any of them, which widows, devisees, heirs at law, and other persons, if any there be, and their names, are unknown to this plaintiff; and all persons who are or make any claim whatever as executors or administrators of any person who may be deceased, and who, if living, would have any interest in the premises described in the complaint herein, derived through the said John Kennedy and Patrick Kennedy, or either of them, or his or their widows, devisees, or heirs at law, which persons, if any there be, and their names, are unknown to this plaintiff, defendants.

To the above-named defendants:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated New York, October 17th, 1906.
TIMOTHY MURRAY, Attorney for Plaintiff, Office and P. O. Address, 206 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

To the defendants, all the devisees and heirs at law of the said John Kennedy, if he be deceased, and all devisees and heirs at law of the said Patrick Kennedy, if he be deceased, and also all persons who by purchase or inheritance or otherwise have or claim to have an interest in the premises described in the complaint herein, derived through the said John Kennedy and Patrick Kennedy, or either of them, or his or their widows, devisees, and heirs at law, or through any of them, and all persons who are or make any claim whatever as executors or administrators of any person who may be deceased, and who, if living, would have any interest in the premises described in the complaint herein, derived through the said John Kennedy and Patrick Kennedy, or either of them, or his or their widows, devisees, or heirs at law:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. J. A. O'Gorman, a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, dated the 26th day of March, 1908, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, at the County Court House, New York County, on the 3rd day of April, 1908.

The object of this action is to obtain a partition of the following described premises among the owners thereof, according to their respective rights and interests therein, or, if such a partition cannot be made without prejudice to the rights of such owners, then for a sale of said premises under the judgment to be entered in this action, and a distribution of the proceeds of such sale among said several parties entitled thereto, according to their respective rights and interests in said property. The following is a brief description of the real estate and property affected by this action, and for a partition or sale of which this action is brought:

All that lot of land in the City and County of New York, with the buildings thereon, beginning at a point on the southerly side of Mott (now 176th) Street, distant 150 feet westerly from the intersection of the southerly side of said Mott Street and the westerly side of Myrtle (now Park) Avenue; running thence southerly 108 feet to the division line between Lot 71 and Lot 72; thence westerly along said division line 50 feet; thence northerly 108 feet to the southerly side of said Mott Street, and thence easterly along the southerly side of said Mott Street 50 feet to the point of beginning, excepting, however, therefrom all that portion thereof which has been taken for the opening of 176th Street, said premises being known as No. 682 (now 412) East 176th Street.

All those lots of land in the City of New York, County of New York, beginning at a point on the westerly side of Jumel Place, distant northerly 166 feet 3 and ¾ inches from the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of Jumel Place with the northerly side of 167th Street; running thence westerly 100 feet; thence northerly, parallel with Jumel Place, 75 feet; thence easterly 100 feet to the westerly side of said Jumel Place, and thence southerly 75 feet to the point or place of beginning.

All that lot of land in the City and County of New York, with the buildings thereon, beginning at a point in the northerly side of Broome Street, distant 220 feet 8¼ inches easterly from the intersection of the northerly side of Broome Street and the easterly side of Hudson Street, and running thence northerly 84 feet 8¼ inches; thence westerly 22 feet 7½ inches, more or less; thence southerly 84 feet 3½ inches, more or less, to the northerly side of Broome Street; and thence easterly 22 feet 7¼ inches, more or less, to point of beginning, being known as No. 576 Broome Street.

All that lot of land, with the building thereon, situate in the Twelfth Ward of the City of New York, beginning at a point on the westerly side of Pleasant Avenue, distant 80 feet 11 inches northerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the northerly line of 122d Street with the said westerly line of Pleasant Avenue; running thence westerly 100 feet; thence northerly 15 feet; thence easterly 100 feet to the said westerly side of Pleasant Avenue; and thence southerly 15 feet to the point or place of beginning.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale, duly made and entered in the above-entitled action, and bearing date the 6th day of April, 1908, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction, at the Exchange Salesroom, Nos. 14-16 Vesey St., in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 29th day of April, 1908, at 12 o'clock noon on that day, by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold, and therein described as follows:

All that plot of land, with the buildings thereon erected, situate, lying, and being in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the southerly side of One Hundred and Tenth Street, distant one hundred and twenty-five feet easterly from the southeasterly corner of Second Avenue and One Hundred and Tenth Street, running thence southerly and parallel with Second Avenue one hundred feet eleven inches; thence easterly parallel with One Hundred and Tenth Street one hundred and fifty feet; thence northerly parallel with Second Avenue one hundred feet eleven inches to the southerly side of One Hundred and Tenth Street, and thence westerly along the southerly side of One Hundred and Tenth Street one hundred and fifty feet to the point of beginning.

ISAAC F. RUSSELL, Referee.
BOWERS & SANDS, Attorneys for Plaintiffs, No. 31 Nassau Street, Manhattan, New York, N. Y.

The approximate amount of the lien or charge to satisfy which the above-described property is to be sold is $37,616.66, with interest thereon from the 30th day of March, 1908, together with costs and allowance amounting to $372.10, together with the expenses of the sale. The approximate amount of the taxes, assessments, and water rates, or other liens to be allowed to the purchaser out of the purchase money or paid by the referee is $539.21 and interest.

Dated New York, April 8th, 1908.
ISAAC F. RUSSELL, Referee.

SAMUEL GROSSKOPF.—Judge Hough has appointed Walter C. Low receiver in bankruptcy for Samuel Grosskopf, manufacturer of ladies' waists, 70 West Houston Street.

KIRLAND & SCHOENFELD. — Schedules in bankruptcy of Kirland & Schoenfeld, men's furnishing goods, 287 Broome Street, show liabilities $2,035 and nominal assets $1,840.

FILMER ENGRAVING COMPANY.—Schedules in the assignment of the Filmer Engraving Company, 88 Walker Street, show liabilities $12,879, nominal assets $13,546, and actual assets $6,683.

THE CARL A. EVERTZ COMPANY.—Schedules in the assignment of the Carl A. Evertz Company, sample cards, 54 Franklin Street, show liabilities $2,888, nominal assets $11,917, and actual assets $6,860, consisting of machinery, $5,802; merchandise, $718; accounts, $337, and cash, $3.

FANNIE RUBIN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Fannie Rubin, cloak manufacturer, 110 Greene Street, by these creditors: Abram Marcus, $285; Selig Milkowitz, $193, and Ellis Simon, $200. It was alleged that she is insolvent and made preferential payments of $4,000. The business was started in her name on Feb. 1, 1904. She is the wife of Isaac Rubin, against whom, it is said, a petition in bankruptcy was filed on Oct. 10, 1903.

ISAAC MITZMAN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Isaac Mitzman, dealer in dry goods, hosiery, &c., at 224 East 102d Street, by these creditors: Aranow & Cohen, $91; Max Markowitz, $81, and Goldstein-Lukashok Company, $365. It was alleged that he is insolvent, made preferential payments, allowed two city Marshals to seize his stock, and on April 3 disappeared from his place of business and residence. Liabilities are $3,000; assets, $1,000.

CHARLES LILIENFELD.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Charles Lilienfeld, confectioner, 44 Attorney Street, by these creditors: Two Star Confectionery Company, $407; Henry Heide, $219; N. E. Confectionery Company, $110, and Hawley & Hoops, $78. It was alleged that he is insolvent and made preferential payments. Bower & Zalkin, attorneys, said that the liabilities are $12,000 and assets $3,500. An offer of 20 cents on the dollar was turned down by creditors.

ADLER BROTHERS.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Herman S. Z. Adler and Michael Adler, composing the firm of Adler Brothers, manufacturers of automobile clothing, 127 West Forty-second Street, by these creditors: Adolph Schlechterman, $1,000; Sherry Brothers, $122, and Solomon Schild, $22. It was alleged that they are insolvent, made preferential payments of $1,500, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $1,000. They have been in business about four years. Liabilities are $10,000; assets, $5,000.

Moody Corporation Settlement.

The settlement of the Moody Corporation, publisher of Moody's Manual, at 35 Nassau Street, with its creditors, which was confirmed on Monday, provides for the payment of the debts in full in time. Creditors to the amount of $30,000 accepted bonds of a new company called the Manual Publishing Company for the amount of their claims. The other creditors accepted a pro rata share of the proceeds of the accounts receivable, aggregating $19,000, and certificates of indebtedness.

Finished Steel Twist Drills Dutiable at 45 Per Cent.

That finished steel twist drills are properly dutiable under the Dingley tariff as "manufactures of steel," was affirmed yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers when a protest by Frank A. Tasker of New York was overruled.

It was alleged by the importer that the articles should be regarded as dutiable under the provision in the tariff for "steel ingots," &c., with duty at the rate of 4 7-10 cents per pound under Paragraph 135, or else at other rates lower than those assessed. In a special report the local Appraiser states that the articles are fully finished steel twist drills, and, as this testimony was not successfully controverted, General Appraiser Fischer, who writes the decision for the board, says the protest must be overruled.

Relief from high duty on steel in strips demanded by Joseph Wilckes of New York was granted yesterday in a decision handed down by the board. The merchandise was returned for duty as "sheet steel in strips" under the provisions of Paragraph 137. The contention of the importer was that the merchandise should be granted duty under Paragraph 135 at the applicable specific rate according to value per pound. After consideration of the testimony the board reaches the conclusion that the claim of the importer is well taken and should be sustained. The classification imposed by the Collector is reversed.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

Daniel Birdsall & Co. have sold for Adolph Lewisohn the Hunt Building, at the northeast corner of Park Place and West Broadway, a five-story marble-front structure, on plot 75 by 75.2. Upon the expiration of existing leases the new owner will remodel the building, adding another story and fitting it for salesroom purposes.

Big Deals on the Heights.

John H. Berry has sold for C. M. Silverman & Son the Saguenay, a new six-story elevator apartment house at the southeast corner of Broadway and 143d Street, on plot 100 by 100. The buyer is the Bookman estate, which recently purchased through the same brokers the similar adjoining structure at the northeast corner of Broadway and 142d Street, and which now controls the entire block front. The Saguenay has been held at $850,000.

John R. and Oscar L. Foley have sold for Emanuel Dootor the Mansfield, a six-story elevator apartment house, with stores, at the northeast corner of Broadway and 149th Street, on plot 99.11 by 100. The house, which is arranged for thirty-three families, has been bought by an investor. It has been held at $825,000.

To Improve 86th Street Plot.

Finney & Matthews have sold for Mayer S. Auerbach 149 and 151 West Thirty-sixth Street, old buildings, on plot 39.6 by 98.9. The buyer will erect a twelve-story store and loft building on the site.

Richard Sidenberg has loaned $165,000 to Adin G. Pierce and Roswell F. Easton on the property 99 and 101 Fifth Avenue, where an eleven-story store and loft building is to be erected.

Purchase by Insurance Companies.

The City of New York Insurance Company and the New York Plate Glass Insurance Company have bought from Richard Mortimer 68 Maiden Lane, and from Paul Sonntag 91 William Street, two five-story buildings forming an "L" around the northwest corner, with a frontage of 27.1 feet on Maiden Lane and 14.6 feet on William Street. Plans are now being prepared for a new building to be erected on the new plot.

The Cruikshank Company and Joseph D. Cronan have sold for a client 25 Bond Street, a four-story business building, on lot 25 by 114.6, running through to Shinbone Alley. David & Harry Lippmann are the buyers.

New Riverside Drive Residence.

William B. Walker of the American Thermos Bottle Company is the buyer of the lot on Riverside Drive, 75 feet south of Eighty-eighth Street, sold recently by the Rumbough, Wilson & Momand Company several days ago. Mr. Walker will build a five-story American-basement dwelling on the property.

Gibbs & Kirby have sold for A. Baleri to a client for occupancy the three-story dwelling 871 West End Avenue, 20 by 79.3.

West 27th Street Building Leased.

Louis H. Lowenstein has leased for Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to S. B. Goodale & Son, for a long term of years, the five-story building 12 and 14 West Twenty-seventh Street, adjoining the southwest corner of Broadway. Goodale & Son now occupy offices in the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

The Felt Construction Company has leased the store and basement in its new building 114 and 116 West Twenty-seventh Street to the Royal Eastern Electrical Company. Anderson & Co., the Alexander Press, and the Garrett Color Company have also taken space in the building. All these leases are for ten years.

M. & L. Hess have leased for the Pacific Realty Company 3,400 square feet of space in the building 12 and 14 West Thirty-second Street; also, for Henry G. Gabay, the store and basement at 30 and 32 East Twentieth Street; also, for the Felt Construction Company, 4,500 square feet in 114 and 116 West Twenty-seventh Street, and, for Louis Stern, about 45,000 square feet in 157 to 161 West Twenty-ninth Street.

Deal for 124th Street Houses.

Charles Flaum has sold for Hyman Horwitz to C. M. Silverman & Son the three six-story apartment houses 218 to 228 East 124th Street, each 38.8 by 100.

Osorio & Klee have sold for Bernard Oppenheimer 7 West 181st Street, a five-story double flat on lot 25 by 99.11.

Tenant for 125th Street Store.

G. Bretell & Son have leased the store and basement at 224 West 125th Street for Brill Brothers, and for a Mr. Winters to Mandel & Diamond the business building 2,196 Third Avenue. Both leases are for a term of years.

The three-story stable at 66 to 70 West 125th Street, owned by Hurtig & Swartwout, is to be remodeled into a loft building with elevator.

Corner Sold on Cypress Avenue.

R. I. Brown's Sons have sold for George N. Black to Jacob Doll the southwest corner of Cypress Avenue and 183d Street, a lot 25 by 150.

The American Real Estate Company has sold one of its new two-family houses, 1,039 Faile Street, to E. V. Nadherny. Eight of these houses have been sold since Feb. 1.

Kurz & Uren have sold for Antoinetti Baily the five-story flat, on plot 40 by 100, at the northwest corner of Crotona Avenue and 170th Street; also, for Arnold E. Hauser, the northwest corner of Elsmere Place and Daly Avenue, a plot of about five lots.

Buyer for Brooklyn Dwelling.

Burrill Brothers have sold the three-story brownstone dwelling 106 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, between Park Place and Prospect Place, on lot 20 by 105 feet deep, for Mrs. A. Eddy to D. C. Young.

Important to Real Estate Brokers, Buyers, and Sellers

The New York Times Annual Real Estate Review
Sunday, April 26.

The real estate event of the season is the issue of The New York Times Real Estate Review, which deals comprehensively, thoroughly, and interestingly with the most important factor in business life—real estate developments in and near New York. Architects, contractors, home builders, owners of cottages, houses, and bungalows will find The Review of pre-eminent service. The Review will fully deal with the growth of the New York rapid transportation facilities in New Jersey, Long Island, Staten Island, the Bronx, present and prospective, the transit situation from the Subway from Manhattan to Jamaica, hints to investors on building operations of a suburban character, illustrations on floor plans and elevations of bungalows and cottages, ranging in prices to build from $1,000 to $10,000. The business and other effects of concrete construction explained in detail, with other valuable and practical information.

The realty world fully dealt with.

The real estate season is here, and brokers, builders, and advertisers who wish to take advantage of it should avail themselves of the publicity offered by The Real Estate Review.

Space should be reserved without delay.

SURROGATE NOTICES.

HOMAN, SARAH BOURNE.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to ALICE NELSON and ERNEST WAKEFIELD, the heirs and next of kin of SARAH BOURNE HOMAN, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas Russell Homan of Lake Cushman, Mason County, Washington, has lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, dated the 13th day of July, 1884, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of Sarah Bourne Homan, late of the County of New York, deceased, therefore you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 8th day of June, one thousand nine hundred and eight, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Charles H. Beckett, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 9th day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eight.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM OF THE SUPREME Court, held at Part II. thereof, in the County Court House, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 21st day of January, 1908. Present: Hon. Joseph E. Newburger, Justice.—In the matter of the dissolution of LADIES BIKUR CHOLIM SOCIETY.

On reading and filing the petition of ETTIE BRANDON, Anita Piza, Ida A. Mack, and Henrietta Jacobson, a majority of the Directors having the management of the concerns of the Ladies Bikur Cholim Society, a corporation created under the laws of this State, having its principal office located in the Borough of Manhattan, New York City, this State, and the schedules thereto annexed, duly verified by the petitioners on the 14th day of January, 1908; and on motion of Hugo S. Mack of New York, of counsel for the petitioners,

Ordered that all persons interested in said corporation show cause before this court, before Sol Kohn, Esq., who is hereby appointed referee for that purpose, at his office, No. 208 Broadway, on the 1st day of May, 1908, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, why the said corporation should not be dissolved;

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published at least once a week in each week of the three weeks immediately preceding the said 1st day of May, 1908, in two newspapers published in the City of New York, County of New York, to wit, in New York Times, a newspaper published in the City of New York, and in the New York Law Journal.
JOSEPH E. NEWBURGER,

JEWISH PASSOVER BEGINS TO-NIGHT

"Matzos," or Cakes of Unleavened Bread, Recall Haste with Which Israelites Fled from Egypt.

The celebration of the Jewish festival of "Pesach," or the Passover, begins at sunset this evening, and will continue with more or less formality in the Jewish community for the next eight days. This is the first festival of the Jewish ecclesiastical year, beginning on the fourteenth day of the first month, "Nissan," and, according to tradition, was instituted by the Hebrew leader and prophet, Moses, in the sojourn of the children of Israel in the wilderness after their departure from Egypt. It was intended to commemorate the miraculous escape of the chosen people from Egypt, where they had been held in bondage for upward of 400 years.

In Biblical times, "Pesach" was one of the three great festivals of the Jews, when it was incumbent on all adult males of the nation to make a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, there to attend the services at the temple, conducted with great pomp by the high priest and his assistants, and there to make their sacrifices and present their offerings in grateful remembrance of their deliverance from slavery and to celebrate their national freedom. The Paschal lamb was slain on the first day of the festival, and his blood sprinkled on the altar in commemoration of the lamb that by Divine command was slain on the eve of the deliverance of the Israelites from their Egyptian bondage, and whose blood was sprinkled on the doorposts of the houses inhabited by the Jews to distinguish them from those in which their oppressors dwelt, and to protect the Jewish domiciles from the advent of the destroying angel when the first born of the Egyptians were destroyed and those of the Jews escaped.

The special feature of the celebration of "Pesach" is the substitution of "matzos," or unleavened cakes for bread, in the households of conforming Jews, and hence the festival has been designated as the Feast of Unleavened Bread. These "matzos" are cakes composed of flour and water, prepared in a peculiar manner without yeast or baking powder, and baked quickly in a very hot oven, the entire process being under the supervision of rabbis designated for the purpose. The "matzos" are intended to represent the bread baked by the Israelites in their hurried departure from Egypt, when their preparations for the exodus were not complete. The dough, which they had prepared for bread on their journey, had had no time to leaven, when the hour of their departure came.

The first night of the festival is marked by the celebration of the "Seder" service, a form supplemental to the regular festival synagogue service. It is made the occasion of a family reunion, when all the members of the family and as many guests as can be accommodated gather about the table, which is laden with matzos, wine, and other accessories of a feast. When all are assembled the wine cups are filled and the head of the household reads or recites the "Hagadah" or "Seder" service. The "Hagadah" contains a narrative of the captivity of the Israelites in Egypt and their deliverance from bondage, under the leadership of Moses. This is read or recited in the original Hebrew, or an English translation is used. The members of the family gathered about the board join in the responses and unite in the singing of hymns of praise and thanksgiving to the divine liberator of their ancestors.

While the festival continues for eight days the first and last days only are of special import. This evening and to-morrow morning all the Jewish places of worship will be open for services.

Talesmen Closely Examined as to Their Political Beliefs and Newspaper Reading.

POLICE WITNESSES EXCUSED

The work of getting a jury to try the case of the People against George B. McClellan, Mayor, with W. R. Hearst impleading, on the quo warranto proceedings brought by Attorney General Jackson, the outcome of which is expected to show whether George B. McClellan or William Randolph Hearst was elected Mayor of New York in November, 1905, proceeded slowly yesterday. When court adjourned in the afternoon there were nine jurymen in the box, leaving three yet to be selected.

As on Monday the examination of the talesmen was most thorough. Nearly every man called was put through a searching questioning, in which he had to tell what papers he read, whether he knew any politicians, whether he did business with the city, what party he was affiliated with, whether he knew either the Mayor or Mr. Hearst or any of the attorneys engaged on either side.

As soon as court convened yesterday George L. Sterling, an Assistant Corporation Counsel, asked Justice Lambert, in behalf of the Police Department, if it would be possible to relieve some of the Police Inspectors, Captains, and Lieutenants who had been subpoenaed as witnesses from daily attendance upon the court. There are over 100 men, Mr. Sterling explained, with blotters from station houses, who are being kept from doing duty, and he suggested that Commissioner Bingham should have forty-eight hours' notice in which to produce such police officers and blotters when they are needed, thus making it possible to keep many of the men on duty until within a short time before their appearance in court.

Clarence J. Shearn, special counsel, representing the Attorney General, suggested that twenty-four hours' notice to the Police Commissioner would be sufficient.

"It requires some time to attend to these matters," said Mr. Sterling.

"Why," said Justice Lambert, "you can get a police station on the telephone and order the production of these blotters in ten minutes," and he ruled that twenty-four hours' notice was sufficient.

The police question settled, the examination of talesmen began. Marcus B. Bailey, a salesman of 826 Hewitt Street, who knows William F. Cody, (Buffalo Bill,) was peremptorily challenged by Mr. Richards, leading counsel for Mayor McClellan, who alluded to the separation action of the Howard Goulds in his questions. Mr. Shearn is Mrs. Gould's lawyer.

Frank Knapp, a real estate broker of 570 Park Avenue, said he had an impression about the present controversy once upon a time, but that the impression had worn off. He hesitated when Mr. Shearn asked him what his feelings toward Mr. Hearst were.

"Why do you hesitate?" asked Mr. Shearn.

"Well, I don't like the way his papers come out," answered Mr. Knapp. "I do not like so much red ink on them. But I have no feelings against Mr. Hearst personally."

"Do you know Sheriff Foley?"

"Yes, I knew him when I ran a lodging house in the Bowery. That was in Divver's time. In the split between Divver and Foley I supported Foley."

"Do you think that you would be able to divert your mind in a case like this?"

"I am afraid not."

"You would be on the lodging house side?"

"I am afraid that I would," answered the talesman, who a moment later in answer to another question said he did not know whether it was the election time, or the weather that used to increase the numbers of his lodgers in election years. Mr. Knapp was excused.

Louis P. Hall, a clerk in a Wall Street broker's office, the next man called, said he did not think the Supreme Court a proper place to count ballots.

"What do you mean?" asked Mr. Shearn, addressing Mr. Hall.

"You do not think the Supreme Court the best and safest place to count them?"

"I do not."

Mr. Hall was excused, after he testified that several city employes did business with the firm that he worked for.

Herman A. Curiel, a fruit importer of 1,425 Broadway, said he was certain he could give a fair and proper verdict, and that he was not prejudiced against either Mr. Hearst or Mayor McClellan. He was accepted as Juror No. 6. Arthur F. Scofield of 201 West 106th Street was in the same receptive frame of mind as Mr. Curiel, and he became Juror No. 7.

Richard P. Morris of Tefft, Weller & Co. had a fixed opinion as to the merits of the case and was excused, but it was different with Samuel Lawson, the proprietor of the Hotel Clarendon. Mr. Lawson went on the stand laughing, and he left it still hilarious. When Mr. Richards objected to him, Justice Lambert said:

"Well, if you take him seriously, I will sustain the exception."

"Yes, by sight."

"What papers do you read?"

"THE TIMES, The World, and The Herald."

George Wickes, a salesman, of 215 West 116th Street, thought Mr. Hearst should have a recount. His papers are The American and The Evening Sun. He was excused. Gustav Speckel was sure he could not enter the box with a free and unbiased mind and was excused. George Palen, a real estate broker, of 192 Broadway, created a stir when he said that he did not have a very high opinion of Attorney General Jackson.

"What papers do you read?" asked Mr. Shearn.

"Yes, I am prejudiced against Mr. Jackson, but that would not have any effect in this case. I am prejudiced against him from what I have heard and read about him in regard to matters entirely foreign to this suit."

Mr. Palen was accepted as Juror No. 8.

John H. Devoe, who is a builder, living in Jesup Place, in the Bronx, said he read THE NEW YORK TIMES, and that he was confident he could render a just verdict. He was accepted as Juror No. 9. George M. Rogers, a chair manufacturer of 114 Fifth Avenue, thought Hearst entitled to a recount and was excused. The court then adjourned until 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The jurymen now in the box are Frederick Masten, a retired journalist, of 230 West Ninety-fifth Street; Thomas J. McKenna, a contractor, of 2,272 Broadway; Frank C. Monair, a real estate broker, of 207 Dyckman Street; Arthur B. Corthell, a civil engineer, of 314 Madison Avenue; Frederick W. Schwiers, a coal dealer, of 2,750 Webster Avenue; Herman A. Curiel, a wholesale fruit dealer, of 1,425 Broadway; Arthur J. Scofield, a cashier, of 201 West 106th Street; George Palen, a real estate dealer, of 192 Broadway, and John H. Devoe, a builder, of Jesup Place, the Bronx.

MAY SELL ITS OWN COPPER.

The American Smelting and Refining Company, which has been selling its output of copper through the United Metals Selling Company, the selling agency of the Amagamated Copper interests, practically ever since the formation of the company in 1900, is considering the establishment of a selling agency of its own. The Smelting Company's contract with the Metals Selling Company expires before May 1, and no steps have yet been taken to renew it.

This step will be taken, it was stated yesterday on authority, merely as a matter of business economy and not because of any change in the friendly relations which have existed between the Guggenheim interests and the Amalgamated Copper Company. The Smelting Company's production is the second largest production handled by the United Metals Selling Company, and this output will be greatly increased upon the full operation of the Nevada mines controlled by the Guggenheims, including the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company and the Cumberland-Ely.

Rumors that control of the Smelters had passed to the Amalgamated Copper interests have been in circulation during the last year or two. The proposal not to renew the company's contract with the United Metals Selling Company was taken as conclusive proof yesterday that there had been no basis for these reports.
